CHIEF JUSTICE TAFT spent his seventieth birthday yesterday with his family in Quebec. He is a good American, a just and learned judge, a good natured man, liked by more than a hundred millions of his fellow citizens.

If, like Theodore Roosevelt, he had given all his thoughts and good ideas direct to the people, instead of telling them to friends only, he would not have been beaten for President the second time.

THE London Evening News got excited yesterday and used a seven-column headline on the news, that "Henry Ford plans to spend $40,000,000 on a rubber empire," to compete with the present British monopoly on rubber. Henry Ford, it is alleged, will extend his land holdings in rich rubber land of Para to 2,800,000 acres. That will amuse Ford. He is busy with things nearer home than Para.

AMERICANS beat the British at polo, easily the first game, less easily the second. Three of the four American players are past 40 years of age. Milburn, the captain, backbone and keystone of the team, is 46, born in 1881.

That Americans nearly 50 years of age, playing the hardest, most exhausting, dangerous game, can beat younger men, the pick of Great Britain, is more important to the country than any athletic victory. The British can find consolation in Milburn's victory, for John Milburn, his father, was born in England.

WILD, gay times in Wall Street yesterday, poor bears wondering if higher and higher prices will go on worrying them forever. General Motors, which some poor geese were selling recently at 225 "for a quick turn," closed at 267⅞. They get the quick turn. United States Steel went up four points to 155⅝. Call money dropped to 3½ per cent., many stocks "went wild," spouting up new high prices, and so forth and so on. But don't gamble, you can't win at that.

CHICAGO'S hot wave, having killed several, traveled eastward to New York, creating a September 15 high heat record for all time in the big city. New York has complained for months of too little sunshine and now complains of too much of it and too hot. It has been a queer season in many parts of the world, sun spots perhaps.

OR IT may be "etheron," so small it makes an atom look like a mountain, traveling nearly 100,000 miles further per second than light.

That etheron may be the missing link that explains gravitation.

Newton formulated, but could not explain or account for his "directly as the mass, inversely as the square of the distance."

NORMAN THOMAS, Socialist leader, wonders what Walker and Mussolini could have talked about. They talked of many things, including, probably, the best and surest ways to get and hold control of public opinion.

THE late Thomas Watson, of Georgia, who won his seat in the Senate by appealing to religious prejudice, said to this writer: "The whole secret of success in public speaking and in all politics, is to remember that it is impossible to exaggerate the stupidity of the public."

Mussolini and Walker would probably say "it isn't impossible, but difficult."

EIGHTEEN flying machines will carry prosperous prize fight "fans" from New York to Chicago on a round trip "hop." Seats within sight of the ring can no longer be had. Any man possessing 500 good seats could undoubtedly get a quarter of a million dollars for them—$500 each. Such are prosperity and civilization in 1927.

THREE PITTSBURGH BOYS ESCAPE FROM JAIL

CLARION, Pa., Sept. 16.—With bullets fired by a woman whizzing past them, three Pittsburgh youths, arrested in that city last Saturday and brought here, made a daring escape from the county jail here last night after overpowering the wife of Sheriff John S. Sloan, who is also jail matron.

It was Mrs. Sloan, who was in charge of the jail at the time of the escape, who fired the shots. The boys are suspects in a score of service station and automobile robberies in Butler, Clarion

PIRATES AIM AT 9 IN ROW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

Although the Pirates have squared that Boston account in no uncertain way, the Oaklanders were not in any mood to let up this afternoon as the two clubs prepared to meet in their last battle of the season. Before the Braves reached the city there was much apprehension as to what they would do to Our Boys, but they have been K.O'd five times in a row, and the Bushwhackers think they have another sock ready for the Tribe.

Before the series with Boston, the Pirates took three straight games from Philadelphia, and victory today would boost the non-stop win flight to nine.

Now that the eight double shindigs in St. Louis are matters of history, it is to the point to state that the results were tailor-made so far as the Pirates were concerned. The "Kilkenny Cat" act staged by the Giants and Cardinals enhanced the lead of the Pirates gorgeously. Before the New York and St. Louis rivals went to the mat in the three doubleheaders, the Pirates were leading by two games. At the finish of the three twin bills, the Buccos were out in front with a lead of four and one-half games, the margin they enjoy today.

It was quite obvious that the fur would fly in the six battles on the banks of the Mississippi. The strained situation was due in a large manner to the fact that Rogers Hornsby plays second base for the Giants, while Frank Frisch was in a similar capacity for the Redbirds. No quarter would be asked or given under the circumstances. And the Pirates

Fliers Over Sea in Dublin-N. Y. Hop

By International News Service.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—The transatlantic plane, Princess Xenia, in which Capt. R. H. MacIntosh and Commandant James C. Fitzmaurice are attempting a non-stop transatlantic flight, was well out over the Atlantic, bearing due west for Newfoundland at 4:20 o'clock today.

The plane had not been sighted since 2:02 o'clock when it passed over the Renmore coast guard station on the west coast of Ireland. Weather reports indicated the flyers were experiencing good weather.

The plane made a splendid takeoff, getting into the air at 1:39 p. m. local time. It carried a heavy load including 720 gallons of gasoline.

Undeterred by the tragic fates which have overcome the other recent transatlantic planes, Capt. MacIntosh had gone steadily ahead with plans for his flight, awaiting only favorable weather reports over the Atlantic to take his monoplane, the Princess Xenia, into the air.

EXPECT 26-HOUR JAUNT

Capt. MacIntosh is piloting the plane, while Commandant Fitzmaurice of the Irish Free State air force acts as navigator. The latter obtained special leave in order to make the flight.

The fliers announced they will steer a direct course for Newfoundland, which will take them over the Great Circle route, on a course slightly south by west. If favored with good luck, the aviators thought they might possibly reach New York in 28 hours.

The Princess Xenia carries no wireless equipment. A flare pistol for signaling in case of distress and a tiny pneumatic rubber boat were included in the plane's equipment, however.

"With luck, we will do it," Capt. MacIntosh declared just before the start. "We are steering a direct course for Newfoundland and expect to reach New York in 26 hours.

"The weather reports indicate better conditions than have existed for a long time, and that is as good as we can expect."

The monoplane is a Fokker, powered with a 450-horsepower Bristol Jupiter, nine-cylinder motor. The Princess Xenia is fueled for 40 hours' flying.

WEATHER FAVORABLE

With the plane capable of averaging 100 miles an hour, the two aviators expected to reach New York some time early tomorrow afternoon.

Both MacIntosh and Fitzmaurice had been at the Baldonnel Airdrome since early this morning, studying weather reports and ocean charts. They were informed that weather and wind were the most favorable for an east-to-west ocean flight in many weeks. The flyers made instant decision to start as soon as the plane could be made ready.

The big monoplane was pulled out of the hangar, taken to the edge of the flying field and its tanks filled with gasoline and oil. The motor was then given its final test.

The weather, which had been bright and sunny during the morning, became slightly overcast at noon, but Capt. MacIntosh decided against any further postponement of the flight.

Someone Must Take Risks---MacIntosh

DUBLIN, Sept. 16.—Capt. R. H. MacIntosh, British war ace, who hopped off today on the trail of death that leads westward over the Atlantic, scorns the recent public agitation against trans-ocean flights.

Just before the Princess Xenia took the air from Baldonnel Airdrome, MacIntosh said:

"I still am convinced that this flight is one that should be made in the interests of aviation. It is not a foolhardy flight. I have taken every precaution. Someone must take the risks if there is to be progress."

RUTH EXONERATED

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP.)—A charge of assault brought against George Herman "Babe" Ruth, slugging Yankee outfielder, by a man who asserted Ruth had attacked him on Broadway, was dismissed today.

A crowd of Ruth's admirers greeted the dismissal with cheers. A hundred hands reached for the bulky frame of Ruth, lifted him to shoulders and carried him triumphantly from West Side Court.

The charge against Ruth was brought by Bernard Niemeyer, an interior decorator. At a hearing last week, Niemeyer told of passing along Broadway near the Alamac Hotel, rendezvous of ball players, on the evening of July 4.

Two women passed him, Niemeyer said, and then a man came along. The man, whom he did not know, accused him of accosting the two women and struck him "a terrible blow in the eye." Niemeyer said he was told the man was Ruth, and at the hearing he identified Ruth, saying "I shall never forget his face, his physique and his dog-trot walk."

K.O.'D TO DENTISTRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP.) Knocked out in two minutes and 30 seconds, William LaMance, sophomore at Centre College, today was bent on a career in dentistry, having abandoned ambitions to shine in pugilism.

His father, the Rev. William N. La Mance, Methodist evangelist of Beulah, Mich., trained his son for the ring and came here to see if he was of championship fighting caliber. Joe Sturino of New Rochelle, known as "Iron Horse," convinced the father in an amateur show at Long Island City.

At the start of the bout William landed a few stout jabs, but with only a few seconds of the first round remaining, "Iron Horse" brought one around from nowhere to William's jaw and William went down and out for five minutes.

"I feel kind of funny," William grinned at his father as he climbed out of the ring later on.

"You should," said his father, smiling, "but you needn't any more—that way. I don't think we're going to fight any more."

Which means that William will study dentistry, that being his father's choice of a profession for him.

MYSTERY IN FINDING DYING MAN ALONG ROAD

FINDING OF DYING MAN MYSTERY

Mystery today shrouded the finding of a dying man, about 30, by the side of the Renzie road in Elizabeth township, near the fashionable Youghiogheny Country Club.

County officials indicated the tragedy may have climaxed a gay party in which at least two women and two other men participated.

The victim died at the McKeesport Hospital without regaining consciousness. Physicians said his injuries indicated he had been either thrown from an automobile or crushed beneath one.

Bearing out this theory was the fact that a battered automobile was driven to the office of Dr. H. D. Arthurs, 637 Walnut street, McKeesport, where the injured man had been taken previously by three Negroes, who found him by the road. Two women and one man were passengers in the car. One man was seen to leave it just before it reached the doctor's office. These people questioned Dr. Arthurs about the victim. When advised he had been removed to the hospital they declared their intention of going there. They never arrived.

The victim was coatless when found. There was nothing in his clothing to indicate his identity. The body was removed to the morgue.

An autopsy revealed the victim died from a fractured skull. He also had suffered a broken leg and internal injuries.

PA. MAN SLAIN IN MEXICO

J. B. Fisher, superintendent of freight transportation of the Pennsylvania Railroad, with offices here, will go to Mexico to probe the death of his brother, David F. Fisher, American railway clerk, of Guadalajarajal, Mexico, shot to death in his office by a Mexican employe, September 14.

A native secretary to a railroad official is under arrest in the shooting, according to a telegram received here last night by Mrs. J. B. Fisher.

A post-mortem examination was ordered by Mexican authorities, who will not permit removal of the body for five years because of a law forbidding such transportation when an autopsy is performed.

The slain man was a former engineer of the Pittsburgh division of the Pennsylvania Railroad and stenographer to the general superintendent in Altoona 20 years ago. He was transferred from the latter position to Philadelphia and then to New York, later going to the Panama Canal zone and recently to Mexico City.

Fisher's widow resides in Hollidaysburg, Pa. His mother lives in Harrisburg. He also leaves another brother, Charles F. Fisher of Harrisburg, Pennsylvania Railroad passenger engineer.

SUITS LOOM FOR TAX RECEIPTS

This action followed the complaint of Alderman John H. Carr, of the Fourth Ward, to Controller C. C. McGovern, that, armed with signed orders from the prospective voters, he had applied for the receipts and been refused.

The controller inserted the squabble into his public audit of the county's business, and when the afternoon session was about to start, some 200 Oakland residents were packed in McGovern's office and in the corridors of the Court House. Six of them had testified at the early session and later had been granted receipts by Deputy Treasurer James Costella. But the others had been refused again.

They testified they had been incorrectly informed that they had not

The witnesses were Mrs. Elizabeth Murphy, 2616 Whitney street; Francis E. Breneman, 341 Oakland avenue; Mrs. Annie Hurley, 2334 Frazier street; Frank Selars, 146 Robinson street; Mrs. Bertha Wiegle, 3353 Parkview avenue, and D. Carter, Negro, acting for William Lee, blind Negro, 2118 Watson street.

DISCLAIMS JURISDICTION

Foster denied having any jurisdiction over the office of the delinquent tax collector, even though he makes the appointment. Foster said the delinquent tax collector was allowed to run his office in his own way without any supervision other than the controller's office. Foster declared that if McGovern would show him a way to collect the taxes now, he would be more than willing to do it. A conference was scheduled between the treasurer and controller for this afternoon.

Efforts were made to learn what happened to the election payrolls stolen from McGovern's office with the resumption of the regular audit hearing. J. L. Lowry, former deputy controller, who was discharged by McGovern at the time the rolls were discovered missing, was questioned at great length on this score. Lowry averred he had never seen the payrolls and did not know anything about them.

It was brought out that Lowry was on three election payrolls in 1926—the spring primaries, the returning board and the general election rolls. He could not remember the exact amounts he received, but judge they approximated $50 in at least two instances. McGovern developed that Lowry had approved a voucher for $6,500, payable to James Routley, commissioners' clerk, in November of 1926, for election pay and that the warrant was cashed a day before the election.

DISCUSS MISSING PAYROLLS

Wallace W. Shaw, former billing clerk for the controller, was also questioned about the missing rolls and about the work he did to get election pay. Shaw averred he had not seen the rolls and while in the controller's office had tried to find them for the auditor.

Samuel Eads, chief county assessor, was shown a letter from John G. Hosick of 425 Pittsburgh street, Springdale, charging Thomas Farrell, former assessor, with graft and inefficiency. Eads testified that Farrell was fired by George J. Schad, president of the board for the assessment and revision of taxes, for inefficiency. Politics did not enter the discharge, he said.

At yesterday's audit session, after the Controller had asked Common Pleas Court in a special report to remove the three county commissioners for "delinquencies and defaults" and submit them to grand jury investigation, he was successful in locating an elusive election payroll which he had sought to pry from James Routley, assistant chief clerk to the commissioners. But it came from Assistant County Solicitor William Jacobs, who testified that he had procured it from the commissioners' statistical records. It proved to be much the same as the five payroll records which Routley had presented.

Routley testified and was cross-examined by Attorney Fred K. Beutel, counsel for McGovern. Routley was instructed to return today with copies of the five payroll records he previously had submitted.

In the special report to Common Pleas Court, which McGovern used as a vehicle to carry his request for removal of the commissioners, he said he was proceeding under an act of 1834. That act provides for removal from office of officials guilty of certain delinquencies. McGovern charges the commissioners are guilty of acts covered in the ancient law.

COOLIDGE IS INVITED HERE

callers cordially and expressed a desire to attend the celebration if his official duties will permit. He said he would take the invitation under consideration and advise officials of the institute later. The invitation also contemplates an address by the chief executive.

Pennington Lauded at Testimonial Luncheon

"Higher-up" interference with the work of Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington would be regarded in Western Pennsylvania as disloyalty to the Republican party and to the laws of the nation, Representative D. Glenn Moore, of Washington county, speaking for the country districts, declared today in one of the half dozen addresses at the testimonial dinner to Commander Pennington.

Representative Moore, who led a fight for election reform at the last Legislature, was one of a half dozen speakers, including Commander Pennington. Mr. Moore said in part:

"Commander Pennington has done two things mighty unusual, in my estimation: He has won and held the confidence of the people of the country districts as an honest and able prohibition administrator. Then, he has put the fear of God in the hearts of the liquor violators and made the business mighty expensive for them and profitable for Uncle Sam.

"I speak to you today as a Republican—a dyed-in-the-wool Pennsylvania Republican. Our last national platform contains a strong law enforcement plank. We believe it means what it says. We believe Mr. Pennington is doing what he is supposed to do and is doing it well. We are for him and we will look upon any higher-up interference with his excellent work as an act of disloyalty to our party and to our laws."

Dr. F. Scott McBride, national superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League and Wayne B. Wheeler's successor at Washington as legislative executive, said:

"Prohibition is entitled to a chance in the hands of its friends. The dry law can not be expected to be successful when enforcement machinery is placed in the hands of men who are opposed to prohibition. It would be as sensible to expect an automobile thief to enforce the law against auto thefts. Wherever we have officials who want prohibition to work, it will work far too well for the comfort and safety of liquor law breakers.

"And we need friends of the law who will give organized support to such officers. Prohibition officers are soldiers of the republic sworn to uphold its laws regardless of the risks that must be run. To be effective in the face of organized crime and lawlessness, the support to which every loyal officer is entitled must also be organized."

Assistant Secretary Lowman spoke of Pennington as follows:

"I am often amused at the attitude some people take toward a public official who is charged with the enforcement of some law they do not like. They look upon him as the instigator of all their troubles. That is where the real test of an executive comes in. I am glad Commander Pennington has the tact and courage to meet his public responsibilities.

"Commander Pennington ranks high in the prohibition department. He seems to have so conducted himself and his difficult job as to merit the praise of many people. He knows his duty as a public official and does it, having proper regard for the rights of the citizens."

Dr. Homer W. Tope, Pennsylvania superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, also spoke.

Commander Pennington, in his address, summarized the organization, methods and accomplishments of his office during the last year, declared he faced the new year in the hope that it would be "the best and most successful of law enforcement" yet seen in this district, and concluded by introducing the members of his staff.

60-DAY DRY TERM GIVEN TO MILLER RUN WOMAN

SOMERSET, Pa., Sept. 16.—(Special.)—Mrs. Paul Franeck of Miller Run was fined $100 and sentenced to 60 days in jail here after being convicted of violating the liquor laws and destroying evidence when officers raided her home. Her husband was ordered to pay the costs and was fined $100.

FATALITIES DUE TO HEAT

There were a mounting death list and many prostrations in other sections of the East.

The highest temperature today, weather bureau officials predicted, would be in the upper eighties and the night would bring appreciable relief. Tomorrow, they indicated, would be "quite comfortable."

These prognostications were made in the face of the fact that the mercury had a start of 71 degrees when it began its ascent from the low point of the last 24 hours at 6 o'clock. The 71 was maintained for two hours during the early morning, 6 to 8, and by 10 thermometers at the weather bureau recorded a 74 and "still rising."

Hospitals reported the third death this morning. The victims listed late yesterday were Joseph Korzianik, 39, of Broughton, who died while working in the unloading of a freight car, and John Kovita, 48, 1107 Laurel street, who died in the Presbyterian Hospital from heat prostration, superinduced by alcoholic poisoning, the death report said. Samuel Hausinger, 71, of Washington street, was found dead in bed at 7 o'clock this morning.

The record temperature for September in Pittsburgh was in 1881, when the mercury hit 102. Yesterday official thermometers showed 91, plus, and high humidity added to the suffering of residents in the congested districts.

Several schools in various parts of the city were dismissed today because of the heat, although no general order from the Board of Education was issued. The pupils dismissed were mainly those housed in the portable sheet-metal buildings which the sun's rays transformed into veritable ovens.

Classes in the grade schools of Oakdale were dismissed yesterday afternoon on account of the heat. Assistant Supervisor Miss Edna Richards dismissed the 250 pupils when the mercury climbed to 93 early in the afternoon. High school pupils, under direction of Supervisor Harry Stewart, used the big auditorium with high ceiling and were able to go through their usual classes.

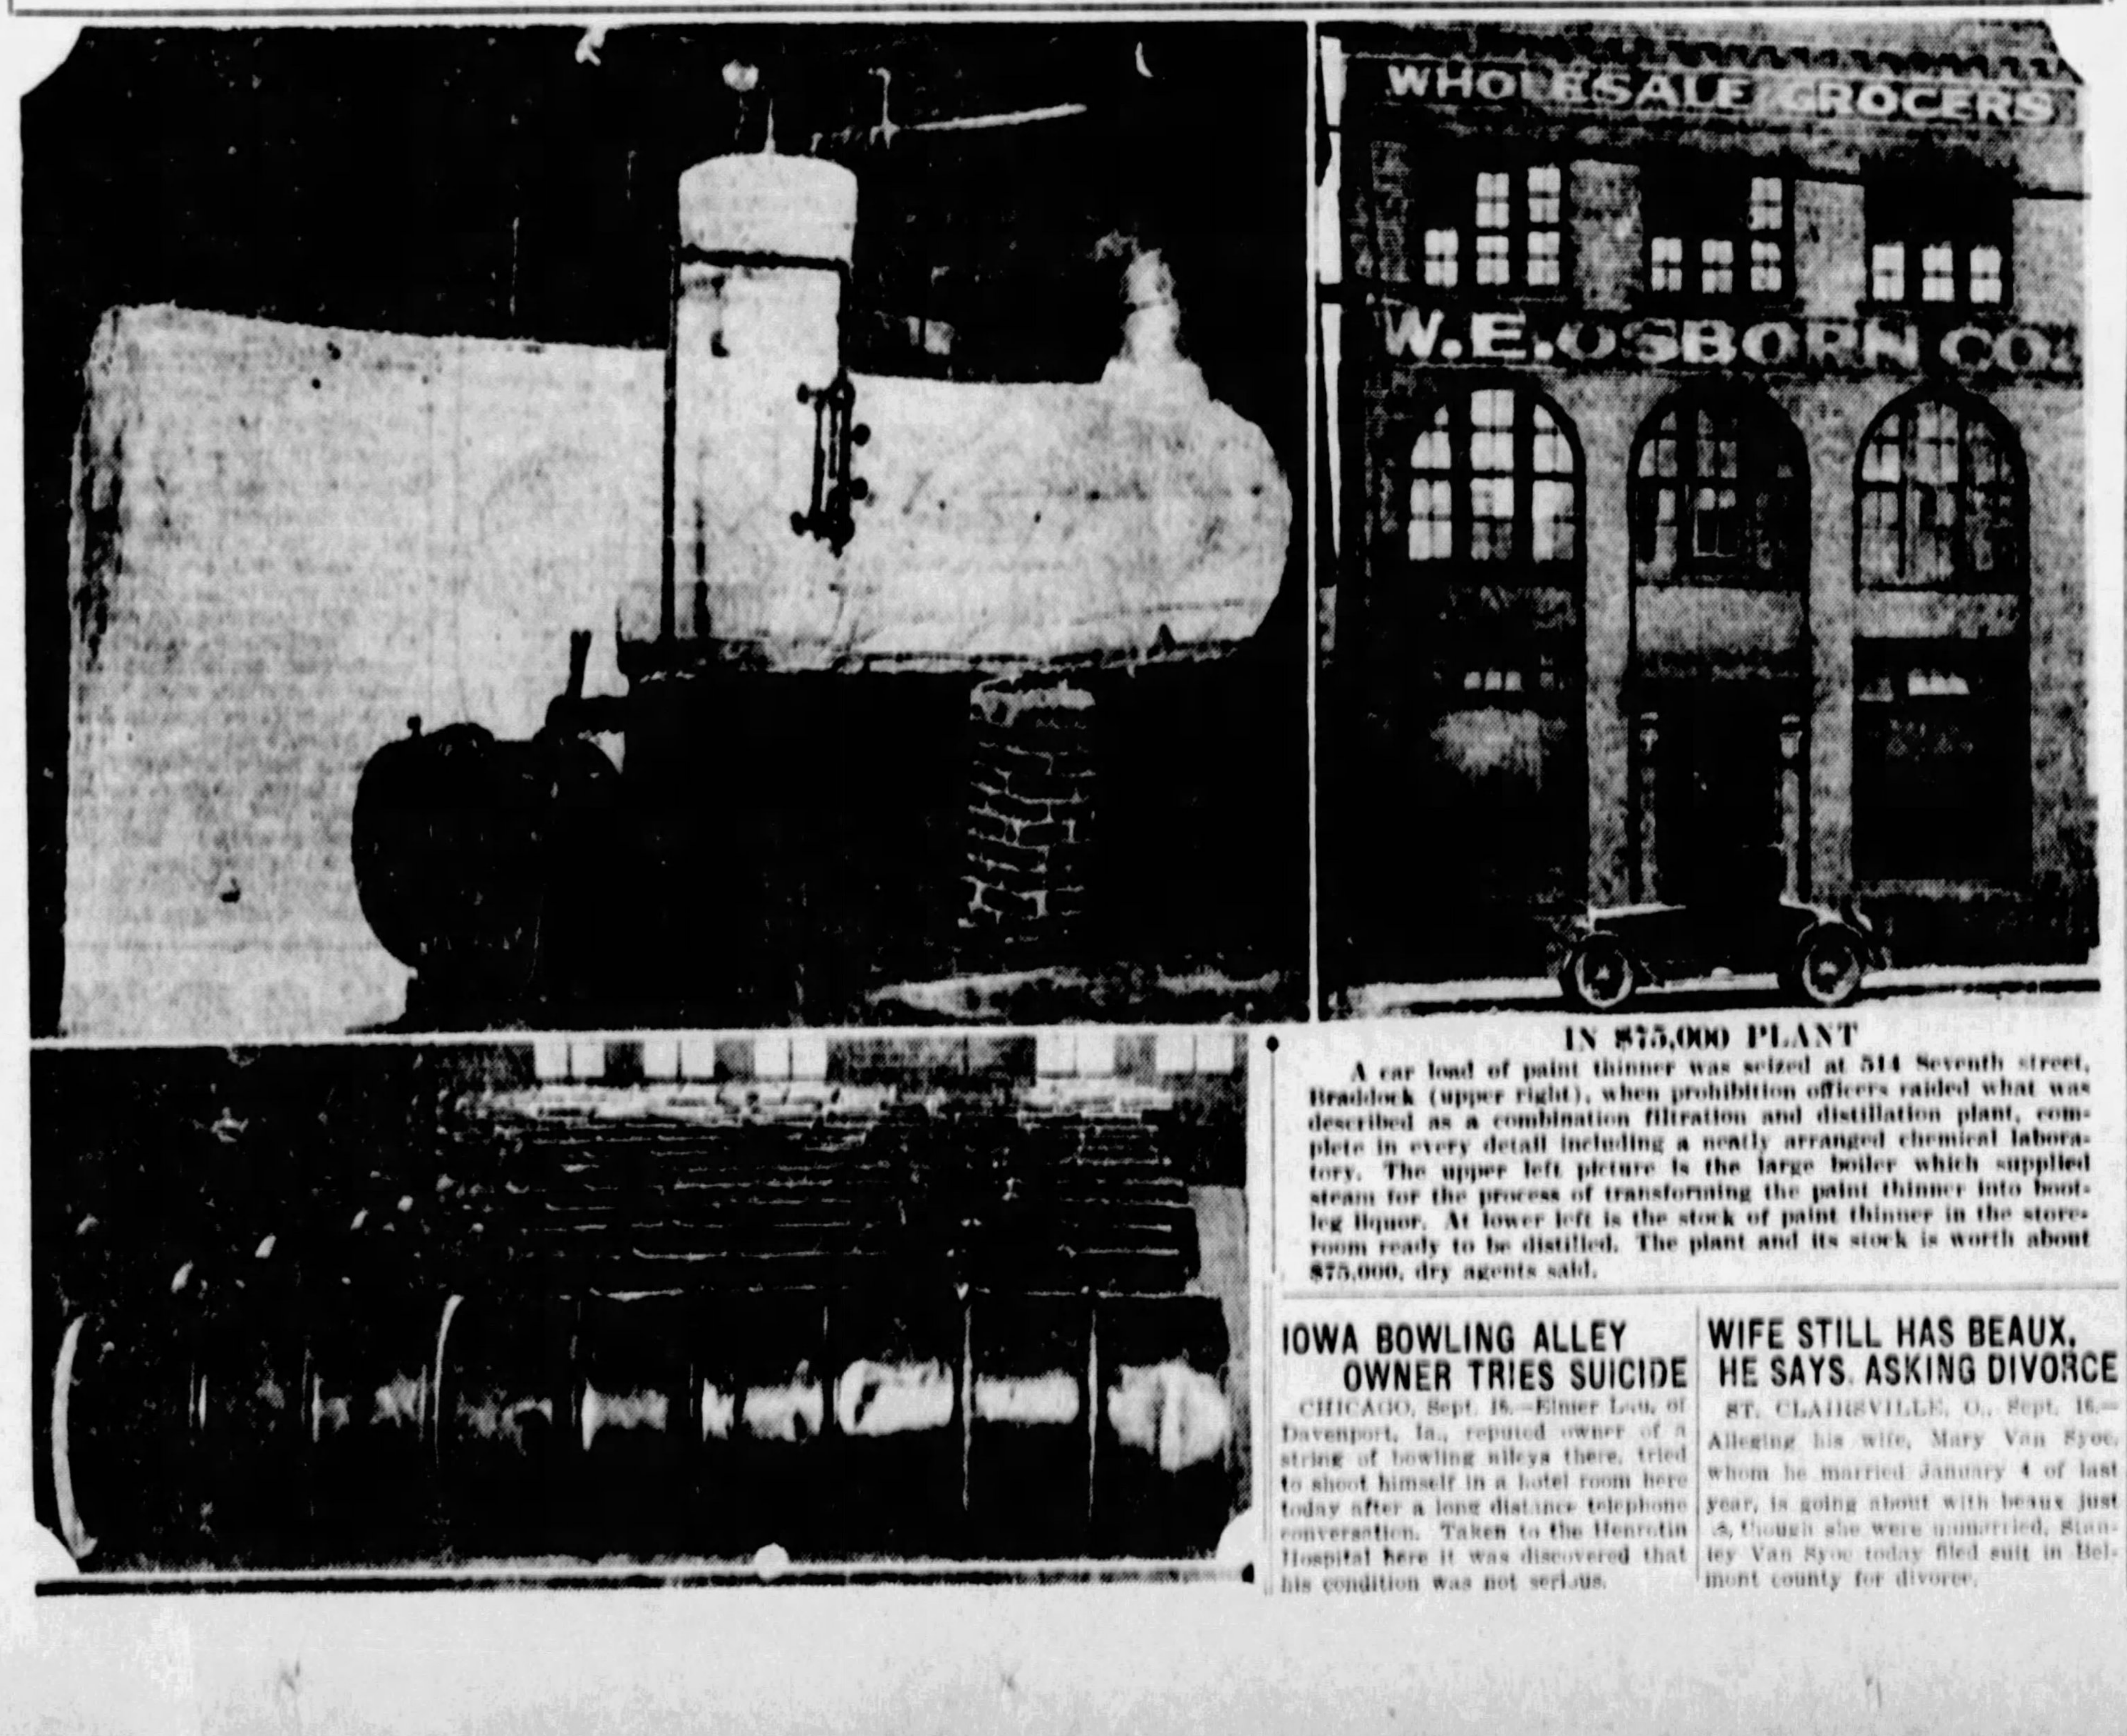
DEATHS IN EAST

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP.)—A hot wave that brought deaths and many prostrations to the East after causing more than a score of deaths in the Middle West was given a short life in prediction of weather officials today.

The mercury jumped to 90 degrees here, breaking records for September 15 in New York, Philadelphia and other Eastern cities. It went to 102 degrees at Washington and drove President Coolidge from his work in the afternoon. Five prostrations occurred in Baltimore and one in Harrisburg.

The unseasonal warmth swept in after giving Chicago its hottest September in years and stirring the gratitude of Western farmers who noted in the change the salvation of their corn crop.

WHERE PAINT THINNER -:- BECAME BOOTLEG LIQUOR



IN $75,000 PLANT
A car load of paint thinner was seized at 514 Seventh street, Braddock (upper right), when prohibition officers raided what was described as a combination filtration and distillation plant, complete in every detail including a neatly arranged chemical laboratory. The upper left picture is the large boiler which supplied steam for the process of transforming the paint thinner into bootleg liquor. At lower left is the stock of paint thinner in the storeroom ready to be distilled. The plant and its stock is worth about $75,000, dry agents said.

IOWA BOWLING ALLEY OWNER TRIES SUICIDE

WIFE STILL HAS BEAUX, HE SAYS, ASKING DIVORCE

and Allegheny county.

They are Joseph McDonald, 18, of 3126 Landis street, Crafton Heights, a former Langley High School athlete; Albert Gettic, 19, and his brother, James Gettic, 25, of 280 Pieston street. They were arrested in Pittsburgh by state police of the Butler barracks and Pittsburgh police.

ATTACK MATRON

The boys leaped at Mrs. Sloan as she opened the jail door to release a trusty. McDonald, she says, kicked her, and before she could reach for a revolver she was brushed aside, and they dashed down the jail stairs.

Mrs. Sloan obtained her revolver and began firing as the boys reached a fence around the jail yard. The fence collapsed as the three mounted it together. Mrs. Sloan fired repeatedly as the boys began to run, and one of them fell. Mrs. Sloan does not believe she hit him, however. Both Mrs. Sloan and the trusty gave chase, but soon lost the trail.

A general alarm was broadcast by the state police of Butler, who were notified of the escape by Mrs. Sloan, and all Pittsburgh police were given descriptions.

The boys were arrested as a result of the robbing of a Clarion county service station last week. Tire impressions left by an automobile, said to have been stolen, aided in obtaining clues to their identity. With a description obtained from a farmer and other clues, Butler state police came to Pittsburgh and, with the aid of Pittsburgh police, made the arrests and brought the prisoners to Clarion.

According to the police the boys are suspected of many robberies. The police say the boys apparently would steal an automobile and then rob service stations at night to replenish gasoline, oil and tire supplies.

The jailbreakers passed through Warren at 3 o'clock this morning, according to the Associated Press, but Warren police had not been notified and the youths were not stopped. They were heading for New York state 12 miles north.

PENNINGTON IS SAFE

upon their arrival here this morning.

The enforcement chiefs came here to attend a testimonial luncheon for Pennington, given by temperance organizations, at the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Commander Pennington himself, speaking at the luncheon, declared he expected to remain here so long as he enjoyed the confidence of the public as so far expressed to him; that he would leave whenever he felt that confidence was lacking. He was replying to numerous telegrams and speeches complimenting his work and expressing protest at rumors that he was to be removed.

At the Pennsylvania Station Pennington was greeted cordially by the Washington officials.

"Congratulations, Commander!" was Secretary Lowman's greeting as they shook hands warmly. Dr. Doran and Pennington shook hands and the trio linked arms on their way to a taxicab. They went to the William Penn Hotel to rest until noon.

"We are more than satisfied with Pennington's work here," declared Dr. Doran. "His record since coming to our department has been most commendable and we have complete confidence in what he has done. He has accomplished a lot of good substantial work in a quiet way and he is going to stay with us for some time."

Concerning persistent rumors of Pennington's possible retirement under political pressure, Dr. Doran declared:

Charge Parents With 'Poison Murders'

By Universal Service.

BLAKELY, Ga., Sept. 16.—Authorities are pressing the investigation of the "puzzling" circumstances connected with the death of the beautiful daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Harris Hayes, prosperous middle-aged planters of Early county, for which the elderly couple are being held in jail on the charge of murder.

Dr. A. J. Ayers, pathologist, said enough poison to kill several persons was found in the stomach of the young woman.

The number of deaths in the family believed strange, grew to four when it was disclosed that Mrs. Mary Ann Hayes, [illegible], mother of Harris Hayes, died several months ago.

Others of the family who have died recently are: James Hayes, 15, son of the couple held, in July; Amos Hayes, husband of the dead young woman, and fourth, Gladys Hayes, 18, pretty Detroit young woman, who was called here when her husband became ill in August.

The tiny [illegible]-month-old son of this couple became suddenly ill at the same time the mother lay on her death bed, but responded to heroic treatment.

It was learned at the offices of Southern Life Insurance Company here that $1,000 was the total amount of insurance carried on James Hayes, the first son who died. It was made payable to his mother and father.

Amos Hayes, the second brother, from Detroit, had $2,000 insurance.

ALARM TRAPS INTRUDER

Clyde Curtain, 22, Negro, was caught hiding in the basement of the Glick Auto Supply Company, Seventh and Bedford avenues, early this morning by operatives of the Holmes Electric Protective Company. Curtain had jimmied a side window in the building and searchers found him concealed under merchandise in the cellar. A supposed confederate, waiting in an automobile in Bedford avenue, fled at the approach of the officers. Curtain was lodged in Central station on a suspicious person charge.

A new branch of the college, the school of education, will be opened at Duquesne University Monday. Arrangements have been made for accommodating both men and women in the regular day classes. On Tuesday the school of pharmacy will open. At the end of the current school year, diplomas and degrees will be conferred for the first time.

Kind Robbers Give Back $7 But Keep $73

Kind-hearted robbers last night returned $7 of $10 loot so their victim might pay his room rent, but kept $73 and a watch when they held up the Reyon Oil Company's filling station at 4925 Baum boulevard. They got $73 from the cash register and a gold watch and $10 from Alfred Jones, 24, 86 Forty-fourth street, attendant. Seven of the $10 was returned to Jones. An automobile, stolen on the North Side, was used by the robbers, police say.

KLAN TO OPPOSE INJUNCTION

Additional affidavits in the Federal Court case through which the Ku Klux Klan is seeking by injunction to restrain the efforts of its enemies to have its affairs placed in the hands of a receiver are expected to be filed soon by those against whom the klan officials are taking action.

Attorney Van A. Barrickman, one of the five defendants, today stated a supplemental answer to the charge against him and the four others would be made. It may be filed tomorrow in the form of affidavits, he said, or not until Tuesday, when arguments on points of law involved will be heard before Judge W. H. S. Thomson at Erie.

PAY OR SERVE TIME CORN THIEVES ARE TOLD

Charged with stealing corn from the cornfield of Frank Snyder, near Presto, three youths, Fred Urbanic, 16, and George Downs of Heidelberg and George Kalsarty, 15, of Glendale, were given the option of paying $27.50 for the few dozen roasting ears they had taken or serving time in the county jail, at a hearing last night before Justice of the Peace A. W. McMillan in the Carnegie Jail.

Jazz Razzed

GEN. J. G. HARBORD
Gen. J. G. Harbord, president of the Radio Corporation of America declares to Pittsburgh distributors that broadcasting has sounded the death knell of the "Jazz age."

FINE DOCTOR FOR GIVING LIQUOR PRESCRIPTION

Dr. James T. Whitson, Negro physician, of Monessen, was fined $500 by Judge F. P. Schoonmaker in Federal Court yesterday. Prohibition agents testified they obtained two liquor prescriptions from him on October 6, and purchased a quart of moonshine April 3 from him.

Policemen Get Out Overcoats As City Steams

Yesterday, one of the hottest days of this summer, was selected by Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh for the periodical inspection of policemen's winter clothing. Scores of patrolmen were seen yesterday sweltering under heavy overcoats and were targets for the grins and sallies of lightly clothed pedestrians. Many members of the force, carried their winter equipment to the station houses in suitcases.

Radio Outdoes Sword, Says Gen. Harbord

Radio is mightier than the sword.

Pittsburgh radio distributors formed this opinion of the magnitude of their industry today after they listened to a speech by Gen. James G. Harbord, who wielded the sword all the way up from subalteran in Rocky Mountain Indian campaigns, to chief of staff of the American Expeditionary Force in France, but who is now president of the Radio Corporation of America. He addressed about 30 of the leading distributors of radio materials in the tri-state territory, who welcomed the retired army officer at a luncheon at the William Penn Hotel.

"The radio is a necessity in modern life," Gen. Harbord declared. "The improvements being added constantly and the advancement of radio technique are subjects difficult for the layman to comprehend. The next presidential inauguration will be preserved in 'talking movies,' and the scenes of the inaugural on March 4, 1929, are likely to be pictured for us in tele-vision. By that time we may hope to watch a championship boxing match, golf finals, an international yacht race as well as other world events while we hear the scene described and hear the voices of the participants."

Pittsburgh is one of the most fertile radio distribution centers in the United States, according to Gen. Harbord. With the population of the Pittsburgh district exceeding 1,000,000 persons, the number of receiving sets in use is estimated at 65,000, he said, and the quality and diversity of Pittsburgh's broadcast service is destined to contribute a large share in the commercial and cultural activities in the community.

FAT BILLFOLD IS STOLEN

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—A billfold containing $241,500 in stocks of his company, $1,000 in checks and $100 in cash disappeared from his automobile at a filling station, C. E. Halliburton of Coalinga, vice president of the Meludite Company of San Francisco, told police.

Halliburton, who motored here from San Francisco, said two men followed him out of Fillmore.

RUTH ELDER'S SPOUSE SURE SHE'LL WIN

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—Ruth Elder's plan to take off for Paris Sunday in the monoplane American Girl encountered difficulties today when mechanics announced that it might take until next week to complete repairs on the craft.

Miss Elder pouted when she heard that a seam had developed in one of the gasoline tanks in the wings.

"Well, you'll do the best you can for me, won't you?" she pleaded with the mechanic, and the only answer to such a question asked by such an undeniably pretty girl was "Yes."

Miss Elder, however, is willing to wait.

"I'll wait as long for both the plane and the weather as I have to, but I'm going to fly to Paris," she said.

ANNISTON, Ala., Sept. 16.—(AP.)—Miss Ruth Elder of Lakeland, Fla., who, with George Haldeman, will attempt a transatlantic flight in the plane "American Girl," was married in Birmingham in September, 1925, to Lyle Womack of Lakeland, Fla., it was learned here today from Miss Elder's sister, Mrs. James Glass.

Mrs. Glass said Womack left here for New York several days ago to see his youthful wife take off on her New York-to-Paris flight.

Miss Elder is flying under her maiden name, her sister explained. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Elder, reside here and she attended school here. She has been living in Lakeland, Fla., for several years.

Dawes Sees No Fun With Only Two In Ring, Says Will

FIRST NATIONAL STUDIOS, Burbank, Cal., Sept. 16.—I see where Vice President Dawes refused a ringside seat free to the fight.

WILL ROGERS.

It's no novelty for him to have a ringside seat to see a national argument, just between two. He has to watch ninety-six in one ring and gets paid for it, and should.

My old friend, Mayor Bill Thompson of Chicago, is out here with us. He is making speeches on the Mississippi flood. Knowing Bill was generally on the opposite side from the crowd, we kinder figured he would speak in favor of floods. But he didn't. He was agin 'em right from the first word.

Yours,
WILL.

ARREST PASTOR IN KIDNAPING

COLUMBUS, Ga., Sept. 16.—The Rev. A. V. Noble, former pastor of the Columbus Methodist Episcopal Church, North, was under arrest here today, charged with kidnaping his successor, the Rev. Willis T. Jordan, formerly a Wisconsin minister.

Jordan disappeared Wednesday night. He was last seen by his wife sauntering down the street with two men she did not recognize. Noble was arrested on information supplied by the Rev. O. B. Netherland, retired, also a member of the Methodist church. He told police he had heard Noble say, "no man will live to take my place."

Spending Orgy Brings Prison Sentence

One day's orgy down "in the city," which reduced a stolen bankroll from $140 to $3, will cost William Gunnett, aged 24, of Greesburg, from nine to 18 months of freedom. He was sentenced to the workhouse by Judge James R. Macfarlane today in Criminal Court after pleading guilty to the theft of the money from Nick Candino, with whom he had come to Pittsburgh. "I threw it in every direction on cabs and moonshine and a good time," he told the court.

Pittsburgh Fliers Land Safely on One Wheel

By WALTER CHAMBERS,
Secretary of the Langley Beacon Association.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 16.—This boy, J. Warren Smith, manager of Mayer Field, Bridgeville, gave me plenty of thrills yesterday. We flew 200 miles, from Springfield, Mo., to St. Louis, with the right wheel of the Ryan monoplane Pride of Pittsburgh left behind us on a stump-filled municipal landing field at Springfield.

We left Dallas, Tex., at 11 o'clock Thursday, expecting to reach Columbus, O., by night. The first 250 miles to Okmulgee, Okla., we made in two hours and twelve minutes. The next 180 to Springfield took another hour and forty minutes. Then the fun began.

There was no service station on Springfield's municipal field, so we had to go to town and find a gasoline truck. After an hour and a half we were ready to resume.

We were taxiing across the field. The tail was down and we were just ready to take off at a speed of about 60 miles an hour when the right wheel struck a stump, obscured from sight by the tall grass. As the plane bumped and started to turn her nose into the ground, Smith lifted her into the air.

The noise and the jar indicated the shock was on the bottom of the plane and for the next five minutes Smith moved the tail controls cautiously, afraid that we'd lost our elevators. Then we saw the right axle carried no wheel.

At St. Louis, however, Smith brought the plane down for a perfect two-point landing, on the tail-skid and left wheel, as Lambert Field officials rushed an ambulance and all available mechanics to our side to pick up the dead and wounded.

A new wheel was secured here and we are taking off today and will land at Mayer Field, Pittsburgh, as scheduled at 2 p. m. Saturday.

GIRL GAINS FREEDOM

EDNA SUMMERS

She had to wear long dresses and looked "like a sight" as an inmate of Home of Good Shepherd, Edna Summers, 22, waitress, testified, as her counsel tried to gain her freedom in habeas corpus proceedings in Common Pleas court. After Judge Ambrose B. Reid had denied the application, the State Department of Health discharged the girl, who was arrested in a raid on an alleged disorderly house.

An unusual step-in is the one at the bottom in the picture, with its high-cut tongue effect finished with a smart, intricate metal buckle.

The high-heeled model of patent leather has a new, neat ankle strap, which is adjustable by a tiny buckle.

A strikingly new vamp effect is to be noted in the next shoe, which is of lightweight roly poly brown calfskin, with matching novelty leather vamp insert, quarter and bow.

GIANT BRADDOCK STILL SEIZED

PLANT CAPACITY 1,500 GALLONS DAILY

Complete in every detail, even to an extensive and neatly kept chemical laboratory and capable of daily transforming [illegible] gallons of rank-smelling paint thinner into drinkable alcohol was the [illegible] description of [illegible] establishment at [illegible] Seventh street, Braddock, which [illegible] raided last night.

And the [illegible] were just as thorough in their precautionary measures to avoid detection, according to Capt. W. H. Murray, who ordered the raid [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] Braddock avenue, one of [illegible] arrested in the raid. Capt. Murray reported finding a complete set of [illegible] automobile license numbers of machines used by the local [illegible].

Capt. Murray was unable to say how such a list had been obtained, but said he suspected it was used by lookouts who apparently failed to function when the raiders drove into Braddock yesterday.

Paint thinner valued at not less than [illegible] from which the alcohol was redistilled in the plant, equipment worth upward of [illegible] and [illegible] gallons of finished product were reported seized in the place.

Besides [illegible] the raiders arrested Harry [illegible] of [illegible] Logan street, Joseph [illegible] of Philadelphia, and Thomas [illegible] of [illegible] Fifth avenue, Rankin.

The columns of the still extended from the basement to the third floor. The still itself was of immense proportions and a [illegible]-horsepower boiler supplied steam for the combination filtration and distillation process through which the paint thinner was transformed into bootleg liquor.

A "For Rent" sign hung on the side of the building, a large three-story brick structure.

DRIVER KILLED WHEN AUTO RUNS AWAY

One man is dead and several are in hospitals as the result of automobile accidents in this district yesterday.

Driving his automobile into another machine parked in Brownsville avenue when it got beyond control, William Jamison, 36, of 4724 Carson street, suffered body bruises and a fracture of the skull which caused his death en route to the South Side Hospital. The parked car was owned by Bernard Summers, 131 Merritt street, Carrick.

An operation at the Presbyterian Hospital saved the life of Muriel Dormen, 14, of 1117 Spring Garden avenue, after her windpipe had been severed when she was hurled through the windshield of an automobile driven by her father, Joseph Dormen, when the machine struck a pole in Troy Hill road.

Nick Yetz, 9, of 85 Eureka street, is reported as recovering in South Side Hospital from a crushed chest and body bruises received when he was struck by an automobile driven in Allen avenue by Samuel Mezurro, 46, of 1713 Jane street.

BOND RETURNED 3 YEARS LATE

Marcus, joined in by District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner. The bond was forfeited when Coleman, accused of embezzlement of collections, failed to appear October 8, 1924, although he appeared the following day and was sentenced to six months in the workhouse after pleading guilty. Through some error, the bondsman and defendant failed to receive notice.

$9 CHECK CHARM OF PRISONER SHATTERED

Any belief that Charles Parish, 2? of Cresson, W. Va., may have had in the charm of the number nine, was blasted today when [illegible] downtown merchants appeared in Central Police court to exhibit worthless checks, each for $9, which they claimed Parish had given them.

Parish was arrested Wednesday at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street after he had given a worthless check for $9 to Henry Terheyden, Smithfield street jeweler. At a hearing Thursday he told the court the Terheyden check was the only one he had issued but he was held over and today [illegible] additional scraps of paper made their appearance. He was again held for court, the court expressing a belief that more bad paper might put in an appearance.

The checks were issued on various downtown banks in none of which was there any account for Parish. Parish did not explain why he clung to $9 in writing the checks.

Simple Home Recipe For Bad Stomach Gives Swift Relief

If you are a victim of Stomach Trouble—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this good advice.

Artificial digestants and starvation diets are seldom needed. Within reason, most folks may eat what they like, if they will keep their stomach free from souring acids that hinder or paralyze the work of digestion. And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a little Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless form of Magnesia that swiftly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A few days' trial of Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets), which any good druggist can supply at trifling cost, should quickly convince you that fully 90% of ordinary stomach distress is absolutely unnecessary. Try Bisurated Magnesia today!

"Br'r" Rabbit Disguises May Be Exposed

By Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Not much longer will the inoffensive rabbit be called a lion or a tiger, or a seal, if the American fur industry has its way, it was declared at the opening of the convention of the national association of the fur industry here.

"Br'r Rabbit travels under as many aliases as a city slicker or a beer bandit," said David C. Mills, general director of the association.

"Women ask for him all over the world calling the same poor little animal's skin 'visonette,' 'squirreline,' 'Russian leopard,' 'moline,' 'nutriette,' 'seal musquash,' 'French sable,' 'chinchilla' and 'buckskin.' At the last count we had from members of this association the bunny had as many as 17 sobriquets.

"A sweet young flapper will disdain a wrap of Australian rabbitskin. But she will gurgle with pleasure about a Baltic lion skin coat—which is made of the same material.

"It took more than 75,000,000 foreign rabbits last year to satisfy the craze of American women for wraps made of 'Baltic lion skin' and sable. Twenty-five million pounds of rabbit skin were imported in 1926, each pound averaging 6 or 7 skins."

Mr. Mills urged that the rabbit be no longer camouflaged under so-called aristocratic names.

FRANCE WILDLY HAILS ARRIVING DOUGHBOYS

By GEORGE R. HOLMES.

International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CHERBOURG, France, Sept. 16.—The S. S. Leviathan, bearing more than 1,000 joyous members of the American Legion to Paris for the convention of that organization, arrived in the harbor of Cherbourg at 4 o'clock this morning.

Screaming sirens and whistles, a cordon of six French cruisers and a circle of roaring seaplanes greeted the great liner as it steamed into the harbor. Four hours later the Leviathan dropped anchor and the headquarters staff of the Legion stepped off the liner onto a waiting tender.

The second invasion of the A. E. F. had begun.

Despite the early hour, thousands of persons lined the quay as the legionnaires stepped ashore. Two French destroyers and the United States cruiser Detroit swung at anchor nearby, gayly beflagged in honor of the visiting legionnaires.

MINORITY GROUP MAY DECIDE VARE FATE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS,
Sun-Telegraph Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Democratic leaders of the Senate are planning to call a caucus about the time Congress convenes which will probably determine the fate of Senators-elect William S. Vare of Pennsylvania and Frank L. Smith of Illinois as regards their chances for being seated early in the session.

The caucus will be called primarily to decide whether Democrats will make an effort to organize the Senate, but deeply involved also will be the challenged elections of Vare and Smith.

This is the latest word brought to Washington by Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, one of the minority members of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections, who attended the recent meeting in Chicago for the purpose of agreeing on some course of action regarding the contested Pennsylvania ballots.

CONTROL AT STAKE

Fresh from a conference with other minority members at Chicago, Senator George said he had found sentiment increasing among Democratic members for seating Vare and Smith at the beginning of the session, instead of challenging their credentials and hearing the case afterwards.

At the same time, however, he said that members of the party were divided on the proposal for making an effort to organize the upper chamber and that those anxious to secure Democratic control, carrying with it the various committee chairmanships, might be unwilling to admit the two Senators-elect at the start on account of the decisive importance of their votes.

The standing of the next Senate will be 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one Farmer-Laborite. Thus, if the seats of Vare and Smith are challenged and they are forced to wait until their cases are heard, Democrats would have a majority of one, or enough to organize, should all the minority members stand pat and Senator Shipstead, the lone Farmer-Laborite, decline to participate.

BLEASE FAVORS VARE

Democrats who hope to organize the body believe that some of the Progressives and Independents, such as La Follette, of Wisconsin, and Brookhart, of Iowa, will decline to join with regulars for maintaining control. Actually, however, indications are that they will be found among the majority along with Shipstead, and that there will be at least one Democratic defection, Senator Cole Blease, of South Carolina, who has announced his opposition to challenging Vare and Smith.

At any rate, as Senator George sees it, the question will probably have to be worked out in caucus. If the Democrats decide to effect organization, minority support will probably be given to the move for forcing the two members to stand temporarily aside. Otherwise they may be admitted pending a hearing.

Senator George said the meeting at Chicago decided to place the responsibility on Mr. Vare and William B. Wilson, Democrat, who is contesting his election, respectively, for producing the Pennsylvania ballots that have been requested for recounts.

Mr. Wilson wanted the Senate to examine ballots in a total of six Pennsylvania counties, whereas Mr. Vare has urged that all of the county returns be checked. Only a part of the Wilson list is in the hands of the Reed slush fund committee, and efforts to procure the rest have met failure in the courts.

At the request of the committee at Chicago, the two Pennsylvania contestants agreed to take joint legal action for preserving all of the ballots cast in the election. The committee informed them that their failure to do this would result in acceptance of the official returns, except for those ballots now held, according to the Georgia Senator.

DAHLIA EXHIBIT AT SEWICKLEY

The seventh annual dahlia show, under the auspices of the Sewickley Horticultural Society, will be held in the Guildhall, Sewickley, September 22 from 3 to 6 and 6 to 10 and September 23 from 10 to 10.

Hundreds of entrants will compete in the score of classes available, but special interest will attach to the display of specimen vase or basket of Dahlias, and the invitation group of miscellaneous plants and cut flowers to be staged against a wall and to cover approximately 80 square feet in which exhibitors will be allowed unlimited choice in selection.

Most of the classes are open to all, but there is a specific section reserved for amateurs, classified under the show rules as anyone who maintains a garden personally without regard to profit from it. It does not exclude, however, one who may dispose of surplus stock for money provided their garden is not counted upon for an annual profit.

Officials of this show this year are: William Thomas, Jr., manager; William J. Taylor, secretary; John Carman, treasurer; Henry Goodhand, chairman general show committee, and Mrs. Telesio Lucci, Miss Forsyth Patterson, James Reach, Donald McKinnon, A. B. Bonsey and Mr. Carman, members; Manus Curran, Lock Haven, Pa.; C. A. Mackay, Mentor, O.; Stanton Kallay, Painesville, O.; James Stevens, Cleveland, and James Moore and Harvey Sheaff, Pittsburgh, judges.

The Garden Club exhibits will be in charge of The Club of Little Gardens and the Little Garden Club of Sewickley.

22 CLASSES OF HORSES TO COMPETE IN SHOW

Twenty-two classes of hunters, jumpers and saddle horses will compete at a horse show which will be held at Ostara Farms, near Sharpsburg, tomorrow by the Pittsburgh Hunt Association. The morning show will begin at 10 and the afternoon at 1 o'clock. Charles F. Colbert, Jr., is chairman of the committee, which includes George Paull, H. G. Lytle, C. L. Flaccus, G. H. Cherrington and W. G. Costin.

DANCING JUDGE BIDS FOR LATE SLEEPER VOTE

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—(AP.)—Magistrate Edward P. Carney, candidate for the Republican and Democratic nominations for mayor, and often spoken of as Philadelphia's "dancing judge," put in a bold bid yesterday for the late sleepers' vote.

Magistrate Carney arrested a milk man, three city garbage removers and the driver of a truck engaged in collecting fat and grease as they were working in the street under the magistrate's room in the fifth floor of a hotel.

The early workers were charged with violations of the city ordinances, but the magistrate indicated that insomnia had something to do with his action. He appeared before the men before six o'clock, while it was still dark. The usually immaculate "dancing judge" was without collar or tie, and his shirt was open in front. He was hatless and his hair was rumpled, and even his shoes were not tied. Furthermore he was angry.

"I want to know what's the idea of all this noise," he demanded of his workers. "How do you think a guy can sleep in this racket?"

The men didn't offer an explanation.

"We can't stand anything like this," said Carney, speaking for the late sleepers of the world. "And further, we are not going to stand it. You, all five of you, are under arrest."

Thereupon the "dancing judge" took his prisoners to a police station where he charged them with reckless driving, unnecessary noise and failing to have lights on their trucks.

The discovery of the cases of scarlet fever was made during examination of 400 students and members of the faculty by Dr. J. Frank Small, of York. Authorities immediately called in state health authorities for consultation, and the closing order was decided upon.

BIG GASSER HIT NEAR KANE

KANE, Pa., Sept. 16.—(Special)—A rush of flaming gas, ignited by a charge of nitro-glycerine, brought in a 100,000 cubic foot well on the Kane Estate lease at Meade Run, near here. The blaze, which threatened destruction of the derrick, engine house and valuable drilling machinery, was extinguished by diversion through a line outside the derrick.

NOT GUILTY, NURSE PLEADS IN GIRL'S DEATH

SMILES AS SHE WAIVES RIGHT TO COUNSEL

ENID, Okla., Sept. 16 (AP)—Entering her own plea of not guilty to an accusation of poisoning one of two members of a minister's family who died under mysterious circumstances here, Mary Atkinson, nurse and long-time friend of the pastor, has agreed to a preliminary hearing with a smile in place of the tears caused by her arrest a week ago.

Arraigned yesterday on a charge of murder in connection with the death of Mary Jane Bailey, daughter of the Rev. Charles Bailey, the 26-year-old nurse waived the right of employing counsel with the formal plea "I am not guilty."

Asked by Justice David Pugleson if she did not wish to take advantage of the 24 hours allowed in which to enter her plea through counsel, she repeated her plea and with a smile, added, "It wouldn't make a lot of difference."

She was immediately returned to her cell, where she has been held during a pathological examination revealing poison in the viscera of Mary Jane Bailey, who died a week ago, shortly after the death of her mother and the illness of four other Bailey children. No word was received from a brother who visited her shortly after she was arrested.

She apparently made no effort to communicate with the gray-haired Episcopal minister for whom she had expressed a deep devotion and in whose home she lived prior to the death of Mrs. Bailey.

Dan Mitchell, county attorney, refused to state whether he would exhume the body of the pastor's wife who died of an illness described as similar to that of her daughter.

Although Mitchell has several letters from the pastor to the nurse which the minister described as "letters of sympathy," as well as a quantity of poison found in Miss Atkinson's room, he said he expected to base his case on three hypodermic syringes also discovered in possession of the defendant. Mitchell said the syringes were similar to one found at the hospital where Mary Jane died and which chemists reported contained poison.

Mitchell declined to name the poison revealed by the viscera test, but said it was not the same as found in Miss Atkinson's room. He said the syringes were of a different type than those used at the hospital.

Authorities also took statements from physicians who said that Mary Jane, her mother and the four children who recovered, showed symptoms of ptomaine poisoning.

HARD LUCK TALE FREES HIM

Telling of his sick wife and four hungry children, when arraigned for a hearing before Justice of the Peace E. M. Cox of M'unhall on charges of selling moonshine and resisting arrest, Paul Kellerman of 17 Rutherglen street, Pittsburgh, was permitted to go free and financial aid was offered to him in his plight. Kellerman was nabbed yesterday by Motorcycle Patrolman John Gwynn at Munhall while transporting three one-gallon jugs of moonshine. He said it was his first offense and said he could not find work to provide for his family. The story touched the squire's heart and Kellerman was freed.

INDIANS DISCARD TOM TOMS FOR HARMONICA

The first Americans last night discarded their tom-toms and their traditional war dance and substituted the harmonica in their place. Borrah Minevitch and his harmonica gang furnished the new tunes for the Blackfoot Tribe who yesterday visited the city and were the guests of the Loew's and United Artists Penn Theater where the Sun-Telegraph is conducting the harmonica contest to find some boy with the ability to join the band that has surprised the city with its comedy and music.

So impressed were these redskins with Borrah that they made him a member of the tribe by naming him "Ahio Ha Mai," Musical Mouth Man.

Immediately after the war dance Borrah started eliminations among the boys. After two hours' work, he had singled out the three best. These three outplayed each other time after time until Borrah tired and not able to decide the champion, delayed the selection until tonight. Then, if he cannot come to a conclusion, the three boys will be asked to play it out before the audience and Borrah may ask the audience to help pick the winner.

The three boys are Al Bedvra, Paul Julius and Clyde Cleaver, all of this city.

'PATENT BROKER' HELD OVER

Alvin Simmons, 25, Negro, of "City," claiming to be a patent broker, was held over for further hearing in Central Police Court today when it was testified he failed to carry out his promise to secure patents for J. J. Rudy of Centralia, Pa. Rudy is said to have invented a pocket telegraph set and a pocket radio set. He claims to have turned the plans of these, together with $330 for services, over to Simmons for patenting. The patent, he charges, never was secured and he declares Simmons refused to return the plans or the money.

FALLS ON STEPS KILL TWO

Falls down steps, caused the death this morning of two residents of the South Hills. Jacob Huffman, 58, of 220 Brownsville avenue, Knoxville, fell down steps in his home several days ago and died at 7:15 o'clock this morning. It was reported to the coroner that Huffman refused to have a physician called and was found dead in bed by W. A. Hall this morning.

Mrs. Clara L. Hermann, 52, of 2611 Pioneer avenue, Brookline, died at 1:35 o'clock this morning in South Side Hospital, the result of a fall. She was found at the foot of the steps in her home yesterday by her husband.

THIEVES LOOT TWO HOMES

At the home of Mrs. R. E. Walters, 210 Sheridan avenue, thieves secured bed linen and draperies valued at $100 while the family was absent on a vacation.

A diamond ring valued at $500, and diamond earrings valued at $150, were taken by robbers who ransacked the upper portion of the home of Mrs. William Schutte, 5742 Elmer street, while the family slept.

Schmelzer, and Ray Platt was appointed constable of Ben Avon for the unexpired term of Edward Brubach, elected in November, 1925, and alleged never to have qualified for office, on petitions filed before Judge James R. Macfarlane in Quarter Sessions Court today.

SENTENCED ON GIRL'S CHARGE

H. E. Shipley, 41, married and father of two children, assistant engineer at Western Penitentiary, was sentenced to five to ten years in the workhouse by visiting Judge Donald P. McPherson today in Criminal Court after having been found guilty of a serious charge involving a 9-year-old girl. Shipley lived at 402 Sagamore street.

Keep Face Young And Attractive

To remove sunburn, tan, freckles or any complexion difficulty, it is always best to remove the outer layer of aged, withered or wrinkled scarf skin. Smart women do it easily, quickly and harmlessly by the application of pure mercolized wax. The skin peels off, a little each day, until the entire defective mask is removed, gradually bringing the new layer of under skin into view. The new skin is attractive, soft, clear, and the face is much younger looking. At all drug stores with full directions. Mercolized wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly remove wrinkles and other age lines, use this face lotion: 1 ounce powdered saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel.

Keeps Jail Safe for Sewickley, Arrested

Sewickley borough's official jailor, John Eaton, who released a prisoner yesterday on orders of Council that none but the borough's lawbreakers should have the privilege of the community's exclusive lockup, faced the ignominy of Edgeworth's hoosegow this morning as a result of a warrant sworn to by Constable Ross F. Shaffer, of Glenfield, who charges Eaton with jail delivery.

"What's the use," says Shaffer. "I lock 'em up and Eaton lets 'em out."

Shaffer arrested James Goodnight, Negro, 18, of Coraopolis, on an embezzlement charge yesterday and took him to the Sewickley lockup. Eaton is the janitor and in charge of commitment of prisoners at Sewickley and had been given orders by council last week that nobody but borough law breakers could be kept in the jail.

When Shaffer went for his prisoner last night to take him to a hearing before a justice of the peace, he found Goodnight had been released, so the constable went before Justice of the Peace Curtis Pasfold of Edgeworth, and swore out a warrant charging Eaton with jail delivery. Eaton was arrested this morning and had to remain at the not too particular Edgeworth lockup for several hours until friends furnished bail. His hearing is scheduled for tonight before Squire Pasfold.

CHILD PARALYSIS SPREADS THROUGHOUT NATION

560 NEW CASES REPORTED IN 32 STATES

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—While poliomyelitis or infantile paralysis cases are increasing throughout the country, there is little danger of a general epidemic, officials of the United States public health service declared today.

Reports from 32 states for the week ending September 10 showed that 560 new cases had been discovered, as compared with 248 cases in 42 states for the week ending August 13. While this mysterious disease is undoubtedly more prevalent this year than last, public health officials pointed out that there is no approach to the mortality record of 1916, when infantile paralysis prevailed in many parts of the country and took a heavy toll of lives.

The latest records show that Massachusetts has the largest number of new cases, numbering 92. Ohio is close behind with 85 cases, while California registered 49 cases.

Few diseases present a more complex problem than does acute anterior poliomyelitis, public health officials say. Many facts, such as the seasonal incidence and rural prevalence of the disease, have seemed to indicate that some insect or animal host, as yet unrecognized, may be a factor in the spread of poliomyelitis, but specific evidence to this effect is lacking, it was pointed out.

The weight of present opinion inclines to the view that infantile paralysis is exclusively a human disease and is spread by personal contact, whatever other causes may be found to contribute to its spread.

DOCTOR KILLED, WIFE ATTACKED BY BANDIT

By Universal Service.

HAMMANTON, N. J., Sept. 16.—Dr. William Lilliendahl, 65, a retired physician, was brutally murdered, and Mrs. Margaret Lillendahl, 60, his wife, was dragged from their automobile and criminally attacked by two Negroes near here late yesterday.

The Lillendahls, according to the hysterical story of the wife, were returning home from their summer estate at Vineyard. The pair stepped from the bushes, revolvers in hand, and waved to the doctor to stop.

He brought the car to a standstill and offered what valuables they had with them. The thugs ordered him to drive up a side road, and after taking the valuables, started to drag Mrs. Lillendahl from the car.

The aged physician put up a struggle. One of the Negroes shot, killing him instantly. They then took Mrs. Lillendahl from the car, tore rings from her fingers and a necklace from her throat, assaulted her, and disappeared.

The crime has aroused the countryside and posses, made up of farmers, business men and others, are scouring the section. Reports have been flashed to all communities within a 50-mile radius and every effort is being made to round up the criminals.

Harvey Turner, 23, and Harry Williams, 24, both of Camden, were arrested at Merchantville and are being held as suspects.

Miss Dorothy A. Babcock Becomes Bride Of Gordon Fisher, Jr., at Summer Home

UNDER a bower of roses arranged on the lawn of "Vosemary," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vose Babcock, of Ellsworth avenue, in the Three Degree road, the marriage of their daughter, Miss Dorothy Arnold Babcock, and Gordon Fisher, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Fisher, of Colonial place, was solemnized yesterday at 5 o'clock by the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, assisted by the Rev. Dr. S. J. Fisher, grandfather of the bridegroom. The bridal party walked along a path marked with huge urns of yellow chrysanthemums and autumn leaves, and the altar was decorated with tall cathedral candles and white chrysanthemums.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was gowned in white satin and rose point lace, with a full court train of the lace, and her veil was of real lace, caught with orange blossoms. All of the lace had been worn by her mother and grandmother at their weddings. The bride carried silver wedding roses and white orchids with long streamers of ribbon decorated with lilies of the valley.

Frocks of chiffon in the rainbow colors, with large picture hats of lace to match were worn by the attendants, the matron of honor, Mrs. Willard W. Kirkpatrick, Jr., of Dayton, O., in pencil blue, with a bouquet of yellow dahlias and blue delphinium; Miss Elizabeth Philbrick of New York, the maid of honor, in orchid pink, with a bouquet of orchid dahlias and delphinium, and the bridesmaids, Miss Sara Louise Gwinner and Miss Marjorie Babcock, in pale green chiffon, with bouquets of yellow dahlias and delphinium; Mrs. George L. Craig, Jr., and Miss Laura C. Suydam, in peach chiffon, with bouquets of orange dahlias and delphinium, and Mrs. Henry L. Jones III, of Wilkes-Barre, and Miss Margaret Elliott, in orchid chiffon, with bouquets to match. The bouquets had long satin streamers weighted with dahlias. The flower girls were Mary Alice Hammond and Phyllis Hoeizel, wearing pink organdie and lace with bonnets to correspond and carrying baskets of pink rosebuds and forget-me-nots.

John M. Fisher was best man and the ushers included Edward Vose Babcock, Jr., Fred C. Babcock, Theodore Friend, Jr., James J. Campbell, Jr., William S. Stimmel, Jr., Graham Johnston, Russell R. Huggins, Jr., and Fordham Bixler, of Bethlehem.

A reception and dinner followed the ceremony, with Mr. and Mrs. Babcock and Mr. and Mrs. Fisher receiving with the bridal party. Mrs. Babcock was gowned in periwinkle blue chiffon with a velvet picture hat to match, and her corsage was of Cattleya orchids, while Mrs. Fisher appeared in beige crepe and lace with picture hat of beige velvet, and her flowers were lavender orchids. Covers were laid for 33 at the bridal table arranged in the log cabin, and it was decorated with silver vases of yellow and bronze dahlias and delphinium. Upon their return from a six weeks' trip, Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will make their home in Pittsburgh.

The pretty home of Mrs. Homer Fritchman in Newport road made a charming setting for the president's day reception of the Forest Hills Woman's Club yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Arthur Jackmen, the new president, made her inaugural address and outlined the club's plan of study for the season. There was a very lovely musical program by Miss Juliet Bartlett, soprano, with Mrs. Douglas Miner at the piano. This, with the informal talks given by the various visiting presidents, made up the program, a wholly informal one and of just the right length for a sultry afternoon. Mrs. Carl E. Cosiowsky, president of the Congress of Clubs, commended the club for its plan to have a representative sit in all borough council and school board meetings. Mrs. R. B. Perry, president of the county federation, also spoke and greetings were given by Miss Minnette Thompson, of the Wilkinsburg Civic Club; Mrs. W. C. Hawley, of the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club; Mrs. L. C. Boone, Pitcairn Reading Circle; Mrs. F. H. Stone, Community Club of Edgewood Acres; Mrs. A. L. Schieber, Thursday Afternoon Club of Wilkinsburg; Mrs. L. M. Brown, Crescent Hills Community Club, and Mrs. G. F. Packard, Women's Club of Bryn Mawr Farms. Mrs. T. C. Clifford, president of the Woman's Alliance of the First Unitarian Church, and Mrs. M. A. Keffer, president of the Carrick Mothers, were other visitors. The house was elaborately and beautifully decorated with garden flowers.

Mrs. A. W. Love, a former president of the Young Women's Club, who now lives in Cincinnati, is visiting in Pittsburgh and will be here for the club's president's day next Tuesday in the Congress clubhouse. The October meeting of the organization will be held in Carnegie Institute, where the international art exhibit will be visited. Miss M. Helen Marks, dean of women at Pennsylvania College for Women, will address the club in November and it will hold its annual Christmas party December 20. A book review and a talk by Miss Helen Grimes, a visit to the Heinz plant, a luncheon for the blind and the annual outing are among other events arranged for the year.

An array of interests has been spread before the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Club in the new year books and it would be difficult to venture from this distance which may prove the most popular. Mrs. M. M. Redenbaugh's talk on "The House of My Dreams" is bound to find favor, because Mrs. Redenbaugh speaks in a way and on a subject which is of interest to all women. At least one portion of the audience, the mothers, will be pleased with the educational committee's day, when the school children will give the program. The same group will, no doubt, be interested in the Christmas program, which is to be given for the children on December 12. "The Yesterdays in Mt. Lebanon History," a community service benefit, a play, Miss Elizabeth Campbell's talk, Mrs. John M. Phillips' address on "The Soul of the Home," the literary department's day, the election, a program on "Practical Gardening," a visit to the Children's Hospital, an evening with the music department, the annual business meeting and the annual luncheon all will contribute their quota to the year's profit and pleasure.

WED WHITNEY, REVEALED

PHOEBE FOSTER

It was revealed today that the bride of Harold Leroy Whitney, millionaire clubman and polo player, was Miss Phoebe Foster, actress. The couple procured a marriage license where the actress gave her real name, Angeline Egar. She refused to have her picture taken at All Souls' Unitarian Church, where the ceremony took place, and revealed that she had hoped to avoid recognition.

Redistilled Alcohol Is Potable, Doran Admits

"Alcohol denatured by aldehol may be redistilled and used for ordinary hooch, but it will never do for cutting choice liquors," declared Dr. J. M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, in comment on the aldehol rectifying plant uncovered by dry sleuths at Bellevue.

Previously it had been proclaimed by others that aldehol could not be removed, that its odor would virtually prohibit consumption, and that if it should be swallowed gastric disorder would result.

"The bootlegging business is based on the palatability of the product, and re-distilled aldehol has a scurvy taste," Dr. Doran continued. "I am not saying aldehol can't be largely removed, but it is an expensive process and the stuff they get is not worth while. It cannot be used for good liquor, but for people who are not too particular, I suppose it gets by."

Dr. Doran maintained that aldehol is much better as a denaturant for government purposes than its predecessor, pyridine.

"Our aim is to take off the profit in the illicit manufacture of intoxicants," he said. "And it is an expensive affair to remove aldehol."

SOUTH FIRM FOR TWO-THIRDS RULE

Opposed to Smith, Caraway Says

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—Abolition of the two-thirds rule which governs presidential nominations by the Democratic party was opposed by Senator T. H. Caraway (Dem.) of Arkansas upon his return to the capital.

"I do not believe that Southern Democrats will support abolition of that rule when they realize that by so doing they would lose their present veto power against nominees obnoxious to the South," said Caraway. He added:

"Since the South is uniformly Democratic it should have something to say about who the nominee shall be. Should the two-thirds rule be abolished I can see where a majority of the delegates could be obtained for candidates peculiarly undesirable to the South.

"The two-thirds rule has not crippled action by the convention in the past. It will be remembered that neither Gov. Smith nor McAdoo at any time gained a majority."

The South is not talking national politics. Flood relief for the stricken Mississippi Valley is uppermost in their thoughts, according to Caraway.

Aspirants for the Democratic presidential nomination are not being generally discussed but Caraway said he noted a disposition of aspirants to promise the vice presidency to [illegible] in the South. No doubt many have been promised places in the cabinet, many for one position, he believes.

Caraway said he has noted "no change in the sentiment of the South against Gov. Al Smith for the presidency." Smith's wetness and religion put him in disfavor, according to Caraway.

"GO"-

The new Atlantic Gasoline certainly knows that word!

Some plain facts for the motorist

"GO" in gasoline demands not only volatility, but stability as well. . . . Not only the quality for action, but the quality for power too. . . . Not only the capacity to ignite surely, but also the stamina to "follow through" on each drive of the piston.

The new Atlantic is that kind of gasoline. It is full of snap and quickness, and it is also full of vigor and punch.

It is perfectly balanced. . . . 1927 Atlantic is a scientific combination of choice elements obtained from three different types of crude—California, Texas and West Virginia.

It has just the right proportions of the lighter elements needed for easy vaporizing and sure-fire ignition. And it has terrific expansive force! . . . It is packed with power!

Atlantic needs no coaxing when starting the motor. No urging at the getaway. No frequent gear-shifting on the hills.

And high speeds will tell you that Atlantic can keep up with the fastest-running motor built.

Today's Atlantic is unquestionably the finest all-round motor fuel made!

M. E. PASTOR FOR CATHOLIC FOR PRESIDENT

By Universal Service.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 15.—Election of a Catholic President of the United States is indorsed by Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, pastor of Central Methodist Episcopal Church and a leader in his denomination, in an article to be printed in the first issue of "Plain Talk Magazine," a monthly championing the cause of tolerance.

"Why not a Catholic president?" is the tune of the article and the conclusion is "Why not, indeed."

"We should not rest contented until the time has come when we can place a high-minded Catholic, a man of unquestioned character and ability in the president's chair," Dr. Hough writes.

"Men of good will in the Protestant group ought to be eager that a Catholic should have a share in public office in proportion to the percentage of the population and should be watching for Catholic candidates whom they can conscientiously support."

"The Protestant who refuses to vote for a Catholic simply because the candidate is a Catholic is not worthy of American citizenship," Dr. Hough adds.

SEMBLE SHARES RIFLE RECORD

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 16.—(AP.)—John E. Semble, of Sewickley, Pa., and Russell Griffith, national guardsman of Lovell, Wyo., established a new record in the closing event of the running deer matches yesterday when they bettered the old mark of 46 points by one point, tieing for first place.

Semble previously held the record of 46 points in the running deer matches, which are attracting wide attention among rifle marksmen. The running deer ranges, which were first established here in 1925, offer fascinating sport and diversion from the old slow and rapid fire matches.

A "deer" appears and moves a distance of 75 yards across the range in six seconds, while the marksman stands at the firing point with the butt of the rifle below his shoulder, the normal position used in carrying a rifle when game is expected to break from cover, and attempts to "get his deer."

Maj. Gen. Creed C. Hammond, Washington, presented 48 gold and 48 silver medals today to winners of national rifle association matches completed during the 15-day program here.

ARGONNE DAY SEPTEMBER 24

Argonne Day, national tag day for the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, will be observed here September 24 with a public appeal for funds by Aspinwall Chapter No. 20. Forget-me-nots will be sold at principal street corners and public buildings. The money will be used by the disabled veterans in their relief work among ex-service men awaiting government aid.

From last year's fund more than $500 was loaned to ex-service men and their families; a floral fund for veterans at the government hospital at Aspinwall was established and many other forms of help afforded former soldiers, sailors and marines.

UNIONTOWN COUPLE HELD

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 16.—Mrs. Margaret Stevens Bell, 25, and Donald Crum, Uniontown, arrested in Indianapolis following the theft of a cab from a taxi driver, were identified through a description by police here yesterday. Mrs. Bell is said to be the wife of John Bell, known in fight circles as Johnnie Donnelly. Crum formerly was a coal and iron policeman in this district.

Mrs. Bell takes responsibility for the theft claiming she wanted to get to Cincinnati and did not have funds. Crum's mother, Mrs. R. T. Ball, and his step father, went to Indianapolis to aid their son.

THIEVES STRIP COUPLE OF $16,180 IN JEWELS

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP.)—Ernie Young, theatrical producer, and Mrs. Young were held up in their Gold Coast hotel apartment last night by two men and robbed of $16,180 in jewelry and cash. The robbers, armed, walked into the unlocked apartment as Mr. and Mrs. Young were dining. They compelled Mrs. Young to show them where she kept the jewels, after which they tied the hands of their victims with silk stockings.

CIRCUS WAGON DRIVER KILLED IN TRAIN CRASH

CARLISLE, Pa., Sept. 16.—One man was killed and another critically injured here early today when a Cumberland Valley train struck a circus wagon hauling tent poles to the Reading depot.

Harry Smith, 50, of Chicago, died in a hospital after he was thrown from the seat of the wagon, and Thomas Reilly, of Lexington, Ky., was believed to have suffered a fractured skull.

Sally's Shoulders

ENGROSSING DIFFERENT
DRAMATIC

By BEATRICE BURTON

Mr. Jerome's Return Home Is Shortlived; Sally's Absence Is Blamed

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who is separated from her mother. The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work for MR. PEEVEY down town afternoons. In the flat below the Jeromes lives young TED SLOAN, an automobile salesman who wants Sally to marry him and keep on working. But the only man who interests her is JOHN NYE, whose real estate office is across the hall from Mr. Peevey's. Nye hires Millie as his secretary and becomes blindly infatuated with her. But Millie confesses that, while she likes him a great deal, she prefers a bond salesman named DAVY DAVIDSON and intends to get him a job with Nye. Davidson develops a passion for Sally, and Sally makes him promise not to try to get a position with John Nye, knowing that his presence in the office would make trouble. Millie goes to the hospital for an operation, and John Nye pays for her room and nurse, and showers her wih flowers. She will not see him, but sends for Davidson. Sally tries to do her work in John Nye's office, but refuses any pay for it. One night when Mr. Jerome, who has been sent for, and Mrs. Jerome are visiting Millie in the hospital, Sally works late for John Nye. He eats no dinner, and when she goes out for a sandwich she carries two sandwiches back to the office for him, worried because he is missing his warm dinner.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

BY THE time he turned around, Sally was herself once more.

She was busily typing some letters that he had laid upon her desk, and above her head a green-shaded hanging lamp made a rich shower of brightness all around her. That brightness lay like sunshine on the glossy waves of her hair, the tender curve of her cheek, and the beautiful sweep of her dark lashes.

She did not look up, and so she did not see that John's eyes studied her for a long time. He lighted a cigaret and sat down in his chair, leaning back comfortably and watching her with a smile.

"Thanks for my dinner" he said, not speaking until she looked up at him with those deep, gay eyes of hers.

Sally shrugged her shoulders.

"I hated to bring you those common, dried-up drug store sandwiches," she told him. "I wish I'd had some baked ham of my own. I'bake it with brown sugar and mustard all over it and cloves stuck into it."

He glanced over at the firm little brown hands that were locked over the edge of the typewriter. Clever, capable hands, they were. Beautiful hands, in spite of their roughness.

"You're the best typist who ever worked for me," he said with conviction. "Don't tell me you're a good cook besides."

Sally knew she was one. She knew it just as well as she knew that her name was Sally Jerome. But all she said was:

"I ought to be a good cook. I've been doing the cooking at home for a long time—"

Then she stopped and her face went blank. She remembered, suddenly, that Millie had taken all the credit for the only meal John Nye ever had in their house.

The worst of it was that he remembered it, too.

"Who got the supper the night I was at your house?" he asked, bluntly.

And Sally, blushing like a poppy, told a white lie in her loyalty to Millie. Her everlasting and senseless loyalty to her.

"Millie helped me," said she, and slipped a new sheet of paper under the roll of her typewriter.

But John Nye knew!

For several moments there was silence in the big office at the very top of the tall Nye-Naylor building, broken only by the woodpecker tapping of Sally's fingers on the typewriter keys.

Then John Nye spoke again. "I told you I was taking on a new salesman in the morning, didn't I?" he asked. "And it looks as if I'm going to be able to use some extra help here in the office. So when old Hank Peevey lets you go, just remember that there's a job waiting for you over here, will you?"

"If he lets me go—why, what do you mean?" faltered Sally, open-mouthed with amazement.

John looked nonplussed. "Perhaps I shouldn't have said anything. But he told me the other day that he's thinking of shutting up shop very soon. He's pretty well along, you know, and he doesn't have to keep busy any more. I imagine he kept that office open more to take up his time than for any other reason."

Sally stared at him in sick amazement. Why, it was like knocking the very earth from under her feet to tell her that Mr. Peevy was closing up his funny old office. And she still owed him almost a hundred dollars! . . . What would she do about that? Where would she go?

"I can't come here to work, that's certain," she said to herself, her solemn gaze on John Nye's face. "I never could stand watching him and Millie all day. I'd go and wash dishes in a restaurant first!"

And then the thought of Aunt Emily's wayside inn came to her. . . . Yes, she could go to Aunt Emily. She could take a chance with Emily if nothing else turned up. Aunt Emily.

The telephone on her desk rang. It sounded as loud and alarming as a fire bell in the silence.

She picked up the receiver. "This is Mr. Nye's office," she said [illegible], 'n a cool business swered her. "Say, I'm up in your house. Your mother's having a fit about something and wants you to come right home. I'll be right down in the boat to get you." He hung up.

"I've got to go home," Sally told John Nye. "Ted Sloan's coming down for me. But I'll keep right on working till he gets here. I was supposed to get supper tonight for my mother and father, and I reckon they're getting pretty hungry."

It was 8 o'clock. The bells of some downtown church were chiming the hour as she spoke, their voices clear and silvery on the night air.

"What's wrong with Mother?" she asked Ted when they were in his shivering, jumping automobile, speeding towards home.

"How do I know? Don't ask me riddles, Sally. I'm in low gear tonight," he said, just missing a street car. "All I know is that I ran up to your back door to see if you were washing dishes and she was sitting there, crying her eyes out. She told me to get you right away."

"Poor Mother! She shouldn't have tried to get supper. She always gets light-headed and dizzy when she does any work," she answered, her voice full of concern and tenderness. "I suppose my father wanted something hot and she stood over the cook stove too long. Step on the gas, Teddy."

He stepped on it. He loved speed. He should have been an ambulance chaser!"

By some miracle they were not arrested on the way home.

Sally started up the dark back steps of the flat building, while he put his little car into the garage.

Before she reached the top he called to her in a hushed voice:

"Wait a minute, Baby!"

She waited, wondering what he wanted.

Up through the warm heavy darkness he came to her.

Perhaps it was because she was wistful and quiet after her evening with John Nye. Perhaps it was because the night laid its ancient spell of darkness and star-shine upon young Ted Sloan.

But anyway, when he reached her he put his arms around her and kissed her—twice, very quickly—before she could stop him.

"Oh, Sally, be a sport and marry me!" he said, and even if his words were slang, his voice was strained with longing. "Sally, I hate to think of you shut up in an office, late at night, with John Nye——"

"John Nye!" repeated Sally, with great scorn, rubbing her lips with her handkerchief under cover of the darkness. "Why, I'm as safe with John Nye as I'd be with Beau! Why, he's crazy-cracked over Millie! He's as good as married to her! In another six months I'll bet you money that he's my brother-in-law!"

Also under cover of darkness, young Mr. Sloan shook his head unbelievingly. . . . He had looked 'em all over, so he told himself. And "no guy in his right senses would even see Millie when a hot looker like Sally was around!"

"And besides, how could I marry you? How could I marry ANYBODY, even if I wanted to?" she wanted to know, and

Court Asked to Seize Western Pa. Ballots

A petition to impound all ballot boxes used in the November election last year in 24 of the 25 counties comprising the Western Federal District, was presented to Federal Judge R. M. Gibson by Attorney Carlos Berguido, Jr., representing William S. Vare. The ballot boxes of Allegheny county previously had been taken over by the Senate Elections Committee.

Vare's election at the general election, November 2, 1926, is being contested before the United States Senate by William B. Wilson, the Democratic candidate.

David Wallerstein, counsel for Wilson, joined in the petition. It was stated by counsel that a similar petition was to be filed in the Eastern District Court at Philadelphia today. Judge Johnson, in the Middle Federal District last Tuesday, granted a similar petition.

Judge Gibson took under advisement the petition, which seeks to impound ballot boxes in Armstrong, Beaver, Bedford, Blair, Butler, Cambria, Clarion, Clearfield, Crawford, Elk, Erie, Fayette, Forest, Greene, Indiana, Jefferson, Lawrence, McKean, Mercer, Somerset, Venango, Warren, Washington and Westmoreland counties.

The petition asks that the ballot boxes be impounded and contents held subject to the order and requisition of the United States Senate. The petition sets forth that the action on the part of Senator-elect Vare and Mr. Wilson was taken with the approval of the standing Committee on Privileges and Elections of the Senate, to whom the contested election was referred March 4.

In cases where there is but one set of boxes in a county, it is asked that the ballots be removed and placed in other containers. There is no accusation or intimation of fraud mentioned in the petition, which indicates that the sole motive was to preserve the ballots which may be needed by the Senate in the Vare-Wilson contest.

DRY OFFICERS MAKE RAIDS AT SCRANTON

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 16.—(Special.)—Thirty prohibition officers from Philadelphia, Wilkes-Barre and other parts of the state arrived here just before 11 o'clock this morning and started wholesale raids in the central city district. Col. Samuel O. Wynne, federal prohibition administrator from Philadelphia, was in charge of the raiders. Large quantities of beer liquor and wines were seized and hauled in trucks to warehouses. DRY LAW WAS IN WETS' HANDS—M'BRIDE

That prohibition enforcement has been conducted in the hands of enemies of the dry law, namely, the "wets," was hinted today by Dr. F. Scott McBride of Columbus, O., general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America.

Dr. McBride, temporary successor to Wayne B. Wheeler, whose death occurred recently, stopped in Pittsburgh today to attend the testimonial luncheon to Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

Dr. McBride declared that prohibition is a success and described rumors of increased rum flow as "wet propaganda."

"If the administration of large cities—Pittsburgh included—would lend a stronger hand in the enforcement of the dry law," Dr. McBride said, "one-half of the difficulties of enforcement would be solved."

Colleen Moore Returns to Her Stellar Alma Mater and Scenes Of Many Box Office Triumphs

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—Today brings Colleen Moore to the campus ground of her dear old stellar alma mater as she returns to the scenes of her box office triumphs and her First National dressing room. Colleen has begun her current F. N. offering under the terms of the new contract that nets her approximately $150,000 per flicker.

Marshall ("Mickey") Neilan is megaphoning the star to whom he gave career boosting roles back in the days when Colleen ate her bread sometimes without butter. And to Larry Kent has been entrusted the role of the hero.

It was believed that Gordon Elliott had this part cinched, but complications of an argumentative nature arose that left Mr. Elliott exposed to wintry blasts. This lad has been struggling for two years to attract the eyes of producers. He appears an upstanding lad but producers are far too busy seeking new leading men to look under their noses for those who may be parked there. Mr. Elliott has had 13 spasmodic screen tests taken during his two years struggling for 13 roles that slipped to some one else.

A story has gone up the flue in his not getting the lead opposite Colleen. Elliott has 13 letters in his name. Had he corraled the present part, one could have bubbled that he, like President Wilson, rated 13 his luck number. Oh, well, as the conductor said to the passenger who tried to ride on an old transfer: "Better luck next time."

Mrs. Joseph Schildkraut — Elise Bartlett—isn't going to Manhattan to buy a hat after all.

In the first place, David Belasco has decided to postpone his production of "The Emperor and the Ballerina," for which he wanted young Schildkraut, until next season.

In the second place, young Schildkraut has been promised a two or three months' vacation when he completes "The Blue Danube," with Leatrice Joy.

And in the third place, Elise's mother is coming West via the Panama Canal.

So, perforce, Elise will wait until "The Blue Danube" has been completed ere departing for New York and a possible jaunt abroad.

But really, isn't it a delicious reason to trek Manhattanwards, just to purchase a hat?

Centuries ago, it seems, we penned paragraph on paragraph referring to a celluloider yclept "The Tempest" that was to star Jack Barrymore. Your pardon while this cinema is retrieved from the rag-bag of the past and again thrust upon you for the purpose of announcing that Vera Verona is to heroine for the younger Barrymore. Greta Nissen withdrew from this assignment when Erich Von Stroheim rewrote the story and left most of the leading woman in the original script.

Miss Verona, like Mr. Barrymore's story before it reaches the silver sheet, is Russian. When she was imported to this country about a year ago under Famous Players' protection and contract, great was the acclaim rendered her by Famous Players. A veritable divine of the histrionics plus sundry other extravagances, whereupon the lady in question eventually realized this remarkable heralding by playing with Raymond Griffith in "Wedding Bells" and now with Jack Barrymore.

Mustache Means Lots, Players Discover

W. C. Fields and Chester Conklin, paired in the forthcoming Paramount comedy, "The Side Show," express their ego and emphasize their individuality partly through their divergent styles of mustaches.

Conklin has cultivated and trained his walrus adornment until it is an essential element in his screen personality. It has made him a character different from any one else in pictures, and he attributes much of his success to it. Fields goes in for a slighter and more debonair style, detachable. Yet he would not consent to being separated permanently from it. The two mustaches are foils for one another just as the comedians themselves are.

"My mustache denotes comedy and at the same time it helps a lot in expressing pathos," Conklin asserts. "Being just a slight model, built low on the ground, the big mustache gets many a laugh. But then again, it is realistic, because one sees many a sympathetic little fellow with such a growth. Getting a mustache that is applicable to both comedy and drama was a hard task, and it took me years to work it out. Now I believe I have it down to perfection. At least, Paramount has me and my mustache under contract."

Fields differs slightly from Conklin, says Fields.

"I can get just as many heartthrobs and laughs out of the pit on my upper lip as Chester can get with his great, blooming homegrown whiskers. I think that the tiny misplaced eyebrow helps to stir an audience's sympathy.

"And, furthermore, it's easy to put on. Just a dab of spirit and it's there for all day long. It's not uncomfortable and hot. It is economical and it has personality. I'm just as loyal to mine as Chester is to his."

Star's Cousin Has First Film Role In "Ramona"

Edwin Carewe, who is producing "Ramona" as his next United Artists picture, has signed a first cousin of Dolores del Rio, and a Russian character actor, and a Scotch collie dog, to support Miss del Rio in her first starring vehicle.

Carlos Amor, Miss del Rio's first cousin, has been given his first screen role by Mr. Carewe, who describes him as "tall, dark and handsome." The Russian actor is Michael Visaroff, who will play the caretaker of the Moreno hacienda. Visaroff was the ship captain in "Two Arabian Knights," United Artists post-war comedy, soon to be released. The Scotch collie dog is Jean, who had a role in "Mighty Lak a Rose." Jean's role in "Ramona" is one that runs throughout the action of the film.

Indian Maid Rouges for War; Likes Boys Here

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Even an Indian princess has a flapper way of "sassing" back at the grown-ups who would reform her.

Says Princess Dawn Mist, beautiful and thoroughly United Statesized daughter of the Blackfeet tribe:

"When an old fogy from our tribe says anything about the girls using make-up, I just say—'Well, who started it?' If our men must use war paint to make an impression, why can't we? They use it to make them look vicious. We use it to make us look a little more dangerous, too!"

To say that the Princess is pretty is putting it mildly. She is tall and stately, as a princess should be. Her black, shiny hair hangs in two well-plaited braids from a shapely head, and two blue-black eyes sparkle just below a beaded band.

A white buckskin gown, quite long, hides a great deal of her flapper highness. But one imagines tiny feet encased in the gay, beaded moccasins and pretty legs to go with them.

Her views of love and marriage?

Well, 17-year-old Dawn Mist says:

"Perhaps I'll marry a white boy. Maybe! I have been going with one for a long time. A lot of girls from our reservation are marrying white men. I should marry an Indian if I loved one. But, I'm pretty crazy about this white boy. It is a problem. Of course, our tribes don't object to our marrying out of the blood nearly so much as they used to. They feel we are all Americans now."

Petting? Dawn Mist grins:

"Not so bad. When you pet with someone you like a lot. But, it is rude and bad taste to let strange people kiss you. Indian girls do not tolerate it."

Princess Dawn Mist speaks English beautifully in a soft well-modulated voice. She is a graduate of Carlisle College, you know. She hails from Glacier Park, Montana.

She likes Pittsburgh—and vows:

"Some day I want to come back here and look the town over thoroughly, bring the key to the city Mayor Kline gave me and unlock every nook and cranny. I live the life of a real Indian—even to the sleeping in blankets in a tent. I wouldn't want to live the hampered shut-in life you girls live.

"But," she smiles—"I like your big buildings, your theaters and the good-looking Pittsburgh boys that go with your civilization. So, some day I'm coming back to explore."

Keep your favorite sheik pretty busy while she is here, girls. That little princess is no "flat tire."

PUGILIST SUES FOR DIVORCE

Jack Fromme, 328 Penn avenue, prize ring celebrity, wants his freedom. Through his attorney, Leonard A. Mazer, Fromme yesterday filed suit for divorce from Eva W. Fromme, 250 Fifth avenue, Rankin, charging desertion. Married in 1922, they separated in 1925.

PIANOS SPURNED BY MUSICAL THIEVES

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—"Music hath charms—"

Whether that had anything to do with it or not is a question, but the fact remains that six men drove up in front of the Rudolph Wurlitzer Company in West Forty-second street early today, smashed the window and escaped with six valuable violins and a clarinet.

Vamp No More -:- Freckles Are Gone -:- Polly and Marie -:- Nice Cool Fur

THEDA BARA, once most famous movie vampire, is making her return to the screen via the comedy route.

WESLEY BARRY, minus his freckles, is back in screen work. The other lad is James Murray, with whom Wesley will be seen in the picturization of "In Old Kentucky," noted stage play.

POLLY MORAN greets Marie Dressler on the latter's return to Hollywood to play Mrs. Dinty Moore in "Bringing Up Father." The two appeared in "The Callahans and the Murphys."

ELEANOR GRIFFIN possibly anticipated winter when she fixed up for this picture. The hat is green felt, if you must know.

HELEN GAHAGAN QUITS STAGE

By JOSEPH MULVANEY,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Helen Gahagan cancelled all theatrical engagements for the season yesterday and announced that she would devote herself to grand opera exclusively in the future. Miss Gahagan's retirement from the stage followed her return to New York from Europe, where she spent the summer. After a conference with George C. Tyler, the producer, in a statement Miss Gahagan said:

"For several years the operatic idea has been lurking in the back of my head. When I went abroad this year, I studied vocal music at Reichenhall, Bavaria, and found myself fascinated.

"So I decided to leave the stage and concentrate on operatic preparation. This may sound surprising, but few of my friends will be astonished. You see, they think I'm crazy anyway, and are prepared for almost anything I do.

"Of course, the Metropolitan Opera Company is my aim, but I have only a hope and no assurance that I will attain it. If I fail—well, you'll see me back on the stage fast enough."

Miss Gahagan's last stage appearance was in the title role of "Trelawny of the Wells," in the star spangled company, headed by John Drew and herself, which broke cross-country records. The death of John Drew in California caused the tour to close.

Miss Gahagan sang in the pinero play and many critics commented on the sweetness, clarity and volume of her voice. Previously, she was seen as "Leah Kleschna," and in "Manhattan," "Dreams for Sale," "Chains" and "Young Woodley." She has been regarded as one of the brightest of the new generations of stars.

The retirement of Miss Gahagan will compel a revision of the plans of George C. Tyler for this season. He planned to feature her in a new play shortly. Miss Gahagan is the daughter of a Brooklyn engineering contractor.

Eight New Films Under Way in One Plant

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 16.—Plans for the fall production schedule at the F B O studios show that there will be no letup from the intense activity which has characterized the summer for this organization, according to William LeBaron, vice president in charge of production, who announces that eight productions are on the calendar for September.

Within the past few days, three pictures have entered production at F B O. They are "Coney Island," a Ralph Ince production with Lois Wilson and Lucila Mendez in the leading roles; "Red Riders of Canada," with Patsy Ruth Miller and Charles Byer and directed by Robert DeLacy; and "The Little Buckaroo," starring the 12-year-old Buzz Barton and directed by Louis King.

Pictures in preparation which will be started within 10 days are "Freckles," one of Gene Stratton-Porter's most successful novels which Leo Meehan will direct; "The Renegade," starring Bob Steele; "When the Law Rides," starring Tom Tyler; "The Swift Shadow," starring the popular police dog, Ranger, and "Her Summer Hero," for which a cast will be chosen within a few days.

"THE CRADLE SONG" AMONG PLAY BILLS

Eva Le Gallienne's Civic Repertory Theater of New York will present in the Nixon next Monday the Spanish comedy, "The Cradle Song," by Gregorio and Maria Martinez Sierra. Mary Sharp heads the company.

"Rose Marie" returns to the Alvin for an engagement of one week only, beginning Monday evening, Sept. 19, with matinee on Wednesday and Saturday.

The types in Willard Mack's "Honor Be Damned," next week's offering of the George Sharp Production Stock Company in the Pitt Theater, are the gunman, the gangster, political fixers and ward leaders. A boy and girl from the country provide the comedy.

Charles Ray Gets Job as Screen Tests Fail

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—After making what has proved one of the most exhaustive—and exhausting—series of screen tests ever held in Hollywood, Corinne Griffith has finally turned to her original choice and selected Charles Ray as her leading man in "The Garden of Eden," which is now in production at the United Artists' studio under the supervision of John W. Considine, Jr. Mr. Ray begins work immediately on the picture.

Miss Griffith's first thought was of Ray when casting for the picture was begun; for the part is one particularly suited to his capabilities. But at that time his services could not be obtained. While screen tests of nearly every available leading man in Hollywood were being taken the picture was started, and before the tests were completed Ray had so managed to arrange his roles that he could accept a contract.

New Director and Star in Cinema Firmament

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 16.—A new director and a new star loom on the cinematic horizon of fame as a result of the success of the United Artists comedy, "Two Arabian Knights."

Lewis Milestone, 29-year-old megaphone artist, and Louis Wolheim, noted stage star, both leaped to fresh fame as a result of their work in the post-war comedy, which was produced by the Caddo Company, a new United Artists unit.

Milestone won a long-term contract from Howard Hughes, president of the Caddo Company, and has been given a number of important assignments on forthcoming pictures.

Wolheim, who won stage fame as the original Capt. Flagg of "What Price Glory," and as the hero of "The Hairy Ape," was likewise signed to contract by Hughes, and his screen fame is virtually assured.

Screen Writers to Plan October Wedding

Jingle of wedding bells will resound through F B O studios during the next month when Dorothy Yost, scenario writer for the studio, and Dwight W. Cummins, also well-known screen writer, are married. Reports of the impending marriage came from the Los Angeles marriage license bureau, when an application was filed by the prospective bridegroom.

Cummins is a former assistant production manager for Mack Sennett and with Miss Yost is now working on the continuity of "Freckles," the Gene Stratton-Porter story, which will be produced for F B O by Leo Meehan.

Miss Yost is the daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Robert M. Yost, of Hollywood.

Beery-Hatton Do Society Drama For Screen

It has become the favorite sport—outdoor and indoor—of Wallace Beery and Raymond Hatton to single out for ridicule some event or institution usually regarded with reverence. They have kidded not only heroes, but the very feats in which the heroes did their stuff. Now another sacred cow is to have its tail pulled. It is no less an institution than society, with a capital "S."

The irrepressible twins of hilarity will call their next picture, "We're in Society Now," according to the announcement by Paramount. The Social Register, the family tree, the boiled shirt and the haughty butler are slated for democratic pokes in the ribs. Production will begin immediately after the actors finish their respects to aviation in "Now We're in the Air."

NOW HAVE "BIT" ROLES

Two former directors who were at the top of the profession years ago, are now relegated to doing bits in the same picture, "Beau Sabreur." They are Frank Richter, once chief director at the old Biograph, and Emil Chautard, once a director for Paramount at its Long Island studio.

ARCHDUKE LEOPOLD IN "THE SYMPHONY" CAST

Archduke Leopold of Austria and Hollywood has been added to the cast of "The Symphony," supporting Jean Hersholt, which is now being filmed at Universal City.

SECRET PARLEY TO PLAN VOTE PLUMPING

Charging that the Republican organization is trying to "bully" public employes into line for its candidates, Judge James H. Gray, independent, spoke today at a meeting in the home of Mrs. A. P. Lindsay, Forbes street and Briar Cliff road.

Declaring that to threaten any employe with dismissal in order to force him to vote for the organization is a misdemeanor, Judge Gray said: "Public employes are free under the law to do as they please in the primary election Tuesday without fear of losing their offices and I sincerely hope all attempt to coerce them will cease."

One candidate for judge, William D. Grimes, has announced his withdrawal in favor of the organization candidates, saying: "I am convinced that the candidates on the Regular Republican ticket are practically sure of nomination. To ask my many friends to continue to support and vote for me is a vain and foolish thing to do, and not only unfair to them, but manifestly unfair to the candidates whom the organization has selected." J. Garfield Houston, another judicial candidate, who withdrew some time ago, has declared for Judge Martin.

Judge Frank I. Gollmar, another independent, has been indorsed by North Side Lodge No. 76, Amalgamated Association of Steel and Iron Workers of North America, his headquarters announced today.

The final Democratic rally of the campaign will be held tonight in the English room of the Fort Pitt Hotel. National Committeeman Joseph F. Guffey will be one of the speakers. The final large Republican organization mass meeting will be held tonight in North Side Carnegie Hall with William M. McNaugher presiding. Other meetings will be held in Homewood Carnegie Library, Thirteenth Ward; at the home of Mrs. Harry E. Speaker, 96 Wabash avenue, Twentieth Ward; Etna High School; East End Carnegie Library, Eleventh Ward, and Turner Hall, South Thirteenth street, for voters of the Sixteenth and Seventeenth wards.

About 1,500 women attended the reception and tea given by the women's division of the organization in the headquarters, Hotel Henry, yesterday. Mrs. C. A. Verner was in charge.

The fate of the Republican organization judicial slate may be decided at conferences of independent candidates' backers over the week end.

At these conferences, being kept as secret as possible, an effort will be made to reach an agreement on the names of two or more organization candidates to be "cut" by all opposing elements.

According to reports, among those in the conferences will be representatives of E. M. Kenna, who is leading a revolt against the city administration and is reported to be the principal supporter of Frank P. Patterson; John J. Verona, Third Ward leader, said to favor Patterson and Frank F. Canuti, and P. J. Sullivan, favorable to Judge Richard W. Martin.

Meanwhile, Republican organization speakers, at a meeting in Hays borough last night, urged support for the entire judiciary slate, former Assistant District Attorney Benjamin Lencher declaring that the independent candidates for judge "have cast aside all semblance of a common cause" and are privately and publicly asking their friends to "plump" for them—that is, to vote for only one of the 20 candidates for the nine places.

After charging that one independent urged "plumping" in a noon address recently, Mr. Lencher said: "On the eve of the battle he proposes to dump overboard his running mates and let the wicked politicians walk away with eight judicial places, if he himself can grab the ninth."

BRIDGE WORKER DIES IN FALL

John Nimish, 29, was killed yesterday in a 60-foot fall from the new county bridge under construction at Glassport. His skull was fractured. Nimish was a laborer employed by the Pitt Construction Company and lived in the company's camp at Glassport.

Frank Morisky, 36, of Second avenue, a structural steel worker was recovering in the South Side Hospital today from shock resulting from a fall from the old Point Bridge into the Monongahela River. He slipped and dropped 70 feet while engaged in dismantling the bridge.

TWO RETURNED IN AUTO THEFT

Lee Watkins, 19, of 419 Olivant street, and William Lothrop, 18, of 211 Carrick avenue, accused of an auto theft here, were brought back to Pittsburgh last night by Motorcycle Detective Harry Foster from Elizabeth, N. J., after losing a 10-day extradition fight.

The youths are accused of stealing an automobile owned by Thomas [illegible] West, 3519 Fifth avenue, the night of September 1.

SWEARINGEN OPENS WAY FOR MINERS' APPEAL

Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, in Common Pleas Court today, refused to reopen judgment on a number of ejection cases won by the Inland Collieries Company against miners living in company houses at Indianola. The action places the mine workers in position to take appeal on the verdict.

What is Anne Caldwell doing with John Hubbard, the "Shovel King's" $50,000? Is she spending it on champagne? The answer will be in the Magazine Section of Sunday's Sun-Telegraph.

Growth of Babies Follows No Rules

DR. COPELAND

WHETHER we want the new baby to grow or not, it just will. It isn't long before it stands on its feet, takes a tottering step or so, and then is on the run about the house and yard. The child has outgrown babyhood.

A tiny baby is absolutely helpless. For the first few days after birth it has very slight control of its body. Voluntary movement is impossible.

I am always impressed by the marvel of the baby calf's ability to walk. It will struggle to its feet immediately after birth and, pretty staggeringly, it must be admitted, will make its way across the field.

But the human baby, with an intelligent mother to look after its wants, has no need to be able to walk for months after its birth. Its little muscles, the features of its face and even the control of its head are beyond self-management. The baby stays where it is put and for a long time, is hardly conscious of the world and its inhabitants.

What a wonderful change takes place during the two or three months after birth! In a half year it is playing with toys and is making an effort to stand on the feet. It is creeping at seven or eight months and before the first birthday arrives the little chap can walk alone.

Don't get discouraged if the baby does not walk or talk at an early age. Some children seem to be in no hurry about getting about or expressing an opinion. They will make up for these matters later.

We want the baby to grow in height and weight. The scales give a very good idea of its physical progress. They are the best test of whether or not the feeding arrangements are perfect.

There is uniformity in the growth of the child. During the first two months it will take on a pound in weight and two inches in height. By the end of five months it doubles its original weight and has grown four inches or more in length.

At the end of the year the baby has trebled its weight at birth and has added eight inches to its height. It takes four years to double the original height and, in that time, it will add about 30 pounds to its weight.

I am talking about the average baby. There are many variations, but in the main these are the changes which are likely to take place in a healthy baby.

Let me say again that the averages I have given are no more than averages. Many a baby refuses to be governed by convention. This is true of the time of cutting teeth. It is equally true of height and weight.

The more fresh air, sunlight and freedom of limb the infant is given, the greater will be the growth, and the greater the strength. Don't pamper the infant. Give it freedom to kick and and squirm and enjoy life. That is the secret of healthy, vigorous growth.

Answer to Health Queries

D. T. Q.—What would cause unpleasant breath where the teeth are in good condition. The offender is a young man. Should he consult his physician, or how could this subject be discussed without offense to him?

A.—May be due to constipation, diseased tonsils, catarrh, or indigestion. Find the cause and the remedy will suggest itself. It would be tactful to suggest he see his doctor for examination.

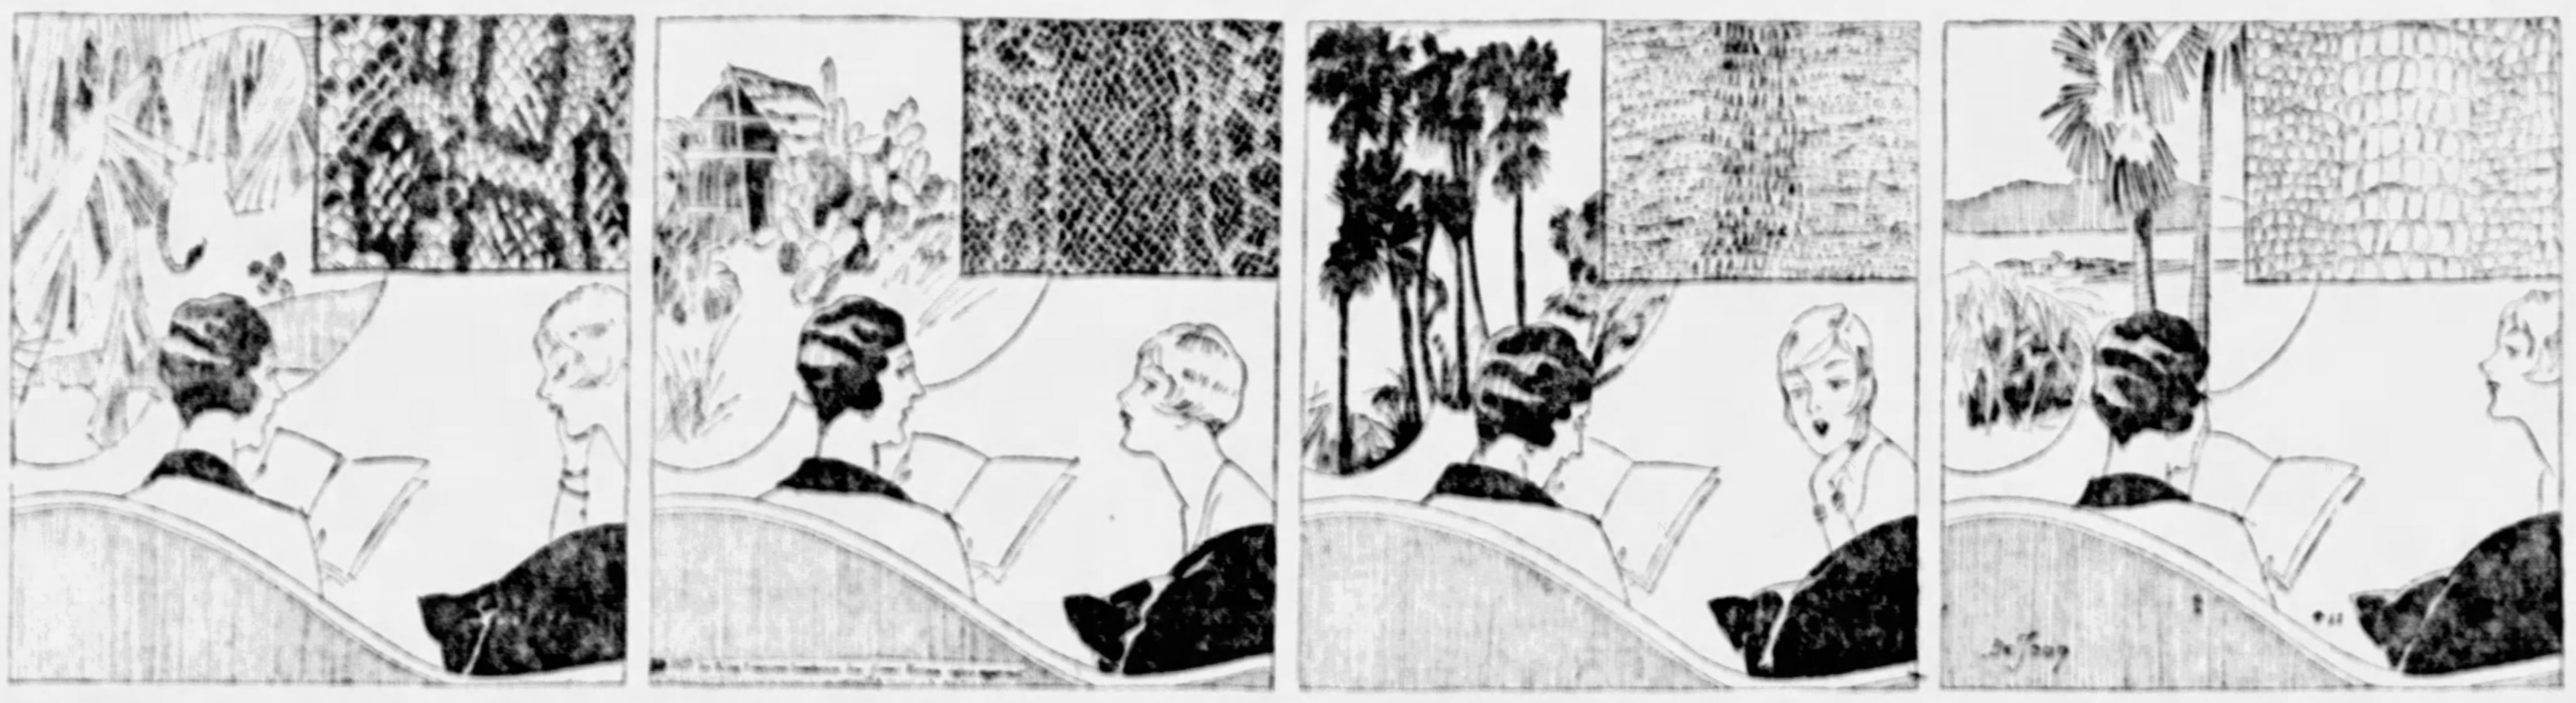
A Varnished Floor

For those who like a rather dull finish and have a varnish on the floor the following mixture will be found a reliable one for keeping it in order. Mix together one gill each of raw linseed oil, turpentine and vinegar. Shake well, and before applying have the floor well swept and dusted, using a woolen cloth. Finish off with a clean, soft duster.

CHIC CHERIE ·:· Snakes Alive! ·:· LATEST FASHIONS



Aunt Em is improving Cherie's mind with a book of travel, all about tropic wildernesses, savage natives, elephants, tigers and snakes. Pythons, now, seem to be peculiarly unpleasant animals. But how smart, thinks Cherie, for coats or bags, and even a python pattern printed on cloth or leather—how chic!

The lizard has a less gaudy skin, which is suited especially to fine handbags and other accessories. There are various kinds of lizards—the Java lizard, the Calcutta lizard and the Ibijara lizard. The question as to which is most fashionable can't be of much importance—except perhaps to the lizard himself.

It is evident that Cherie is paying slight attention to Aunt Em's reading, because Aunt Em is reading about palm trees and Cherie is thinking about water snakes. They don't usually go together. Watersnake is used for bags, belts and other accessories, too, like lizard, and is often dyed pastel colors.

The alligator has a vicious disposition, so no one will waste any sympathy on him. His skin is more than fashionable; it is standard. But, whereas he is always used for luggage, he is only now becoming popular for women's fashion's. Cherie remembers longingly those smart alligator slippers she saw just yesterday.

Madge Gets a Delayed Wireless Message From Philip Veritzen

I CAUGHT my breath in an instant of foolish panic as I heard Mary Harrison's voice summoning me to the telephone and saying that a wireless message awaited me. Ordinary telegrams leave me unmoved, for I have many of them, but—I supposed my father to be abroad. Could anything have happened to him?

Mother Graham straightened her trembling body and moved out of my clasp.

"Hurry," she said, as Mary opened the door. I dashed past my husband's young niece to the upstairs telephone, almost bowling over Dicky with Junior clinging to his hand as I ran.

"Sorry! A wireless!" I explained in extenuation as I ran. "I'm afraid Father—"

Dicky stopped short, and with Junior came toward the telephone. The next few seconds while I listened to the telegraph operator were miserable ones, for the message was not from my father, but from Philip Veritzen, homeward bound from Europe.

Of course, I knew that it would be an absolutely fatal error to appear self-conscious, or to try to conceal any part of the rather flamboyant message being repeated in my ear. So I spoke quickly to the operator.

"Will you please wait until I can get a pencil and paper?"

With punctilious courtesy, Dicky at once came to my side extending a pencil and the back of an envelope, which he had taken from his pocket.

"Your father?" he asked, sympathetically.

I shook my head and saw his eyes go suddenly stormy. Not a muscle of his face changed, however, and I made a quick request.

"Would you mind taking it down as she repeats it to me?" I was determined that he should not imagine there was anything in the message which I did not wish him to know.

His eyes cleared as suddenly as they had clouded.

"Of course," he said, loosening Junior's clinging hand. "Just a minute, son," he told the little lad.

"Will you repeat the message now, please?" I asked the operator, and then, while Dicky with imperturbable face jotted down the words, I intoned the message.

"On board Gigantic. Thursday. Ship delayed. Docks early Sunday morning. Most successful trip. Have wonderful finds. Will interest you greatly. Must see you at once to go over plans for rehearsal in view of new developments. Can you be at office Sunday at 11 o'clock? Please answer at once. Philip Veritzen."

The voice of the operator punctuated the great producer's name.

"Mrs. Graham, I'm so sorry, but this message was sent by mistake to another state. It should have reached you yesterday. I hope it hasn't inconvenienced you."

"Not in the least," I assured her, mechanically, inwardly furious with the knowledge that if the message had been delivered on time it would have arrived before Dicky and I would have been spared my present annoying predicament.

For that it was a predicament I confessed to myself, as I noticed Dicky's fingers gripping the edge of the little telephone table so tightly that the knuckles showed white. He could not know that I saw him, and I guessed that he would make no comment upon the message.

The operator spoke again.

"Is there a message in return?"

"Not just yet," I told her, and hanging up the receiver, turned to my husband, with a strenuous effort to be matter-of-fact.

"Thank you so much," I said sweetly, holding out my hand for the message, then added quickly:

"Didn't you say you were going back Tuesday?"

"Yes." Dicky spoke as if with difficulty. "Why?"

"Because I think I'll radio Mr. Veritzen that I can't possibly get to his office before Tuesday," I said. "I can go in on the early train and get there in plenty of time. I don't want to upset your first week-end at home."

Dresden China

Those who have ornaments of Dresden china or any similar intricate patterned ware are often puzzled how to get dust and dirt out of the inaccessible parts. Try applying a soap lather with an old shaving brush. It gets right into the crevices, and after the article is rinsed in clear water it is left quite free of dust.

Milady Beautiful

By Lois Leeds

VERY FAINT TRACE OF LIPSTICK

THE MATURE WOMAN'S BEAUTY

THIS week I seem to be trespassing upon the field of the fashion artist, who gives suggestions on color schemes for different types of women, but my approach to the subject is a little different from hers. Earlier in the week I gave my ideas on makeup and clothes for certain types of blondes and brunettes whose hair is rather dull and somewhat yellow.

Instead of telling this type of woman to avoid certain colors I advise her to avoid sallowness, so that she may wear the colors she pleases. A skin that has been fair in girlhood need not turn brown in middle life if it is given the proper care. Good health, too, is a very important item in keeping the appearance of youth.

As women advance into the late forties and fifties, many of them do not realize that they must readjust some of their habits of living. Worry and unusual physical strain should be avoided. Less food is required now than in the more active years of life. Plenty of fresh air and a moderate amount of outdoor exercise are required to retard the aging process, which in most cases comes prematurely as the cumulative effect of habitual neglect of health rules during youth and early maturity.

Overweight is a prime enemy of milady's beauty in middle life. It not only puts unnecessary strain on her heart and the internal organs, but it ruins her figure. The woman with a large, bulky form does not look chic in her clothes no matter how expensive and beautiful they may be. Light colors make her appear magnified in size and she cannot wear graceful and floating draperies. She must wear dark or neutral colors in dull finish fabrics with tailored lines.

The mature woman whose figure is slender and whose complexion reflects the clear glow of health may wear almost any color but black and bright, harsh red. Flesh, cream and yellowish pinks are becoming. Seal and chestnut browns and dull pinkish tans are good. Dull blue is excellent, especially if her eyes are blue. Dark green may be worn with a cream or flesh collar. A blue-gray material with a small pinkish figure in it would be pretty. Warm gray may also be worn. Pink, lavender and Burgundy are good. Pale yellow in sheer fabrics is becoming to the brown-eyed type.

Face powder should be used sparingly on wrinkled skins. If the complexion is inclined to be oily a mild astringent lotion may be patted on instead of powder. A very faint trace of rouge or lipstick is permissible, but too much makeup gives a hard look to the face.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

THE REAL ETERNAL TRIANGLE

NEARLY every wife is secretly and sub-consciously jealous—not of another woman, but of her husband's club, lodge or favorite "hang-out," which he seems to find so much more alluring than he does his home.

* * *

And there's a reason! For there are a hundred comforts, which a man can find at his club, that he never enjoys at home.

For instance, a club is always QUIET! It is a haven wherein a man may sit and doze or muse for hours, undisturbed; yet, where he can always find somebody with whom to chat or chum, when he feels expansive; where he may be ALONE or in company, at will, and where he may talk or keep SILENT, and nobody goes off and sniffles and wonders if his love is dead!

HELEN ROWLAND

A club is a place where he is always sure of a pleasant greeting, no matter at what hour he may show up; where he may go to sleep after dinner or sit up until dawn, without being questioned; where he may arise with the lark or doze until noon, in peace and tranquility. For there are no human alarm clocks to shatter his dreams!

A club is a place where nobody censors a man's appetite, or looks reprovingly at the number of cigar-stubs he has left in the ash-tray; where he may eat all those things which disagree with him, drink whatever he can afford to pay for, and sit around with a grouch all evening, and nobody is afraid he is going to die, or offers to call the doctor.

Of course, no CLUB ever smelled of violet talcum and black narcissus, or told a man how wonderful he was, or called him "Sweetikins," or put the links in his shirt, or sweetened his coffee, or found his shoes.

But then, no club ever made him swallow a quinine tonic, made him spray the lawn, go to church, put on his heavy underwear, or get up in the night to see what the noise was. And NO club ever used his handkerchiefs to wipe off the cold cream, or acted jealous if he looked at another club!

* * *

Perhaps, that is why a man is always so eager to reach his club, and so reluctant to leave it. In a club he is his OWN guardian!

* * *

Oh yes, the Eternal Triangle is not half so often composed of a man and two women, as it is of a man, a woman, and a CLUB!

"Home" may be "where the heart is," as the old song goes. But if that is true, most men are more at home in a club, than at home!

Perhaps wives might take the hint and be more 'clubby!"

Mr. Jerome's Return Home Is Shortlived; Sally's Absence Is Blamed

just how Ted felt—and she was sorry for him. It was no fun to be in love with someone who didn't care a bit for you. It hurt. Didn't she know?

"Why couldn't you get married?" Ted asked doggedly, as they walked across the upper porch, past the old painted rocker and the geranium boxes and the milk bottle box.

"Well, because of mother. Who'd look after her?" asked Sally.

"Your father's here now," Ted answered her, as he bent over to fit the key into the lock on the kitchen door. "Maybe he'll stick around and do his duty, for a change—"

"Stop! Don't you say another word about my father!" Sally's breast was rising in quick anger. "You just keep your thoughts about my family to yourself, Ted Sloan!"

She banged the door shut in his face as she vanished into the kitchen.

And he went down stairs, promising himself passionately, as he had promised himself the same thing scores of times before, that he was through with that spitfire forever and ever—that he would forget that she was on the face of the earth from then on!

But, of course, he would do no such thing.

And right down at the bottom of his sould he knew it.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

SALLY had never dreamed that her neat little kitchen could look the way it looked when she stepped inside of it that night.

It was ablaze with light, and it was in the wildest disorder imaginable.

The sink strainer was piled high with coffee grounds, orange peel, bread crusts and egg shells. More egg shells lay on the floor under the sink. The waste basket had been tipped over and it spilled soiled papers out onto the linoleum.

A wet dish towel hung over the back of a chair. Another one was draped over the gas stove. Two frying pans, half-filled with cold grease, stood on the kitchen table. The drain board was stacked with dirty dishes. There was a splash of tomato catsup on the white wall beside the cupboard.

A soiled bungalow apron had been rolled into a ball and thrown upon the little shelf that held the kitchen clock. Hidden beneath it the clock ticked loudly, as if it were angry at thus being thrust out of sight.

Mrs. Jerome had been keeping house!

"Oh, my Aunt Tessie!" gasped Sally aloud, standing with her shoulders against the door, taking it all in. "What a mess!"

As she stood there another sound came to her quick ears—the muffled sound of sobbing from the front part of the flat.

Like a flash Sally was across the untidy kitchen, across the dining room and into her mother's bedroom.

It was in darkness, but through the gloom that sound of mourning and distress came to her again.

She switched on a light.

Mrs. Jerome lay prone upon the unmade bed, her large heavy figure shaken with a storm of weeping. The bed creaked with it.

Tossing aside her coat and hat, Sally dropped to her knees beside the bed and put her arms around her mother's big, plump shoulders.

She tried to comfort her—tried to find out what was wrong. But Mrs. Jerome gave no sign that she ever heard her.

Sally had never known her to cry like this. She had often cried to get her own way, or when she was frightened about the pains that came from over-eating, or when she was upset about Beau or Millie.

But this was different. She cried in a despairing, broken-hearted sort of way, and Sally knew that there was some real cause for her grief this time.

Helpless for once, she sat back on her heels and waited for the storm to pass. And after 10 minutes or more, Mrs. Jerome's sobs became less violent. Presently she raised a tear-stained and swollen face.

"Your Papa—he's gone—again!" she gulped, sitting up and reaching for her handkerchief that lay on the bedside table. She wiped her brimming eyes with it before she went on in a shaky voice:

"I thought everything was going so nicely. I got his breakfast for him, and then we sat down and had a nice talk. After that I got lunch—the sandwiches you fixed, you know—" She broke off, swallowed once or twice, and struggled for self-control.

"After lunch we got dressed and went to the hospital to spend the afternoon with Millie. I was tired when we got home about 7 and I sat down to read a little bit in 'The Princess Dagomar,' never thinking but what you'd be home soon to fix up the house and get supper."

"I telephoned—but no one answered," Sally cut in. "I would have come home at 6, but Mr. Nye wanted me to work overtime for him, and what could I do but say 'yes?' He's been so good to Millie and to me, too."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, September 17

ALTHOUGH this is not an important day in planetary direction, threatening aspects are discerned by astrologers.

It is a day in which to finish what has been begun instead of making any sort of an initiative.

Deceit is supposed to be encouraged by this rule of the stars, which makes also for dishonesty.

This sign is held to stimulate a love of speculation and even of gambling.

Women are warned that they will be peculiarly susceptible to the malefic rule which stimulates a love of games of chance.

Gambling in fashionable circles as well as among classes that live by their wits will be prevalent in the coming winter, it is foretold.

New standards are to replace laxity in social affairs, if the stars are read aright.

A period of modesty and simplicity is to be welcomed by leaders of fashion, the seers prophesy.

Changes in the modes will be apparent, first in the coiffure, for women will copy the smooth hair of their great-grandmothers, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

Under this sway there may be many cases of blackmail and much increase of crime that has for its aim the acquiring of large amounts of money.

Continued surprises in weather conditions are indicated for all parts of the country.

Persons whose birthdate it is probably will have a fortunate year, but they must thank their stars and not themselves.

Children born on this day may be high-strung and rather inclined to be irresponsible. They are likely to be lucky all through life.

HAVEY BOYLE

A TROUBLED correspondent wants to know why Jack Dempsey seems to get a bigger play in the public prints than does his arch-rival, Gene Tunney. He believes Dempsey's popularity really comes through the way Jack is played up in the sporting press of the nation.

HAVEY BOYLE.

If Dempsey gets a bigger play than Tunney it is not because sport writers have mapped out any careful plan, but only because they find more interesting material wrapped up in the personality of the former champion than is contained in the figure known as Tunney.

NEWSPAPERMEN cannot always explain why they know that one battle is more appealing to the public than another but somehow they usually "feel" this through some sense developed in their daily work with the heavy pencil, the shears and the pastepot.

About Dempsey and Tunney, test your own feelings about the matter. Do you find yourself reading more avidly about Dempsey than about Tunney? The general guess among the reporters is that you do. Dempsey dramatizes his various actions in heavier tones, more flashing outline, than does Tunney.

PERHAPS as certain world famous writers have gained much recognition in dressing old truths in new garb, Dempsey attires normal actions in gaudy dress the better to attract the imagination.

Certain men are better news figures than others. It does not mean they are superior, but only that they meet the description "unusual" for which reporters are always seeking. The late Theodore Roosevelt could put more punch in a 50-word interview than some other Presidents could muster in 1,000 words.

Dempsey, with a flick of his fist, often becomes better and bigger news than do his prosaic brethren.

DEMPSEY gets great attention because his fighting career has story-book qualities. Once a bum and an outcast, he worked his way along the hard road of fisticuffs to the point where he became a millionaire. His popularity endangered considerably as a winner, he climbs back again into pugilistic esteem through the medium of a defeat, strangely, and later through the medium of a successful come-back attempt.

He is elemental, a natural fighting man, either socking the other fellow down, or getting socked aplenty himself. His is a positive figure either on a winning or a losing side. Furthermore, Dempsey was helped in his struggle back into the hearts of the fans by a feeling, not entirely unexplainable, against Tunney, a sentiment which reacted in Dempsey's favor.

BUT the stories of the two men from day to day are played for what they are worth. If Dempsey produces the unusual today he will get the call. If Tunney scores tomorrow he will get the play. That Dempsey scores more often than Tunney is because he is primarily a greater dramatist of his action. At least that's our story and we're going to stick to it.

REMEMBERING that in the past Pirate clubs have blown good advantages in the pennant races, some fans may still be keeping their fingers crossed about the array of 1927, but they should have little fear about the club that is galloping down the stretch to the pennant. One of the keystones of the Pirates' campaign platform is courage.

Sometimes they lacked the proper inspiration but never have they lacked heart. The ordinary ball club struck by the injuries that handicapped the Corsairs might have folded up. A lesser Wright might have given up in despair after his awful experience in St. Louis, when he got hit. A lesser Kremer might have given up in disgust after his leg injury. What happened is fine history.

THE dashing Wright, who has no nerves, and the great Kremer who goes best when the money stuff is big, instead of being discouraged, put greater drive into their work. The worst criticism of the team is that at times it lacked imagination, and the highest praise is that against heavy odds the boys never owned a fluttering pulse. Always their baseball heart beat strong, firmly. There is no implication in this that opponents are less game. It is enough to know that the Pirates of 1927 own a collective fighting soul.

A LEAGUE of bridge players is being formed in Chicago, with an eye to national tournaments to determine a national champion. Baron Heinrichs, former newspaperman, and an expert himself, is the Pittsburgh representative of the new league.

Who will be the eventual champion, we do not know, but that Mr. William Mossman will have to quit disagreeing with the fundamentals as set forth by Prof. Work before he becomes eligible as a contender, is patent. We cautioned Mr. Mossman in a recent game against an error, set forth by Work, and Mr. Mossman, being the stubborn man that he is, said: "Well let Work sue me then."

Rookie Crop All In, Said

The open period for the purchase of minor league players having ended yesterday, rendering it unlikely that the Pittsburgh club will add any more names to its roster between now and November 1, the date on which each major league club must file with its league president and Commissioner K. M. Landis its reserve list for 1928, not to exceed 40, Treasurer Sam Dreyfuss of the Pirates today announced the complete string of Buccaneer reservations. These include all old and new players to whom the Pittsburgh club holds title and constitute the complete Pirate Roster at present. The list follows:

Manager—Owen J. Bush.

Coaches—Jewell Ens and Oscar Stanage.

Catchers—John Gooch, Ralston Hemsley, Claude Linton, Earl Smith and Roy Spencer.

Pitchers—Victor Aldridge, Lester Bartholomew, Erwin Brame, Michael Cvengros, Ralph (Joe) Dawson, Fred Fussell, Carmen Hill, Ray Kremer, Roy Mahaffey, Lee Meadows, John Miljus, George Parks, Glenn Spencer, Walter Tauscher and Emil Yde. Of these Yde, Cvengros, Fussell and Bartholomew are left handers.

Infielders—Richard Bartell, Joe Cronin, George Grantham, George Gottlieber, Henry Groh, Joseph Harris, Harold Rhyne, Harold Traynor, Willis Windle and Glenn Wright.

Outfielders—Clyde Barnhart, Fred Brickell, Adam Comorosky, Hazen Cuyler, Herman Layne, Lloyd Waner and Paul Waner.

Suspended—Pitcher John Morrison. Voluntarily retired—First baseman Everett Barnes, Catcher James Mattox and Outfielders Walter Mueller and Howard Lohr.

Ineligible—Catcher William Haeffner.

Division of eligible players—Catchers, 5; pitchers, 15; infielders, 10; outfielders, 7. Grand total, 37.

Though the eligible players total only 37, Pittsburgh's actual total of reservations is 38, as suspended men must be counted in the club limit of 40, and Pitcher Morrison therefore figures as the thirty-eighth man.

This leaves room for the Pittsburgh club to add two players between now and November 1, or between now and spring training time, but such additions are unlikely, according to the management, unless two free agents are picked up.

MAIN BOUTERS HERE TUESDAY

Homer Robertson, colored middleweight flash of Boston, and Chief Jack Elkhart, Indian middleweight sensation of Salt Lake City, who are principals in the main bout of the boxing show at Duquesne Garden next Friday, will arrive in Pittsburgh Tuesday evening to complete their training for the coming contest. Robertson will train at Duquesne Garden and the Indian will work out with the local boys at a downtown gymnasium.

The card has received the official O. K. of local followers of fistiana who have seen both Robertson and Elkhart in action and a real battle is looked for when these two hard-hitting middleweights clash in the first indoor boxing show of the local season.

The semi-final brings together two well known local heavyweights, Stanley Simmons and Charley Tarsan, both of whom are rated far above the average in hitting ability and as in the main bout, this will be their first meeting and a real fight is expected.

Teddy Welsh of McKeesport and Young Rudy of Charleroi occupy the second spot on the bill and followers of the slam sport who saw these boys go in Duquesne recently call this bout a "Natural."

In the opener of six rounds Joe Orsini will meet Monte Sirko.

The show is being conducted under the auspices of the Allegheny Council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

WEST VIEW GRIDDERS TO PRACTICE TONIGHT

West View will hold the second practice session of the season this evening at West View Park. In the first workout last week Boots Klinzing and Moses Kelsch, new additions to the club, showed great form.

The following men are requested to be on hand Friday promptly: Goode, Grayber, Mussio, Valentine, Tait brothers, Steinhauser, Kenny, Dolan, Cox, Kelsch, Klinzing, Mussio, Stevs, Miller, Doerge brothers, Belack, Brown, Carr, Schaub, Vaughn, Noggler, Sweeney, O'Malley and Anderson. West View will probably open the season one week from Sunday. For games write Paul Mussio, 31 Chalfont avenue, West View, or call West View 1801 during the evening.

M'CLOSKY LAST TO JOIN CRIMSON GRID SQUAD

GROVE CITY, Pa., Sept. 16.—The last candidate to arrive in the Grove City College football training camp is McClosky, a lineman from Lock Haven High School, where Dave Stewart, a former Grove City player, is coach of football and athletic director.

Stewart has sent some mighty fine football players to Director Thorn at Grove City, including Bob Pflug, John Waldman and Ted Rosenberg. These boys came from Massillon, where Stewart formerly coached.

The daily scrimmages are gradually whipping the candidates into good physical condition.

DAMON RUNYON SAYS

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Mr. James J. Corbett, former heavyweight champion of the world is running a special train to Chicago for the purpose of convincing many of his personal friends that he, Mr. Corbett, might well have delayed his arrival in this vale of tears about 35 years.

DAMON RUNYON.

He is going to show them the affair between Mr. Tunney and Mr. Dempsey, which will make Mr. Tunney a millionaire, and add upwards of half a million to the million that Mr. Dempsey already has stored away. At three score years and one, Mr. Corbett looks back with some regret on the 61 rounds he wasted with Peter Jackson back in 1891 for less dough than either Mr. Tunney or Mr. Dempsey will receive per second out in Chicago.

But in mobilizing his special train for Chicago, Mr. Corbett, out of the years of his experience in the manly art of scrambling ears, is exercising great caution. He is not depending on the matter between Mr. Tunney and Mr. Dempsey to afford entertainment or amusements for his guests. If other visitors to Chicago were as wise as Mr. Corbett, the squawks anticipated immediately after the contest might not be so loud.

MR. CORBETT is preparing to start in entertaining his guests from the moment his special pulls out from the Grand Central, or the Pennsylvania terminal, as the case may be, and he will keep on entertaining them until the return to New York, the only dull interval anticipated at this time being the period of the struggle between Mr. Tunney and Mr. Dempsey.

Mr. Corbett is gathering about him a coterie of talented young artists, who will sing, yodle, play the ukelele, or pinochle, or tell smoking room stories throughout the journey. He will have some of the most distinguished citizens of Broadway, including such as Mr. Al Jolson, Mr. Eddie Cantor, Mr. Irving Berlin and Mr. Florenz Ziegfeld.

MR. CORBETT'S special will be loaded down with the elite of the drama and literature, and also with many substantial representatives of the proletariat, such as Mr. Charley Pope, Mr. Fred Block and Mr. George (Leaping) Perry. It will be a democratic assemblage, but then Mr. Corbett is a Democrat at all times, save when he is a Republican.

There will be refreshment for man and beast aboard the James J. Corbett special at all hours of the day or night, especially the night. I am not privileged to state the nature of the refreshment at this time, but I am assured that it will be refreshment. However, there will be no specific rule against a fellow going to sleep if he chances to be constituted.

Mr. Corbett's guests are guaranteed a good time aboard the train, no matter what happens in Soldier Field, and, of course, Mr. Corbett can scarcely be held responsible for anything there beyond his seats. It seems that Mr. Corbett came out all right with that mysterious Chicago committee which is handling the seats. At least his seats look O. K. on the surface and on the diagram. They seem to be well inside the yard, anyway.

WHILE most of the inmates of the city of New York who have given the matter any consideration inclined to the belief that Mr. Tunney will have no great difficulty outfumbling Mr. Dempsey for 10 rounds, I hear an occasional voice lifted in doubting tone. Strange as it may seem, there are some who think Mr. Dempsey has a chance.

I have before me a letter from Mr. Frank G. Marcella of 3535 Fifth avenue, Astoria, who cannot see Mr. Tunney at all. I quote you from Mr. Marcella's contribution by way of showing that the opinion concerning Mr. Tunney is not unanimous.

He says in part:

"I am no great author or newspaper writer, or even a prize fighter. I just plug along and am generally satisfied. I couldn't fight a horse fly and have never been in a square circle defending myself. I probably

PACIFIC COAST GRID SQUADS START DRILL

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 16.—(US.)—Kennedy Clothes removed an obstacle in its path to the national amateur sandlot baseball goal yesterday afternoon by defeating Bellevue Boosters of Scranton, 15 to 4.

As the Pennsylvania team was being eliminated, [illegible] of Cincinnati put out Waukegan, Ill., 10 to 5, and cut the list of survivors to three teams. [illegible] of Toledo, who drew a bye yesterday, is the third team eligible to continue in the struggle.

To eliminate Scranton Kennedys unleashed the same relentless attack that has carried them this far in the tournament without suffering defeat, and by this show of strength the city champions are favored to add the national championship to its list of achievements.

RICKARD NOW GETS PROFITS FROM FIGHT

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(INS.)—Sale of tickets for the Tunney-Dempsey fight today reached the "blue ink" stage which means, according to Tex Rickard, that receipts from now on may be regarded as profit. Tex estimates that every dollar of the first two million taken in will be needed to cover the actual expenses, and that any amount above that figure will be profit. "Sales are over $2,000,000 and we're still going strong," said Rickard. He expects the gate to gross $3,000,000.

There are 15 four-round matches carded with Mr. Sullivan, St. Paul, and Kewpie Tremble, Chicago welterweight, the ten liners. Every weight class is included in the 60 rounds scheduled.

Cumberland Annexes Mid-Atlantic Flag

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 16.—The Cumberland Colts are the 1927 champions of the Middle Atlantic Baseball League.

The locals annexed the championship here yesterday when they nosed out the Johnstown Johnnies, 4 to 3, in one of the most brilliant and thrilling games in the history of the circuit. The triumph gave Cumberland four victories in the six-game series. Johnstown won the pennant last year.

A three-run rally in the seventh inning enabled Cumberland to clinch the game and the pennant. The score:

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 15.—Fielding H. Yost, one of football's greatest coaches, has retired from the game.

"I do not find it possible to coach football this year."

These were the words with which the Michigan mentor announced his retirement. The burden of other university interests would interfere with his giving proper attention to the football squad, Yost said.

WHEN our Style Committee presented for my approval the new line for Fall, they told me the history and reason for every new Style introduced.

The Sales Manager said this shoe was a duplicate of So-And-So's, and that one was a reproduction of another high-grade manufacturer's popular model, etc., etc.

When I asked for the original shoe that they copied, and put them side-by-side, I couldn't tell which was which, without looking at the labels.

Our factory Manager showed me one shoe that he had cut apart to find out how, and what it was made of. And our Upper and Sole Leather Buyer convinced me the material in the duplicate was exactly the same or just as good as the original.

The actual evidence "SOLD" me, and I thought it was the simplest and strongest way to convince you of the real Value we put in a Regal Shoe.

I suggested that we put one of the original $13.50 shoes in the window with a Regal duplicate for $6.60 right beside it, and give you the specifications and ask you to compare the shoes.

Now this is just what we've done. We've purchased and duplicated a number of the most popular styles for Street, Dress and Sport that are made by High-Price Manufacturers and sold by High-Price Retailers. AND THEY'RE IN OUR STORES TODAY.

I don't believe there's another manufacturer in this country giving this Value for this Price. And there's only one way to do it. The Regal Policy is the answer. BRITISH FAIL TO LIFT TROPHY

Riding to an 8-5 triumph at Westbury, L. I., Wednesday, America's Big Four of polo annexed its second straight triumph over the British Army-in-India team and retained the international polo trophy. SPORT COMMENT

by JAMES J. LONG

THERE is a strong probability that the important annual meeting of the baseball powers, at which all arrangements will be made for the world series of 1927, will be held in this city. A recent report from New York stated that the Yankee management and the clubs having a pennant chance in the National League had already agreed tentatively upon arrangements, and went so far as to quote prices, game dates and other details, but the yarn had its origin only in some one's imagination.

No meeting of any kind has yet been held, cannot be held, in fact, until it has been called by Commissioner Landis, and thus far the head of organized baseball has taken no action of the sort.

THE meeting will be unusually late this year. Last season it was held as early as September 9, even though three National League clubs still had a pennant chance at the time.

It might be suspected that as long as the Cubs were pennant possibilities in the National, the calling of the meeting was purposely delayed so that the session could be held in Chicago about September 22, and thus give the magnates a chance to see the Tunney-Dempsey fight.

Probably none of them would admit it, but you may draw your own conclusions.

However, the Bruins are as good as out of it now, so Commissioner Landis, having no good baseball reason for holding the meeting in Chicago, is expected to get busy in a day or two and send out a bulletin fixing a date for the session elsewhere and notifying the presidents of all clubs still having a mathematical chance for the flag in the National League, in addition to the head of the Yankees, who have already sewed up the flag in the American circuit, to meet with him at that time for the purpose of perfecting as far as possible all arrangements for next month's Diamond Derby.

AS IS well known, Commissioner Landis has a habit of doing things in his own way, and of frequently doing just the opposite of what he has been expected to do, but in this instance most baseball men in the big leagues are of the opinion that he will select Pittsburgh as the meeting place, chiefly for geographical reasons.

That is, on account this city's location it would make possible a shorter trip than any other site for the heads of the clubs interested in the series arrangement.

For instance, the Pittsburgh club is at home, and the Giants will be playing here the last three days of next week. The Yankees are playing at home and a trip to Pittsburgh by the officials of that club would be much easier than a journey to Chicago. The same goes for the bosses of the Cardinals, who could come to Pittsburgh more conveniently than they could travel to New York if the meeting were held there.

IT IS believed that Chicago is no longer being considered as a meeting place. The Cubs are so far behind the leaders that though they may still have a mathematical chance for the pennant they haven't anything that could be called a "baseballical" chance. It is doubtful if that club will even send a representative to the session.

There is about as much chance of the Cubs winning the pennant now as there is that Johnny Morrison will pitch the first game for Pittsburgh if the Freebooters cop the bunting.

So, in addition to looking like a pennant winner for the sixth time in its National League history of 41 years, Pittsburgh appears to have a good chance for the distinction of being selected as the meeting place at which, with Commissioner Landis presiding, and the chiefs of the Pirates, Giants, Cardinals and Yankees present, the program for the blue ribbon event of baseball next month will be mapped out, the dates chosen for the games in the cities of the National and American League pennant winners, the four umpires chosen, the scale of seats prices and the regulations to govern the sale of tickets drawn up.

ALL that is certain now is that the first two games of the series will be played on the grounds of the National League pennant winners, the third, fourth, fifth games will take place in New York, and the sixth and seventh games, if necessary, will be decided in the National League city.

That part of it is covered by the world series rules, the leagues alter-

TILDEN AND JOHNSTON AVENGE DEFEATS

By ROBERT A. HEREFORD,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 16—Six times they routed the forces of Sir Robert Bruce, but, reading wisdom from a spider's web, Sir Robert came back a seventh time and conquered.

A human wild bull tossed Jack Dempsey from the boxing ring. But Dempsey came back to fell the giant Firpo and retain his heavyweight championship.

And today "Big Bill" Tilden, whose tennis knell was solemnly tolled by the fans following his defeat by La Coste in the Davis Cup matches last week, is jogging serenely along that comeback path upon which he set out last spring.

The tennis genius whose persistence is as marked as his brilliance, and who perhaps is the greatest of America's champions, swept aside Gene Borotra, of France, American indoor champion, and took his place in the semi-final round of the national singles tournament today.

"Little Bill" Johnston, profiting by the practice of the Davis Cup play and the early-round matches of the present tournament, eliminated a second French Davis Cup player, Jacques Brugnon, winning in four sets, 2-6, 6-2, 4-1, 6-4. Rene La Coste, the human tennis machine, is the sole Frenchman left in the tournament. La Coste, pressed for the first time, outstendied the brilliant but erratic Manuel Alonso, 6-8, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2.

La Coste and "Little Bill" Johnston will meet this afternoon in the lower-bracket semi-final, and Tilden, who bested Borotra 6-1, 5-6, 10-8, 6-1, opposes his doubles partner, Francis Hunter, in the top semi-final. Hunter defeated John Hennessey, of Indianapolis, conqueror of Cochet, 4-6, 5-7, 6-0, 6-2, 6-4.

Tilden, who seems to hold the Indian sign over his husky doubles partner, Hunter, is almost certain of a position in the finals.

On form Rene La Coste should experience scant trouble in again trouncing "Little Bill" Johnston and earning the right to meet Tilden. It is an improved Johnston over the erratic "Little Bill" of Germantown, however, that La Coste will meet today. The bulwark of the quiet little Californian's game is his steadiness and his lack of practice last week undermined his attack by forcing him into frequent errors.

Should "Little Bill" win from La Coste today, and this is not impossible, he would receive scant glory. He would merely prove that the United States lost the Davis Cup because he had failed to train properly.

The most interesting of the quarter-final matches yesterday was the five-set struggle between Francis Hunter and Cochet's conqueror of yesterday, John Hennessey. To read the score is to form a vivid mind picture of the match.

Rickard Finds He Has Many Relatives

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—(AP.)—Like Sir Joseph Porter, K. C. B., in "Pinafore," Tex Rickard has his "sisters and his cousins and his aunts"—and they all want to see the big fight next Thursday.

Rickard, visiting the old home town of his father, Springfield, Ill., a few days ago, met many long-lost relatives, and promised them all tickets to the Dempsey-Tunney spectacle.

In the crush of other matters, Rickard neglected to mail the promised complimentaries. So the relatives sent Tom Rickard, a cousin, as a committee-of-one to get the tickets.

Early today Cousin Tom still was pursuing Cousin George Tex for the 20 free pasteboards.

O'LOUGHLIN DEFENDS NET TITLE TOMORROW

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Sept. 16.—John O'Loughlin will defend the Louis Ingram Challenge Trophy tomorrow afternoon on the Geneva College courts here as a fitting climax to the College Hill Tennis Club's annual tournament. He will meet W. E. Shea, who emerged as champion from a field of over 50 entrants.

The doubles championship will also be determined tomorrow with Jack Lawler and Dave O'Loughlin completing their match with Billy and John O'Loughlin, which was halted by rain last Saturday. When rain intervened Lawler and O'Loughlin were leading, 6-2, 6-6, 6-1, and the fourth set was 1-all.

The finals of the Beaver county industrial tennis tournament will also be held with H. E. Campbell, secretary of the College Hill Tennis Club, representing the Keystone Driller of Beaver Falls and Stanley R. Harris, another member of the Hill club, representing the Standard Sanitary of New Brighton.

CANONSBURG HIGH OPENS GRID SEASON OCTOBER 1

CANONSBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—Athletic authorities at Canonsburg High school announced today that the grid squad will open its 1927 season Saturday, October 1, at Canonsburg with Monessen High School. The schedule for the balance of the season is: October 8, Washington Trinity High School, at home; October 15, Burgettstown High School at Burgettstown; October 21, Bridgeville High School at Bridgeville; October 29, California High School at home; November 5, Waynesburg High School at Waynesburg; November 12, Monongahela High Schol at home, and November 179, McKees Rocks High School at home.

DANNY TAYLOR GOES TO BROOKLYN ROBINS

Danny Taylor, well-known West Newton slugger, has been signed by the Brooklyn Dodgers for delivery at the close of the Southern Association season. Taylor has been playing great ball for the Memphis club.

Taylor is hitting .289 in the Southern circuit and is second in the league in hitting homers with 16 to his credit. He ranks third in doubles with 27.

Quick Finish Marks Tube City Bout

One of those 25 second knockouts featured the opening boxing show of the season last night at McKeesport, Young Rudy sending Harry Taylor down for the count shortly after the first gong. Rudy landed on his opponent's chin just as Taylor forced him to the ropes and the latter dropped for the count of 10.

Ray Shaffer, Bloomfield middleweight, defeated Llyn Jordan of Johnstown in 10 rounds. Jordan twice went down for the count of nine. Stanley Simmons and Sam Hunter, two heavies, met in a six-round prelim, Simmons winning the decision. Jack Baney of McKeesport defeated George Peck of Pittsburgh in the opener of six rounds.

PITT TO BREAK WINDBER CAMP TOMORROW

CAMP HAMILTON, WINDBER, Pa., Sept. 16.—Last night was the night of the annual Pitt boat race, which has been the pride of the veterans and the pain of the freshmen for many years.

The details of the race must be kept a dark secret, but it remains that the 14 freshmen who were laid on the altar of tradition came through without signs of fatigue. Franklin Hood, giant frosh fullback who hurls a pass 60 yards consistently, broke an oar on the last mile.

A long scrimmage this afternoon and a short practice tomorrow morning will end the two weeks' training period at Camp Hamilton. The frosh squad will return to Pittsburgh today and the varsity players will leave here tomorrow noon.

The Panthers will resume training in Pittsburgh Monday. They face six days of fierce scrimmage before the opening game with Thiel.

WOOSTER COACH MUST REBUILD GRID ELEVEN

WOOSTER, O., Sept. 16.—With only six of last year's letter men back, Coach Boles started to build his 1927 team from the smallest squad, which is the lightest in weight, he has ever had at Wooster.

The Wooster team will be built around Pete Blough, with Sandy Lehman to be his understudy. This pair of backs, with Bachy Young, are the veteran ball toters. Wooster's 1927 schedule:

September 23—Alumni; October 1, Ashland; October 8, Mt. Union; October 15, Heidelberg at Tiffin; October 22, Case (homecoming); October 29, Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware; November 5, Reserve at Cleveland; November 12, Oberlin (Dads' Day); November 19, Akron at Akron.

BULLDOGS PREPARE

The Armstrong Bulldogs, through the efforts of Pat Foley, will be represented on the gridiron this season with a strong lineup, which will endeavor to compete against the strongest teams in the 40-50 pound class. The Bulldogs have gone through several scrimmages during the past two weeks. Write Thomas McDonald, 1220 Muriel street, or call Court 6836 and ask for Tom.

Keck Leaves to Cover Tunney-Dempsey Camps

WITH THE big return bout between Champion Gene Tunney and Former Champion Jack Dempsey at Chicago only a week off, Harry Keck, sports editor of the Sun-Telegraph, is on his way to the training camps of the two men for a final glimpse at them in action before they enter the ring.

KECK'S STORIES, together with those of [illegible]er writers, will appear daily up to and including the fight. W[illegible] for them.

JACK, GENE QUIT PLAY FOR HARD WORK

By DAVIS J. WALSH,
International News Service Sports Editor.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Previous to yesterday, both men had played more rounds than they had boxed—more rounds of golf, I mean. But just in a spirit of unwarranted vindictiveness toward a writer, who "seen his duty and done it," therefore riding 139 miles between the two camps, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey decided to box virtually at the same time, but not in the same ring, not by exactly 139 miles.

This was too much. These men actually were going to don gloves and mix socially with their sparring partners. The writer, by dint of much arduous travel, was the only man who saw both of them do it.

He, therefore, can give exclusively his impression of them as they appeared just one week before their meeting for the world's heavyweight championship. Briefly, it is that: That Gene Tunney is at least as good, if not better, than he was before the Philadelphia fight last year. That Jack Dempsey is a better man than he was before the Sharkey fight two months ago.

How much better he will have to be to beat a good fighter like Tunney remains for the night of September 22 to disclose. He is talking a great fight.

WON'T GO 10 ROUNDS

"One thing you can bet on," he said after last night's workout, "this fight won't go 10 rounds. I had that happen once and it was enough. This time, they will drag one or the other of us out by the heels before it is over."

Mr. T. Rickard, the man with the open face box offices, also spoke his little piece:

"You fellers," sez he, "have got this feller Dempsey all wrong. That feller knows what he is doing. You expect him to box his head off at the age of 32 and leave all of his fight in the training quarters. He's too smart a fellow for that."

Anyhow, it seemed possible today that maybe Dempsey was right. Maybe, too, that Rickard was right and maybe that they both were right or neither of them. For, after seeing just how the principals worked at this stage of the proceedings, it was difficult to say who was wrong, if anyone.

There were holes in the performance of both, for one thing. For one round of his five, Dempsey seemed easy to hit and Big Boy Peterson did it. He kept winging a left and right to the ex-champion's frontispiece and the lad seemed too fast, withal, for Dempsey to catch. So, any neutral observer would be constrained to state that he blew the round.

ALLEN STOPPED

Four other rounds were fought with Dave Shade, Whitey Allen, Roy Williams, a middleweight, and Bennie Krueger, a welterweight. They didn't mean much, if anything. Shade bobbed about the premises and Dempsey watched him do it with a degree of academic interest. Williams and Krueger caught a great game, merely that, and Allen went down to posterity before the camera men. Allen was on the floor from a left hook and one-two punch, with the cameras grinding, and he still was there when Allentown Joe Gans appeared from nowhere to complete the round. It made great film fodder with one opponent on the floor and the other on his feet by the grace of a divine tolerance or something.

Tunney stepped six rounds at eventide on the shores of Lake Villa and he looked like a real champion most of the way. His average was about 80 per cent. Against Billy Vidabeck, who fought somewhat after the Dempsey manner, Tunney broke ground on occasions under the other's body attack. But, then, Tunney always was something of a groundbreaker, anyhow. They went two fast rounds with Tunney ahead.

Jack Williams, another light heavyweight, tried to take the play away from the champion and had the merry villagers mouthing "oh" and "ah," and an occasional uncouth snicker as he scored with both hands to the head. Gene finally became somewhat displeased and crossed a right to the young man's chin whiskers and the young man began an involuntary black bottom. Another right had him absolutely punch blotto before Tunney forebore. Chuck Wiggins also did two rounds of something or other and they called it a day of a tea hour.

PITT'S CAMP CHEF

ALEXANDER GEORGE WASHINGTON WILLIAMS.

MEET Alexander George Washington Williams, the rotund gentleman who is putting the thunder in Pitt's Thundering Herd.

Alex, the one and only, is chef at Camp Hamilton, and what a chef! His steaks are thick and rare and juicy, but his sense of humor is juicier. When Alex begins to croon a bit of plantation "Blues" his teeth flash and his feet shuffle and scrape the latest version of the buck-and-wing.

Alex is Grand Prevaricator of the Magnanimous Order of the High and Mighty Children of Noah. He is not superstitious, but he carries a rabbit's foot, two four-leaf clovers and the left ear of a Wampus Kitty just to please his wife.

Coach Jock Sutherland doesn't have to worry about teaching his linemen charging tactics. When Alex sounds the dinner bell there is a mad scramble, and even the giant Nebraska line wouldn't have a chance in front of the hungry Panthers.

Mack Has Fan Arrested for Razzing A's

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 16.—(AP.)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, today sought to legally restrain a fan, whose alleged "razzing" and taunts from the stands, he said, broke up the morale of the team and resulted in one valuable player being traded away.

The fan, Harry Donnelly, 26, arrested while the Chicago White Sox-Athletics game was in progress yesterday, at the request of Mack, today was held in $500 to keep the peace.

"There are several persons," Mr. Mack said at the hearing, "who come out to the park just to 'ride' the players and the umpires and get their 'goats.' One day last week the umpires stopped the game for 10 minutes until the fans stopped their chiding."

The manager referred to Wednesday in particular when, he said, that Donnelly "rode" Sammy Hale, third baseman, until he had him so nervous he would have missed the ball had one been hit to him.

The player Mack referred to that had to be traded is Bill Lamar.

"Lamar was one of the finest outfielders I ever had," he said, "but a group of fans, of which Donnelly seems to be the leader, kept 'razzing' him until he wasn't any good to me and I had to trade him."

Donnelly denied Mack's charges and said he was rooting for the team, as he wanted it to win.

Bout May Net Uncle Sam Million

WEST VIRGINIA HOLDS LONG DRILL AT CAMP

JACKSON MILLS, W. Va., Sept. 16.—Coach Rodgers sent the West Virginia University football squad through two of the longest workouts of the year yesterday. In addition to the usual light morning drill, nearly an hour was spent in discussing the opening game of the season with Wesleyan on September 24. The afternoon scrimmage, which was conducted under a fierce sun, lasted till 5:30 and every player on the varsity squad, with the exception of Eddie Vacheresse, injured end candidate, took part in the rough stuff. "Big Sleepy" Glenn was the outstanding ball carrier of the day, for he reeled off gain after gain from 5 to 45 yards in length.

GIANTS SIGN ROOKIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(INS.)—The New York Giants have purchased Pitcher Jesse Doyle and Leo Mangum from Toronto and Jim Charlin, Jersey City hurler, who recently shut out the Yankees.

Andy Cohen, Buffalo, infielder; Warren Cote, Toledo infielder; Pitcher Henry Boney of Newark, and Pitcher Ned Porter of St. Augustine have been recalled. Blackie Carter, infielder sent to Buffalo on option early in the season, has been sold to Toledo.

Club officials confirmed announcement of the purchase of two catchers—Barrett, home run hitter of Memphis, and Al Spohrer of Wilkes-Barre.

ALLEGHENY STAR WINS IN FINAL, 6 TO 4

By VERNON A. SWARTSPAGER.

MRS. J. BERND ROSE, one of the best known and most accomplished golfers in the Pittsburgh district, succeeded herself as Western Pennsylvania women's links champion at the Fox Chapel Golf Club today when she defeated Miss Anjeanette Hunter, of the Stanton Heights Golf Club, in the final of the annual title tournament of the Women's Western Pennsylvania Golf Association.

Mrs. Rose, winning by the rather decisive margin of 6 and 4, was aided by the very erratic putting of Miss Hunter, who took three and even four putts on many greens. Playing through the fairway, Miss Hunter was able to hold her opponent even, but she repeatedly wasted chances for victory with lapses on the greens.

While not displaying the brilliance which marked her semi-final round yesterday, the Allegheny Country Club representative was effective with all clubs. She gained a lead of 3 up in the first four holes and held the upper hand throughout. Their cards:

PIRATES

surely profited by this circumstance. Then to take full advantage of the opportunity the Pirates rose in their best stride to smite the club that had given them the most trouble all year. All in all, then, it has been a fruitful three days for the Freebooters.

22 FOR HILL

The present victorious week of the Pirates has put quite a heavy strain on the Pirate slab staff as it has on the Braves' hurlers. Manager Bush may call upon Lee Meadows to twirl in the finale with the Braves this afternoon with a chance that Mike Cvengros will receive the assignment. Meadows has had only two days of rest, but owing to the importance of the games, Lee would be willing to work.

Speaking of pitchers going to the slab ahead of their turn, it is timely to note that Carmen Hill recorded his twenty-second victory of the season yesterday on two days of relaxation. Hill subdued the Braves, 2 to 1, on five hits. It was a real battle, however, with Bob Smith matching the clever work of the big boy from Corry. Bob also pitched on two days' rest, his exhibition against the Pirates being masterly.

PIE SAVES GAME

Pie Traynor saved and won the game for the Pirates. Traynor flashed one of the greatest plays of the season at Forbes Field in the seventh inning in a nose-dive, gloved-hand catch of a hit-and-run liner that kept runners off first and third with none out. Instead of such a situation, the Braves had nobody on and two out when Pie finished with his wild act. The score was tied at the time. In the home half of the inning, the Somerville marvel doubled and scored the winning run after two were out on Earl Smith's smashing hit.

The Waner brothers had a big part in the success, Brother Paul scoring Lloyd with the tieing run in the sixth. The Braves scored in the second round and from that point to the sixth there was no runs made. Hill opened the sixth with a single, but was forced by Sprout Waner. Comorosky's liner was smothered by Bancroft, who tried for a double play, but threw a bit wide to first and Sprout went to second. Brother Paul then singled to right to complete the important run.

WESTINGHOUSE TENNIS COURTS OPEN TOMORROW

Westinghouse Club's 11 new tennis courts on the Greensburg pike between Wilkinsburg and East Pittsburgh will be opened tomorrow afternoon with a "tennis party" to which leading tennis players and fans of the Pittsburgh district have been invited. Each of the teams in the Pittsburgh Tennis League is expected to send at least two players to participate in a series of matches. Each team is to play two singles matches and one in doubles.

In addition to the club matches, three tournaments will be played, one for players over 45 years, one for players under 21 years, and one open. Suitable prizes will be given the winners in the various matches. To save time, each match will be limited to one set, of a maximum 11 games, and each game limited to seven points. In other words, there will be no deuce games or deuce sets.

EDDIE FARRELL and Dave Bancroft made baseball history yesterday by doubling Lloyd Waner on a ground ball. Up to the third inning of the contest, Sprout had never seen the ball beat him to first base after he had forced a runner at second, but Farrell and Bancroft, two of the best manipulators of the rocket in the sport encompassed the feat, which may not be duplicated again this season.

HILL started the round with a base on balls. Farrell and the other infielders were playing close on the youngster when he pulled a sharp bounder straight at the collegian. Farrell's pickup and toss to Bancroft at second were magnificent, and there is no faster pivot in the game than the manager of the Braves. The margin of the putout at first was close but it was sufficient to be viewed by Umpire Reardon and the fans. Lloyd threatened to go through the season without being mixed in this sort of a double shuffle, but the two fielding marvels crossed him up.

THE most thrilling action in the game and one that stands out as a high dream spot in the season's play at the Oakland Orchard was injected in the seventh by Pie Traynor. The battle deadlocked, Jacques Fournier opened with a single. Eddie Brown had the hit-and-run on with the Frenchman and Jacques was running at his best clip when Brown whacked a mean, low liner between Traynor and Wright.

HAD the ball been above Pie's belt, the subsequent capture would not have been so difficult, but the vicious clout was close to the ground when Traynor dove headlong, the ball finding the pocket of his outstretched hands as he slid along on his arms. Like a flash Traynor was up as is his wont, but he could have carried the ball to Joe Harris for the double play as Fournier was up to second as Traynor got out of the dirt. Right there was the old ball game and everybody present realized as much at the finish.

148 to Seek U. S. Title

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY-EIGHT leading exponents of the royal and ancient links game, including four representatives of foreign lands, will tee off in the U. S. national women's golf championship tournament at the Cherry Valley Club, Garden City, N. Y., next Monday, the pairings and starting times, announced today by the U. S. G. A. reveal.

What the foreign threat lacks in numbers it more than makes up for in quality, for included in the invading quartet is no less a celebrity than Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume, reigning champion of France and England and certain other outlying districts not so well known. Winning the French and British tournaments in one year is no small feat; to the contrary, it is a feat of such magnitude that the French girl who achieved it must be regarded as one of the most dangerous invaders to seek the U. S. crown in many years.

FRENCH GIRL MAGNET

Mlle. de la Chaume has been practicing diligently at Cherry Valley for the last fortnight, and it is probable that as a magnet for public interest she will outdo even our Glenna Collett. In the matter of attracting a gallery she is to have able assistance, for she has been paired for qualifying round competition with the very young but very accomplished Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago, one of the most promising and skillful performers ever to appear on the horizon of U. S. women's golf. Virginia, as does the French girl, rules a title favorite and it would not be surprising were they to meet again in this same tournament when the crown, rather than "getting in," is the reward.

The three who are to aid Mlle. de la Chaume in the assault on the U. S. golfing fort are Miss Ada MacKenzie, Mrs. F. L. Mulqueen and Miss Katharine Christie, all of Canada. None of the three, however, can be regarded as a serious title threat.

LOCAL REPRESENTATIVES FEW

The Pittsburgh district, in the matter of numbers, is not as well represented as it has been in past years. Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown and Miss Fritzi Stifel of Wheeling, while not exactly Pittsburghers, are so well known to Pittsburgh district competitions that they will almost monopolize the well wishes of Steel City links fandom—and they are sterling golfers, both. Miss Fordyce is to start the qualifying test with Mrs. Harley G. Higbie of Detroit and Miss [illegible] is paired with Miss Martha M. Parker of Westchester Hills.

RUNYON SAYS

know about 100 of 1 per cent about the fight game in comparison to your knowledge. But I surely feel that you are all wrong in your conclusion that Mr. Tunney is a champion, no less a truly great champion. I will try to bring this argument as far back as the Philadelphia affair.

"You certainly do not mean to say that that was a fight. Why if that was a fight, then the Yankees are in last place for the pennant. How can anyone come to such a conclusion is beyond me. There was absolutely no match. Why I alone, as I've said before, have never been in the ring, could have done a better job than Mr. Tunney on that night. Yes, sir! On that night Johnny Dundee could have knocked out Jack Dempsey.

"WHO in the name of creation is this fellow, Gene Tunney? Well, you can say one thing. He knows his onions when it comes to using 14-letter words, and he surely does know the act of bragging.

"The other feature is that he served in the United States Marines, but there are plenty of boys who did the same during the World War who are not bragging about who they can knock out and who they can't.

"The last feature about Gene Tunney is that he is a product of old New York, and that accounts for a lot of sport writers claiming that he is great. But getting down to brass tacks, who is this Gene Tunney and who has he been fighting? Why hasn't he shown that he is what you call him?

"Begging your pardon, he surely has done a lot of fighting (on the stage). He also has been keeping in trim at Spectacular, but you know that does not make a champion, no less an honest to goodness champion.

"My contention is that there is no third-rater soft enough to make a good set-up for Gene Tunney, and any Tom, Dick or Harry can come along and knock him out with a slap on the jaw. That is how much he rates with me. And, Mr. Runyon, don't think that this is a foolish statement. It is not. I claim that Jack Dempsey is going to win that fight on the twenty-second, and I also claim that the twenty-third of September will dawn and you are going to claim that that punch Dempsey landed on the windpipe hit Tunney in the groin and the fight was a fluke as in the Sharkey affair.

DETROIT ENTRY PICKED TO WIN SANDLOT TITLE

BERKELEY, Cal., Sept. 16.—(UP.)—Nine Pacific Coast conference football squads stepped on to the turf yesterday from which they will not remove themselves, except to eat, sleep and study, for the next two months. From Pullman, Wash., where Babe Hollingsberry coaches Washington State College gridders, to Los Angeles, the home of Howard Jones and his University of Southern California Trojans, coaches were barking their orders to linemen and backs for the first time this fall.

Five conference teams will meet their first competition on September 24, little more than a week away, but Washington and the Oregon Aggies will wait until October 1 for their opening games.

WAYNESBURG GRID SQUAD HIT HARD BY INJURIES

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Sept. 16.—The opening days of the Waynesburg College football training season have proved costly ones to the Yellow Jackets in the way of injuries and bruises to members of the squad. The hospital list was swelled today when no less than six members of the squad were unable to take part in practice.

Heading the list of cripples is Bull McCleary, varsity quarterback last season, who is confined to the sidelines with a badly wrenched shoulder. The injury was suffered during the first scrimmage of the season.

Phil Berry, former Washington High star, who was being counted on for one of the guard posts, will likely be out of action for several days due to a dislocated shoulder.

Dick Toline, all-conference end last season and all around star of Waynesburg elevens for the past two years, will not be fit for hard work for several days on account of an attack of acute indigestion following yesterday's practice. Les Carlson, varsity halfback, suffered from the same malady and was unable to take part in practice today.

The other two players who are on the cripple list are, George Watkins, varsity tackle, and Roy Brooks, who is being used at both center and guard.

C. M. C. PLANS OUTDOOR BOXING SHOW MONDAY

The C. M. C. outdoor boxing show and entertainment which will be held on Monday night is attracting much attention among the fight fans of the North Side. It is the first time in their history that the Catholics have attempted a show of this kind outdoors at night, and inasmuch as it is also the opening show of the 1927 fall season, nothing is being left undone to make it a success.

This show is given for the benefit of this year's football team, which from present indications should bring the lightweight championship crown to the North Side once more.

This show will be staged on the newly erected volleyball courts adjoining the clubrooms on Antrim street, which has a seating capacity of several hundred. The features will include five first-class amateur bouts, two exhibition bouts and a program of high-class entertainment.

Eddie McEntee is general chairman of the committees. Gerard Ryan will handle the boxing end and Vine Sexton and Charles Saunders are the prize committee.

VARSITY CLAN HONORS CARNEGIE GRID STAFF

The Varsity Clan, an organization of alumni lettermen of the Carnegie Institute of Technology, paid tribute to the football coaching staff at a dinner given in their honor last night in Carnegie Inn, Woodlawn avenue.

Fountain pen desk sets were presented to Head Coach Wally Steffen, Dr. William L. Marks and Robert N. Waddell, assistant coaches, and Paul Allison and Al Irwin, freshman coaches.

Clarence Overend, graduate manager of athletics; Mrs. Cornelia C. Richards, secretary to the graduate manager, and William Finkel, president of the Varsity Clan, were the committee. Mr. Finkle served as toastmaster and made the presentations.

An outline of some of the problems facing the Skibos this fall was given by Coach Steffen, while other honored guests also spoke. The Varsity Clan subscribed for a box at all home games of the Tartans.

WILLIE DAVIES MEETS JOHNNY M'COY TONIGHT

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Sept. 16.—(AP.)—Willie Davies, Charleroi, Pa., flyweight, who already has one mortgage on the flyweight crown, which the California Boxing Commission is to award to the winner of the tournament now in progress, will attempt to make it two straight tonight when he meets Johnny McCoy of Cleveland in a scheduled 10-round match here.

INDIANS STOP RUTH FOR TWO DAYS IN ROW

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(INS.)—Babe Ruth's chances of breaking his home run record of 59 were not quite so rosy today. Cleveland pitchers have balked him for two successive days. Yesterday George Uhle held the Bambino to a double, while Lou Gehrig, Ruth's erstwhile rival, got a single.

ROY McCONNEL WINS IRISH AMATEUR TITLE

NEWCASTLE, Ireland, Sept. 16.—(AP.)—Roy McConnel of the Royal Portrush Club, who was runner-up last year, today won the Irish amateur golf championship by defeating Donald Soulby of Fairhaven, 5 up and 3 to play.

SPORT COMMENT

nating from year to year in the arrangement.

Last fall the Yankees were privileged to play the first two games in New York, St. Louis got the next three, and the final two events were decided in Gotham.

IF THE Pirates win the National League pennant, therefore, local fans will have a chance to see Ruth, Gehrig & Co. in action in the first two numbers, and if the series goes the limit of seven contests, four games will be played in Pittsburgh against only three in New York.

Should the Bucs win out, the first game of the series probably will be played here on Wednesday, October 4.

President Dreyfuss says that, inasmuch as the Buccaneers have not yet won the pennant, and as baseball is very uncertain, he will make no plans for world series games here until the Pirates have actually won and he has been authorized to do so by Commissioner Landis.

This applies in part to the erection of a new temporary bleacher in left field, such as was built in 1925.

The Corsair owner says he will not make any arrangements even tentatively until the race is over or he has been given permission by the Commissioner.

JUDGING from the splendid form shown by Johnny Miljus in putting the Pirates one step nearer the pennant by shutting out the Braves in the second game, Wednesday you would not think that he had a care on his mind. Yet there is a family matter that worries Miljus not a little. For though his home is in Lawrenceville and he is a member of the club of his own town, Miljus has not seen either of his parents for four years.

After Johnny went out to the Pacific Coast League he decided to spend his winters in that part of the country, and during his absence his parents went to their native land, Serbia, for a long visit with their daughter, who is the wife of the secretary of agriculture in Serbia. They have not yet returned, so in spite of his coming back to Pittsburgh, the pitcher has not had a chance to see his mother and father after four years' absence.

BRITISH POLO FOUR ENTERS TOURNEY

By HERBERT REED.
Universal Service Polo Expert.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Great Britain's Army in India team, that was turned back in its quest for the Westchester cup after a gallant showing in the second game, is determined not to return home empty handed. The team, without the services of Captain Roark, the Irish star, will ride into action at Meadowbrook tomorrow against Eastcott in the first round of the American open championship, whose trophy is only a little less highly thought of than the international challenge cup. The Argentines took it out of the country once, and no doubt will come after it again.

If the English are to come through this time, it will be a very real triumph, for there are six other teams in the way, some of them quite formidable, including the United States Army four, which is entering the open for the first time in its polo history.

As the British four has been rearranged Capt. George will be at No. 1, Capt. Deming at No. 2, Maj. Atkinson at No. 3, and Lieut. Guinness, a huge horseman, at back.

WEST VIRGINIA-WESLEYAN GAME STIRS INTEREST

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Sept. 16.—One week from today the eve of the annual struggle between West Virginia University's football eleven and the eleven representing West Virginia Wesleyan College in the Mountaineer stadium at Morgantown will be here. The game will be the first test for both elevens, considered to be the leading football aggregations in this commonwealth.

The game this year is more important than ever. A few years ago the state title was at stake. Since then, however, the field has so widened for both elevens that their standing as national teams is at stake, but with this battle the claim for the honored banner is oftimes more bitterly contested than any other West Virginia classic.

GRAYS HELP HOMEWOOD CLOSE SEASON TONIGHT

WITH every turn of this new fall TurnStyle in our windows today, you'll see every Style and Color shown elsewhere at higher prices, and a number of "New Ones" shown nowhere else at OUR PRICES.

The first "New One" you'll notice is the new Double-Cut Edge, "Piping Rock" at $5.00, which I saw duplicated the other day in a high price shop at $10.00.

Another "New One" is our Imported Wool Felt "Briar Cliff" at $3.50, with three Silk Style Circles stitched through the brim.

In our Imported Wool Felt, we reproduce for $3.50 any light color shown by any hat manufacturer AT ANY PRICE.

Most men are now willing to pay less for a hat that costs the other fellow more, but there are still some who like to show a label which only proves they paid more than they should.

More than a million of our customers think it's a waste of money to pay an extra $5.00 for a "Cover Charge" when they buy a $5.00 hat.

Must Have Goal Beyond Money Making—Ford.

By B. C. FORBES

HOW hard should we chase money? Many Europeans sneer at "Yankee dollar-chasing."

Well do we overdo money-making and do we overrate the importance of acquiring a lot of money?

WHILE talking the other day with the world's richest man, Henry Ford, the subject of money-making and achievement came up.

"You must have some other goal in view than just making money," Mr. Ford declared very earnestly.

Then with a half-apologetic smile he added, "You must really have—" He hesitated. "You must really have a mission if you want to accomplish anything worth while."

Incidentally, the world's richest individual—he may or may not be a billionaire, he probably doesn't know himself or even care—is at this moment wrestling with a financial problem of magnitude.

We had been discussing the much-discussed new Ford car, in one of which, an experimental one, we were then sitting. He had been enumerating the many improvements embodied.

"But remember that the world has elected you to do the job of supplying it with the lowest priced car possible, lower priced than any other," I remarked.

"That's the problem," he commented spiritedly. "It's one thing to make a thing good, to make it right. That's easy, if you don't have to bother about making it at a very low price. But to make it very good, to make it absolutely right and at the same time make it cheaper than anybody else, to make it at the very lowest price possible—that's the problem, that's the job we now have on our hands, that's our job."

Parenthetically: It may interest you to learn that the price of the new Ford has not yet, its maker tells me, been definitely fixed.

TO return to dollar-chasing after this rather lengthy digression: Doesn't Ford's statement cover a goodly part of the subject and contain much simple, homely truth?

My observation of rich men has convinced me that those who have no "mission," no objective beyond the mere piling up of dollars reap little but disappointment and disillusionment in the end. candidly, that is one explanation of why some of our multi-millionaires become so lavishly generous with their gift-giving late in life. They discover that the adding of extra millions fails to satisfy, fails to yield any genuine happiness. Therefore, they change their tactics.

BUT that applies only to some, not to the majority of our millionaires. The majority of American business leaders, it is my honest opinion, become far more interested in achievement than in the additional money such achievement brings to their own pockets. They love to excel, they love to gain the distinction of undisputed leadership. Yes, many of them love power, still more power.

IF it be true that Americans chase dollars more furiously than any other people, it is also true that they work more unselfishly than any other people.

Also, when you get down to brass tacks, neither the man nor the nation that fails to buckle down earnestly, industriously, determinedly to accomplishing things go very far or is able to do very much to help others. And it is the accomplishing of things on an outstanding, unprecedented scale that results in leadership, that in this industrial age results in the making of much money.

If you have an honorable "mission" don't worry over any foreign or home sneers about "dollar-chasing."

PROFIT-TAKING RETARDS RISE OF STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(AP.)—Heavy profit-taking and short selling, inspired in part by the sharp increase in brokers' loans to record high levels, retarded operations for the advance in today's stock market. Wide fluctuations again took place, however, in a number of the high priced industrial specialties. Commercial Solvents and American Type Founders each soared nearly 11 points to new peak prices, and a number of others were whirled upward 3 to 6 points.

Call money was in plentiful supply all day at the renewal rate of 3½ per cent. Despite the increase in brokers' loans and the export of more than $12,000,000 in gold to Argentina during the week, the reserve ratios of both the New York Federal Reserve Bank and the combined 12 Federal reserve banks showed slight increases indicating no strain on the credit situation.

Week-end realizing also tended to impede the upward movement. Prices of many issues sold off 2 to 4 points in the morning wave of selling, but prices pointed upward again after mid-day, although trading fell off in volume.

There was little in the day's trade news to influence the price movement. Directors of the Southern Baking Company deferred action on the preferred dividend, due at this time, and rumors of unfavorable dividend action by Barnsdall directors later in the day caused some selling of the oil shares.

Bullish operations were quite pronounced in Gimbel Bros., International Harvester, Timken Roller Bearing, Goodyear and Goodrich Rubbers and Calumet Arizona.

Heavy buying of New York, Ontario and Western, which moved up nearly 4 points, was accompanied by a revival of rumors that the New York Central Railroad had acquired and would exercise an option on the majority stock held by the New Haven Railroad. The Interstate Commerce Commission denied an application of the New York Central to acquire the New York, Ontario and Western in 1911, but it is believed that a favorable attitude might now be expected as a result of the consolidation provisions of the transportation act.

EGYPTIANS DID NOT NEED ANAESTHETIC

Ancient Egyptian surgeons had a way of hitting a patient on the head in just the proper place and then operating while he was unconscious from the blow.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Montgomery Ward.

A bullish demonstration in Montgomery Ward carried that stock into new high ground and brought collateral buying into Sears Roebuck. Improvement in the agricultural outlook was a factor bearing on the strength in this issue. Ward's sales have been tending upward and with better control of operating costs now in effect, it is expected the current year will prove the best in the company's history. It is expected $8 a share or better will be earned on the [illegible] common shares. Mail order business looks favorable for the next four months and the $8 figure may be exceeded. Present dividend rate is $4 a year, but it is expected this may be increased or a substantial extra declared. Earnings for the common amounted to $[illegible] a share last year and in 1925 were $[illegible], the record year. The calling of the preferred stock obviates the setting aside of a sinking fund of $[illegible] a year which together with dividend requirements increases amount available for common by approximately $[illegible].

Loans at New Peak.

Loans to brokers and dealers made by New York Federal Reserve member banks totaled $3,[illegible] on September 14, 1927, a new high record, the Federal Reserve Board announced. This compared with $3,[illegible] September 7, 1927, the previous high record, and is a gain of $[illegible]. The low this year was $2,[illegible] made on May 16. The high for 1926 was $3,141,[illegible] made on January 6 and the low was $2,[illegible] on May 16.

Metal Prices Firmer.

The metal business has shown an improved tone in the past week, Engineering and Mining Journal reports. The copper market seems to have awakened from its slumber of the last four weeks and the keener interest shown by consumers has resulted in less cutting of the price asked by the large producers. The lowest quotation named toward the close was 13.[illegible] cents, delivered in the East. Sales of copper in the Middle West commanded the full 13⅜ cents, delivered. Advices from Europe leave little room for doubt that France, England and Germany are all underbought and sales of copper at the export association price of 13⅞ cents, c. i. f., have improved. Evidence of meager stocks held by consumers in this country is afforded by the continued requests to sellers to deliver at earlier dates than those specified in the original contracts.

Carnegie Stabilizes Prices.

Carnegie Steel Company, subsidiary of United States Steel Corporation, has established a minimum price of $1.75 per 100 pounds, Pittsburgh, on bars, shapes and plates. This price is to rule on orders for large tonnages. An extra payment of $2 a ton will be demanded for smaller or carload lots. This means a quotation of $1.85 for the lesser quantities. It is expected the action will have a stabilizing effect on market for bars, shapes and plates, as recently these products have been sold at $1.70 and even lower when competition for business has been keen. Steel authorities for some time have described some of the low prices prevailing as comparatively "ruinous" for most companies. For that reason the action of Carnegie is expected to be followed by other makers.

August Steel Sheet Sales.

Sales of steel sheets in August were lower than in July and lower than a year ago, according to figures published by the National Association of Sheet and Tin Plate Manufacturers, whose membership operates 14.2 per cent of the total sheet capacity of the United States. Sales were 177,647 tons in August against 220,715 tons in July and 243,051 tons in August, 1926. Production was 264,645 compared with 257,243 and 252,785. Shipments were 266,[illegible], compared with 252,634 and 261,602. Unfilled tonnage on September 1 was [illegible], compared with [illegible] on August 1 and [illegible] on September 1, 1926.

World Wheat Estimate.

The world wheat crop this year promises to be somewhat larger than last, the Department of Agriculture announced today. Based on reports received up to September 12, the northern hemisphere crop aside from Russia promises a harvest of 130,000,000 to 140,000,000 bushels more than last year, with probabilities in favor of later revisions in estimates downward rather than upward. Early indications for the southern hemisphere are for a reduction of 40,000,000 to 60,000,000 bushels compared with last year, due to unfavorable conditions in Australia. The total of estimates of production in 23 countries of the northern hemisphere, including a statistical forecast for France, amount to [illegible] bushels compared with [illegible] bushels produced in these countries last year.

American Steel Foundries.

American Steel Foundries earnings for third quarter are not expected to equal last year's third quarter net profit, which amounted to $[illegible] after charges, depreciation and federal taxes or [illegible] cents a share on common. Company is operating about 40 per cent of capacity. Current business is dull, although officials expect improvement by fall. One of primary reasons for quietness in railroad equipment industry, according to company officials, is loss of short haul traffic due to motor truck, which has released a large number of cars for long haul business.

Magma's High Yield.

Improvement in the copper trade, which so many authorities are anticipating, will be important for Magma, and buying of this stock has been on the opinion that any concerted advance in coppers will find Magma among leaders. NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—Irregular price movements continued to occur in the bond market today as another fairly large amount of new offerings, aggregating nearly $[illegible], made its appearance. Nevertheless, there were a few material advances among issues of the better grade, and recessions for the most part were small.

Union Pacific 4½s stood out among railway liens duplicating their previous high for the year at 98½, while firm tendencies also were displayed by Erie refunding 5s and Nickel Plate 6s. Canadian National Railway 4½s and Pacific Coast 5s were heavy on profit-taking.

Cities Service Power 6s were again liquidated in moderate amounts and got down more than a point under the peak price of 103, established last week. Other utility issues were inactive. Julius Kayser 5½s rallied smartly, returning to their year's peak of 106.

Further profit-taking was in evidence in Peruvian 7½s and few other South American liens. Chamelin 7s, with warrants, advanced a point.

United States government obligations were quiet and steady.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York Stock Exchange today were as follows (sales in $1,000; high, low and last quotations of bonds in dollars and thirty-seconds of one dollar):

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—Business was in extremely large volume on the curb exchange again today with a broadening of bullish activities to many new issues. A number of the leading stocks that had been prominent during the preceding part of the week, however, met profit-taking and receded sharply after forenoon advances.

High-priced issues again demanded most attention. Tubize, which had been advancing steadily day by day, gained 5 points to 280 and then receded 4 points. Proctor & Gamble also continued its upward movement, advancing 5 points to 209. Steel Company of Canada was another strong issue, advancing 4 points to 165. Hanc-italy, a leading feature of the market for some time, was in urgent demand and rose over 5 points to 116⅝.

There were some sharp reactions. Celanese, after advancing to 115, fell back to 110. Celluloid common ranged from 80 to 73½. Ford Motor of Canada lost 5 points. Johns-Manville had frequent advances and reactions, ranging from 114⅞ to 113.

Lackawanna securities, which declared a distribution of assets and income of $5 yesterday, rose over a point to above 65. New York Central new stock was less active, ranging 165 to 163⅝. Gillette Safety Razor followed its advance late yesterday with an advance of over 2 points to 105½.

Utilities were irregular. American Light and Traction and American Gas and Electric were in supply, while Northern Ohio Power, which was traded on a large scale, advanced over a point. American Superpower issues were both active and strong. United Gas Improvement rallied after an early decline.

Oil stocks were heavy, but losses were generally confined to fractions. Foreign bonds were strong, led by the German issues.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16—(AP)—Following is the official list of transactions on the New York Curb Exchange, giving all stocks and bonds traded (000 omitted in sales column in bond list):

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—There were no sales in the raw sugar market early today and prices were unchanged at 4.90c for Cuban, duty paid.

The raw sugar futures market was less active and price movements were narrow and irregular. The opening was unchanged to 1 point higher on covering which probably was promoted by the steadier London market. Offerings increased later and setbacks followed under liquidation or realizing, with the market at midday 1 to 2 points net lower. Trading was light and principally of an evening-up character for over the week-end.

Refined was firm and unchanged to 10 points higher, ranging from 5.90 to 6.10c for fine granulated, with a fair inquiry reported.

Stocks Dull, Narrow In Local Market

The local market was unusually dull in the first half of the session today with traders inclined to stand aside and wait such developments as may take place over the week-end. Trading was light, and only small lots of the various issues changed hands. First stock on the board was Standard Sanitary, which was fractionally lower as compared with yesterday's final price.

There was a mild flurry in the issue Thursday in anticipation of the stock being listed on the New York Stock Exchange soon. Friends of the issue are talking a price of 100 for the shares by the time they reach the big board. Company's business is on a satisfactory basis and the late summer is expected to prolong activity in the building industry which is Standard's principal customer.

The flurry in Westinghouse Air Brake late Tuesday seemed to have played itself out this morning. No sales of the stock were recorded here and in New York the price range held close to 49, equal to 196 for the old stock. New issue represents a four-for-one split of the old $50 par stock. At 49 the stock returns a bare 4 per cent, but those bullish on the issue say a 25 per cent stock dividend may be forthcoming in the next few months.

Blaw Knox Steel common was in light demand with the result that stock was offered down two points from yesterday's close. A small lot at 88 opened the market as against Thursday's last sale at 90.

The fuel issues were dull and practically unchanged. A little trading in Lone Star brought no material price change and the stock held steady despite the lowering tendency in some of the oil and gas stocks on the New York exchange.

As the session progressed a firmer tone developed in Standard Sanitary, carrying the price up about a point from the opening figure.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Heavy liquidation was renewed in the cotton market early today. After opening firm at an advance of 15 to 31 points on covering, promoted by higher Liverpool cables than expected, the market broke sharply. Before the end of the first hour December contracts had sold off to 21.24c and March to 22.48c, or about 27 to 36 points net lower. At these figures demand seemed to improve somewhat, with some trade buying reported as well as renewed covering, and there were rallies of 20 or 25 points from the lowest. Selling was attributed to local brokers as a continuation of yesterday's pressure and was supposed to be largely in the nature of hedging and liquidation.

Offerings were lighter after the early break and prices rallied on covering which probably was prompted by a private report placing the condition of the crop at 53.2 and the indicated yield at 12,415,000 bales, compared with an end August indication of 12,947,000 bales. The volume of business tapered off and the market was much quieter. December rallied to 21.50c and was holding around 21.46c at midday, or about 10 points net higher.

Mothers strive all winter to keep the children from catching colds. They wrap them up carefully when they go out and tuck them in snugly when they go to bed. But is the house properly and systematically heated? Is every room comfortably warm? If so, the principal danger is removed. If not, why don't you consult us about it?

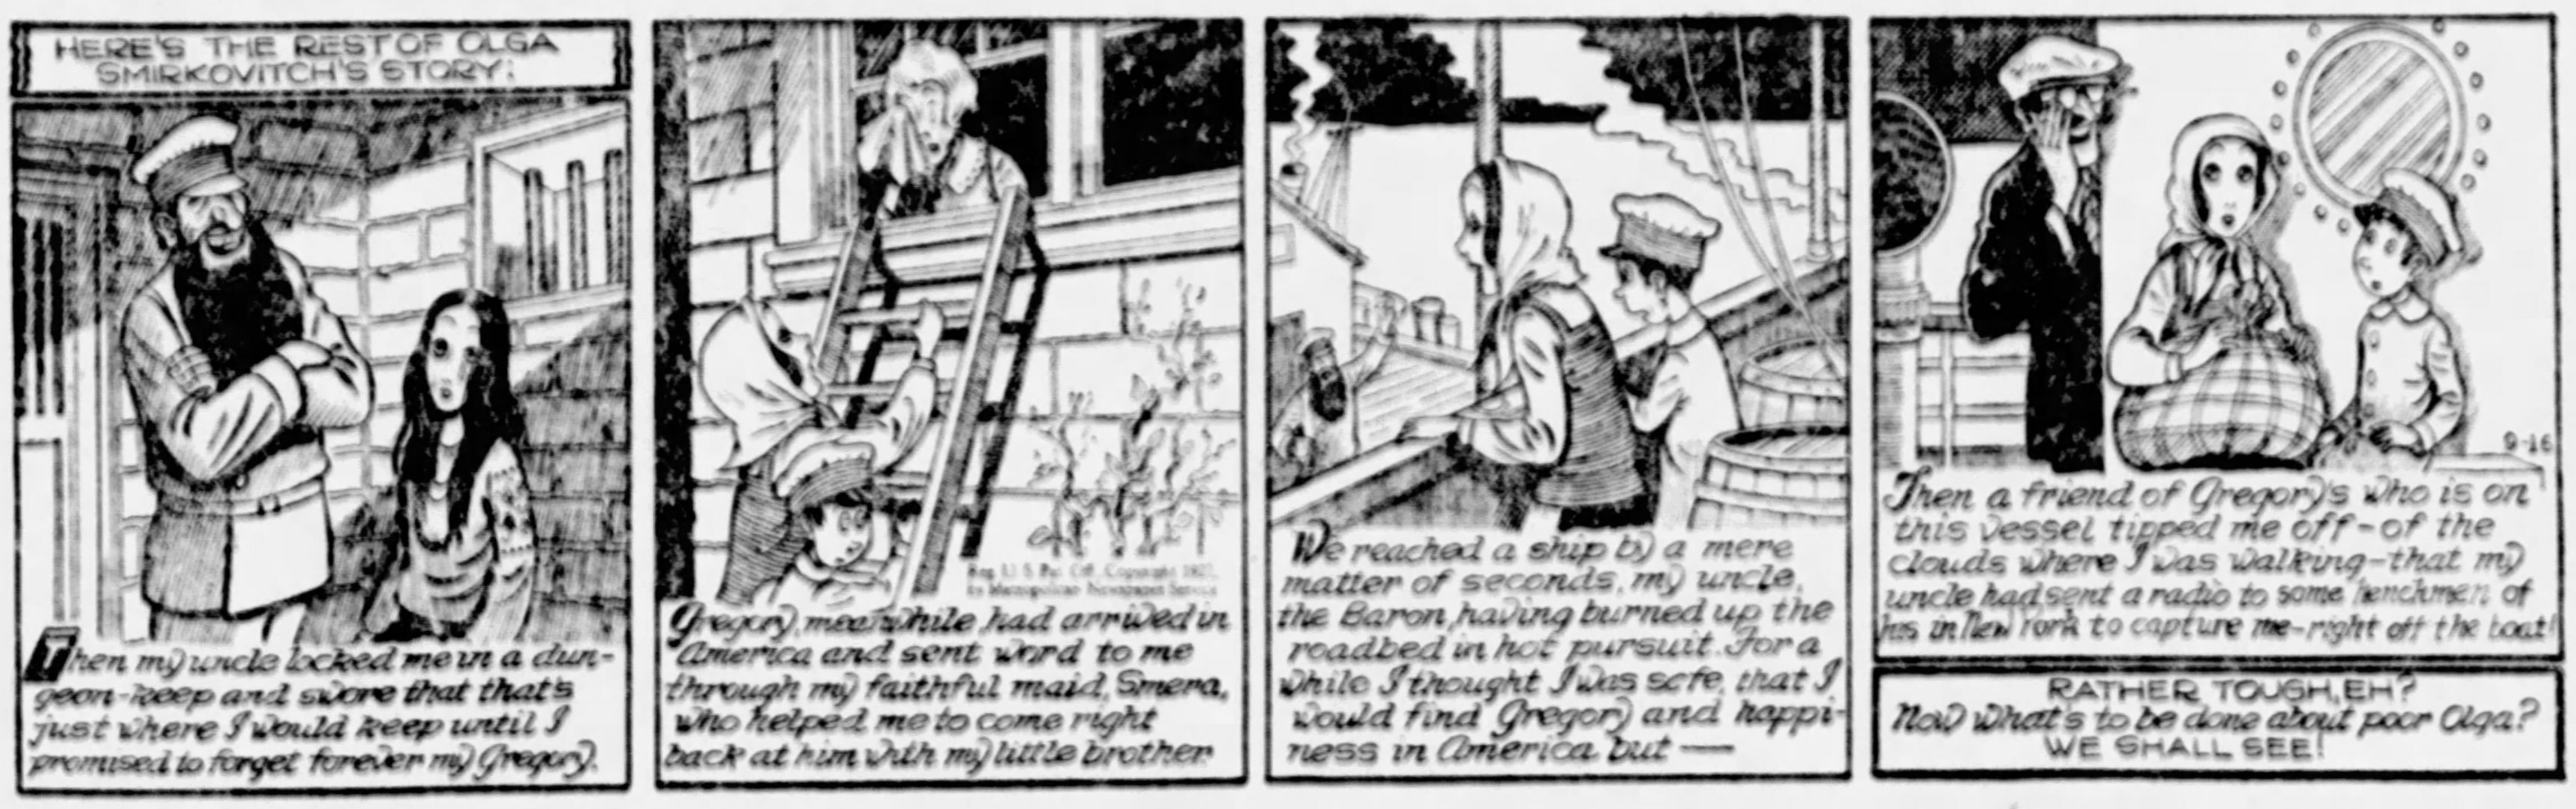
ELLA CINDERS

That Wicked Uncle



HERE'S THE REST OF OLGA SMIRKOVITCH'S STORY:
Then my uncle locked me in a dungeon-keep and swore that that's just where I would keep until I promised to forget forever my Gregory.
Gregory meanwhile had arrived in America and sent word to me through my faithful maid, Smera, who helped me to come right back at him with my little brother
We reached a ship by a mere matter of seconds, my uncle, the Baron, having burned up the roadbed in hot pursuit. For a while I thought I was safe, that I would find Gregory and happiness in America but—
Then a friend of Gregory's who is on this vessel tipped me off—of the clouds where I was walking—that my uncle had sent a radio to some henchmen of his in New York to capture me—right off the boat!
RATHER TOUGH, EH? Now what's to be done about poor Olga? WE SHALL SEE!

ON "STICKING TOGETHER."

Although most COUPLES
In LOVE say they are STUCK on each other,
Many don't STICK together
For LIFE.
They seem to Stick only while the
STICKING is GOOD—
And then DIVORCE.
Divorce proves different
Things in DIFFERENT Cases. Yet it always Brings to light ONE thing
In ALL CASES. And that Is: Whatever the couple MARRIED FOR, there was Not ENOUGH of it.
STICKING TOGETHER is
Not so much, actually,
A matter of EMOTIONS
As a matter of FACTS.
Love RISES and falls.
PRINCIPLE stands
Firm. And it takes
CHARACTER to STICK.
When women MARRY for MONEY, they expect
A LOT. And when men
Marry for LOVE and Companionship they Expect it to LAST.
A little won't
SATISFY either,
But a lot will work
Like GLUE.

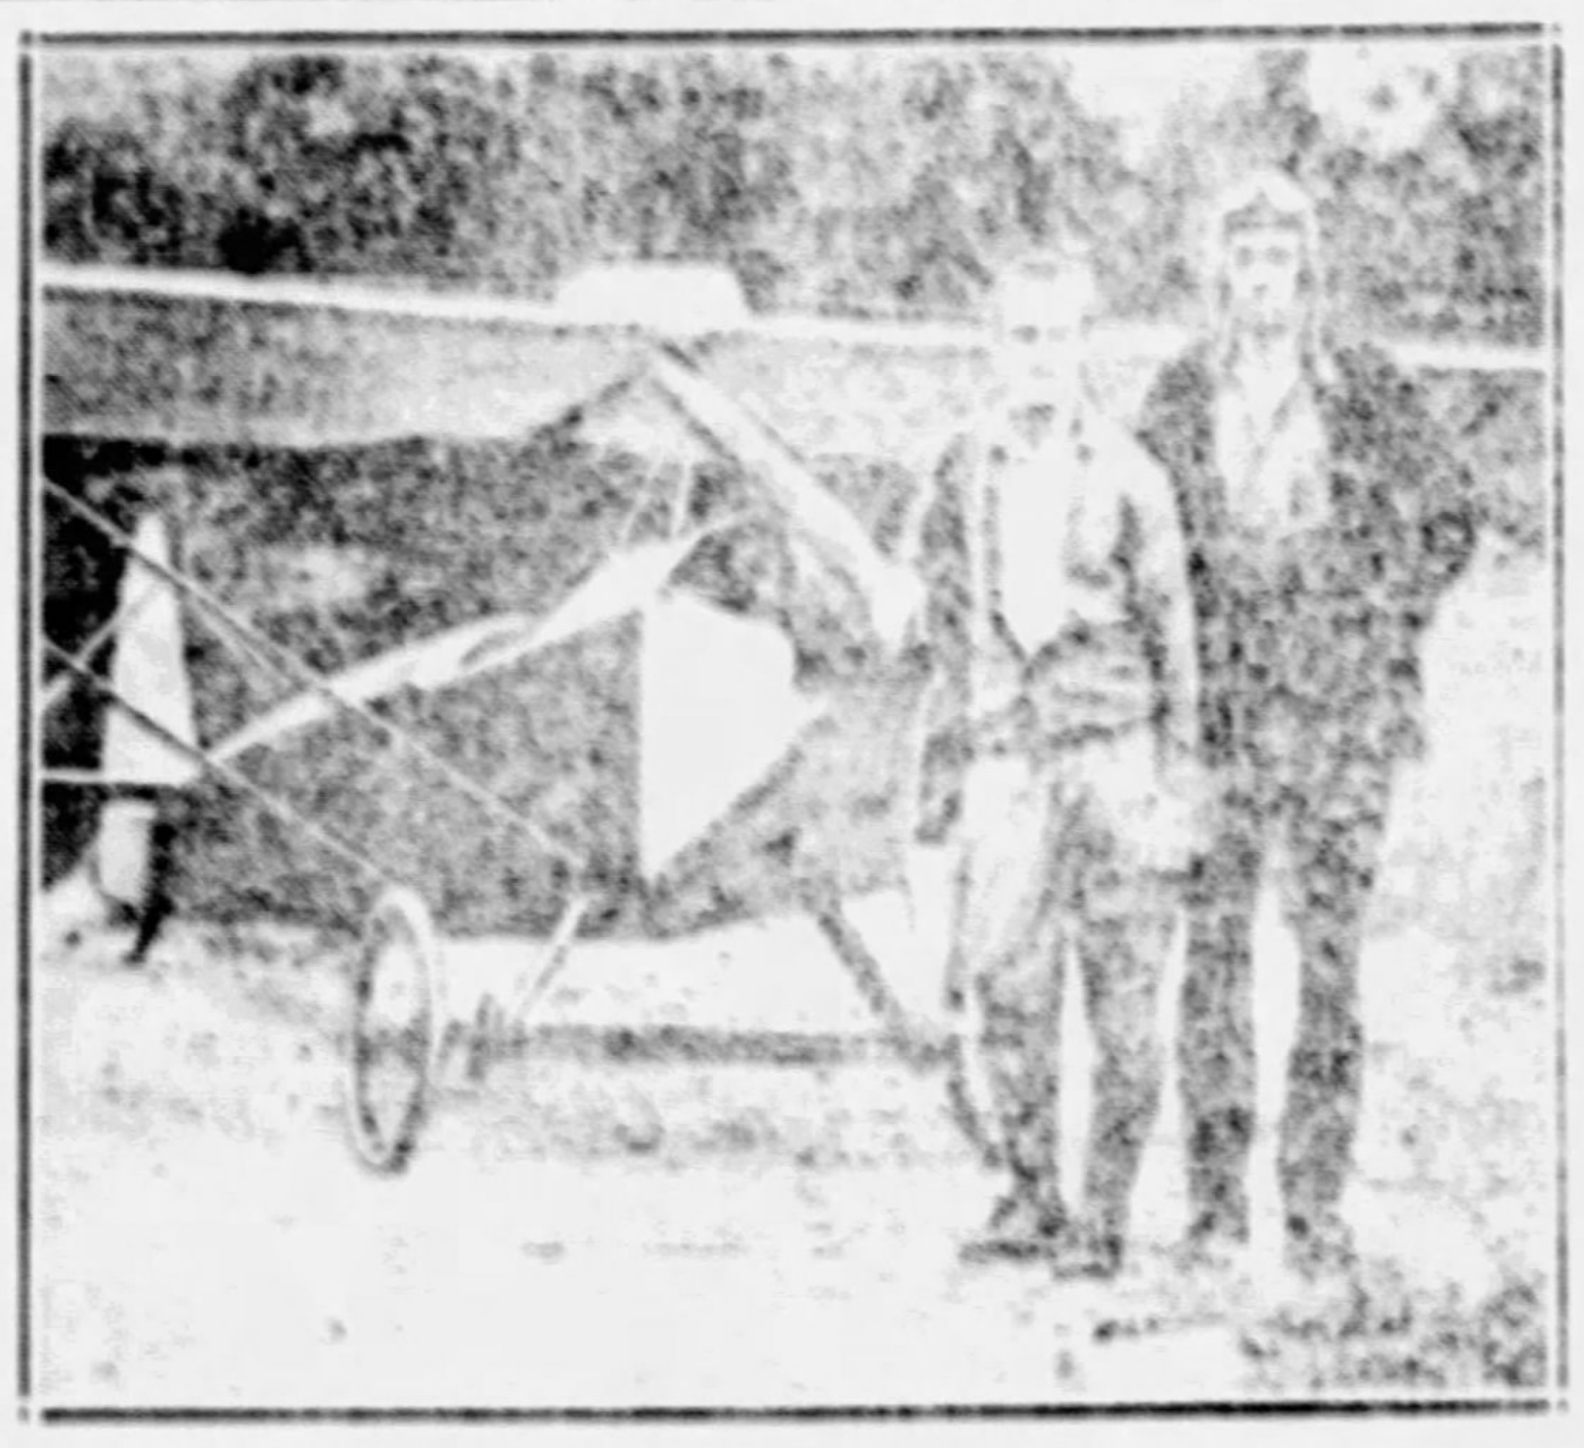
It May Come

One Plane for One Man, Small Price.



THEY BUILT IT. PRICE $600

Charles Hill and Michael Tortolini built the tiny airplane, part of which you see in this picture. They did the work on it themselves, at a total cost of $600. It goes 75 miles an hour, beating any express train, and can be stored away in an ordinary garage.

This is encouraging, showing what two ingenious young men can do, and perhaps foreshadowing the future when each man will have his own flying machine, the machines turned out by the tens of thousands and costing not much more than a first-class bicycle.

No man can predict the future and no man can set any limit with certainty as to what the future may produce.

In this little machine a man actually can fly at the rate of 75 miles an hour with a very light engine.

Engines are made now so that one horse-power, which in a horse would weight more than a thousand pounds, weights only a pound and a half, and in some cases only a pound and two ounces.

The ancients believed in Mercury, the god of commerce, and they showed him with wings on his heels that enabled him to fly through the air, "The Winged Mercury."

It is not beyond the limits of possibility that the individual man may possess a flying apparatus that will transport him through the air at almost any speed desirable, enabling him to alight gradually and safely.

What men CAN IMAGINE they CAN DO.

And we are imagining a great many new things in these days of scientific wonders.

Rerouting Cars Is Giving Passengers Their Rights

Rerouting of several street car lines, to be put into operation September 27, is expected to have a beneficial effect on the traffic situation. It involves use of Grant street for additional car lines. Whether or not it shall result as expected remains to be demonstrated. The move cannot make the situation worse, but it may give street car patrons better service.

For a long time residents of certain communities in the South Hills have been compelled to endure the delays of transferring or walk several squares from Second avenue to the center of the business district. An alternate choice is to remain on the car and walk from the Third avenue stop, near Wood street. Returning home means a walk the same distance.

Car riders are entitled to ride to points within reasonable walking distance of where they wish to go. Four or five or more squares in the business center is not reasonable. So, even if the new routing adds to the traffic in the center of the city, it will give passengers a haul they have a right to claim.

The traffic problem never will be satisfactorily solved under present conditions. Too many physical factors are a bar. The Smithfield street bridge "bottle neck" is one of the most serious obstacles as far as South Side and South Hills traffic is concerned.

The new remedy, at least, will not make the passengers bear the brunt of the burden.

The Yanks Have Come

It looks as if the head-shakers over the American Legion Convention in Paris were due for a disappointment.

Several thousand ex-service men have been roaming the French capital, yet predictions of trouble remain unfulfilled.

There is nothing to indicate that even when the additional boatloads of Legionnaires arrive and the party gets going strong anything untoward will happen.

Probably the effervescence of these young Americans is much more thoroughly tempered with common sense than might be suspected. Also wives, mothers and sisters are along in great numbers.

Moreover, the spirit permeating the peace-time A. E. F. is a sober desire to bear a message of good-will to the nation for which these men fought—not to go on a big Parisian spree.

So the special court of Legion officials set up to shepherd the ebullient members, if any, finds itself so far without a job. And Paris enthusiastically prepares to help the Legionnaires make their great meeting a brilliant success.

Prohibition Gab

What bug is it that bites the men charged with enforcement of the Volstead law and makes them talk, talk, talk?

Here's Seymour Lowman, newly appointed boss of the Government prohibition forces, running true to form and spouting a lot of meaningless chatter.

"There are many incompetent and crooked men in the service." Of course there are. "Bribery is rampant." Naturally.

"The great mass of Americans do not drink liquor. There are two fringes of society who are hunting for booze. They are the so-called upper crust and the down-and-out in the slums. They are dying off fast from poison hooch."

Besides being wretched grammar, that statement is silly nonsense.

For the "bribery and corruption" part of his effusion Mr. Lowman was promptly called on the carpet by Secretary Mellon. Rumors are abroad in Washington that he is going to lose his job.

He shouldn't lose it for admitting what everybody knows is true—that crookedness is rife in the prohibition enforcement ranks.

But he deserves to be bounced for inflicting on the public

Garrett P Serviss Says:

Swimming

"A friend of mine contends that it is easier to swim in deep water than in shoal, owing to the increased pressure from the depth. While I contend that the depth would have no effect on or near the surface where the swimmer would naturally be, for the depth would not increase or decrease the buoyancy there, buoyancy being a matter of density and not of depth, sea water being more buoyant than fresh. S. S."

YOU have won a victory without perceiving it. Increase of depth means increase of pressure, but the pressure is exerted in all directions, upward as well as downward. It is true that this produces some compression, or increase of density (and consequently of buoyancy) of the water at a great depth, but the increase is so slight that its practical effects are, for ordinary purposes, negligible. At the depth of a mile the density of water is increased only about three-quarters of 1 per cent. A swimmer at that depth in the sea would get the benefit of that slight increase of buoyancy; but at the surface the effect would be nil.

A widespread impression exists that deep water is easier than shallow to swim in. The boys in my time almost universally believed that, but I think the reason was because as soon as they got "beyond their depth," and could no longer touch bottom with their toes, they swam the harder without being conscious of the extra effectiveness put into their strokes by glimpses of the yawning darkness beneath them. I never knew that I really could swim, notwithstanding my practice in two or three feet of water, until I suddenly found myself passing over the verge of a 20-foot hole.

You have correctly stated the reason why it is easier to swim in salt water than in fresh; the salt water is heavier and consequently more buoyant. The buoyant force on any body is equal to the weight of the amount of water displaced by that body. Now, the weight of a cubic foot of clear, fresh water is about 62½ pounds and that of a cubic foot of sea water about 64 pounds (on account of the dissolved salt). Suppose, then, that we have a body exactly one cubic foot in bulk and weighing more than 62½ but less than 64 pounds. If that body were thrown into a lake or pond it would sink; but if thrown into the ocean it would float. It is not the greater depth of the ocean that would cause the floating, but the greater density.

A perpetually recurring question is whether a ship sinking in the sea sinks all the way to the bottom, or hangs suspended in equilibrium part of the way down. The answer of physics is that the sinking continues to the bottom, but many hesitate to believe this, because they confuse the effect of the increase of pressure at great depths with buoyancy.

Once Overs

Buy Carefully

WHEN your efforts at home improvement are to impress a chance or a special guest, very likely they are superficial.

Perhaps you buy a lot of things that do not fit into the scheme of your home decoration.

Possibly you see an odd chair or a quaint lamp or a table cover or some other article that strikes your fancy and you get it, only to realize when you get it home that it spoils the effect of everything else.

Colors clash, styles are mixed, cool colors in the cool room and warm tones in the sunniest room in the house, all these are thoughtless mistakes.

But company is coming, and with the best of intentions, you fill the spaces with things you find swearing at one another.

Fewer things, perhaps more expensive, but each purchased for lasting value or beauty, would prove less extravagant in the end.

In your haste you are spending foolishly—not well.

BE A PITTSBURGH BOOSTER
To Your Friends in Other Cities

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 16.—This has been called the biggest hick city in the world. The same thing has been said of New York. Also Paris. And all the darn things continue to grow. In many ways it is a strange, hybrid metropolis and there seems no way of explaining it. In baseball patois it is "a phenom."

It is a beautiful spot but there is evidence it has not been able to step from swaddling clothes. You see men with trousers tucked in their boots and wide pampas hats jostling with dandies of the Fifth avenue type. Lean-to shacks are around the corner from magnificent office structures. Flivvers with cart-like ranch trailers are parked with gaudy limousines.

There are hotels as fine as those of New York and old-fashioned inns where patrons sit at office street windows. You see as many odd human misfits in an hour in Pershing square as you see in the same length of time in front of the Cafe de la Paix.

These are, of course, superficialities but they make their distinct impression. What impresses the stranger chiefly is this easy gaited town, with practically no manufacturing potentialities, is only a few notches from topping the census column. It has ridden rough shod over despairing obstacles. Its optimism is sublime.

The climate is a big factor but not the deciding one in the amazing growth. A million jokes have been pulled at the expense of its "boosting." They are not exaggerations. It is difficult to find a man or woman who has lived here a year—even a hardened Broadwayite—who does not turn "booster." They just can't help it.

Los Angeles, I believe, pulled itself up to national attention by its own boot-straps and offered hospitality along with its climate. This twin combination played a big part in changing it from an average sized city into a metropolis now nearing a second million.

I do not believe there is a city in America striving so earnestly to make a stranger feel at home. Los Angeles tapped the mother lode of friendliness and made it pay handsome dividends. You may call this "hokum" but you cannot laugh off its results.

* * *

The critical may yelp that because I record impressions in newspapers, Los Angeles was applying a coat of soft soap. But this is not true. I found the same cordial attitude among those who didn't know or care whether I was a real estate salesman or a book agent.

* * *

Los Angeles is a town of trick eateries. One on a prominent boulevard is shaped exactly like a derby hat and is topped by a sign "Eat in the Hat." A chicken dinner sign says: "Eat with your fingers." There are other cafes shaped like a wind mill with a revolving vane, an ice cream freezer with turning crank, Eskimo igloos dripping with papier mache icicles, a merry-go-round with revolving tables and chairs, a jail with iron bars and waiters in prison garb, a bull pen with a live bull and matadors and picadors waiting tables, and so on. Cafes have such names as The Lost Shack, The Frying Pan, The Covered Wagon, Stove Pipe Charlie's and The Barney Google. Many drug stores serve breakfast, lunch and dinner.

The policemen here are mostly farm boys with apple cheeks and an inclination to call you "Bub." They wear khaki uniforms and have a grinning cordiality. Yesterday a man in whose car I was driving stuck out his hand as a signal. The crossing cop with no effort to be funny shook his hand warmly and waved him on.

* * *

Easterners are just beginning to learn the summer climate of Los Angeles surpasses that of the winter season. It rarely rains in summer. The sun shines brightly every day and in the evening light overcoats are often necessary and blankets essential for comfortable sleeping.

* * *

Notice how naturally a writer drops into bragging about the climate the first day! You can imagine what would happen at the end of the first year.

Los Angeles

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Few people realize the tremendous growth of Southern California. There has been so much blowing by speculators and so much advertising that conservative eastern people are inclined to look at the matter as a huge joke.

Los Angeles, however, and surrounding territories, is no joke.

Here is a rapidly growing community which, a few years ago, was but a hamlet.

Some idea of its size may be gathered through the fact that Los Angeles county is the wealthiest county per capita in America.

Some other facts have recently appeared in an advertisement of this territory, such as the statement that one-third of the people in California live in Los Angeles county.

Also that Los Angeles is the largest city on the Pacific coast. This county produces more agricultural wealth annually than any other county in the nation.

It is hard to realize that almost every known product is made in Los Angeles county. This statement was challenged the other day by one who said they had no diamonds here, but investigation showed that a form of diamonds known as the Bakersfield diamond was produced in Los Angeles county.

The city has grown 130 per cent in six years and now contains 1,246,000 people.

The harbor of Los Angeles is the world's greatest oil exporting and lumber importing port. The city produces industrially more than a billion and one-quarter dollars worth of new wealth every year.

It is the fifth city in America in new construction activity. It is growing faster numerically and on a percentage basis than New York City.

It is a city of homes and the efforts of real estate agents to sell lots to people have resulted in a multitude of home owners, so that the community rests upon a much sounder basis than those places where people live in flats and rent property.

Added to all this it is a clean city as very little bituminous coal is consumed in heating or manufacture.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

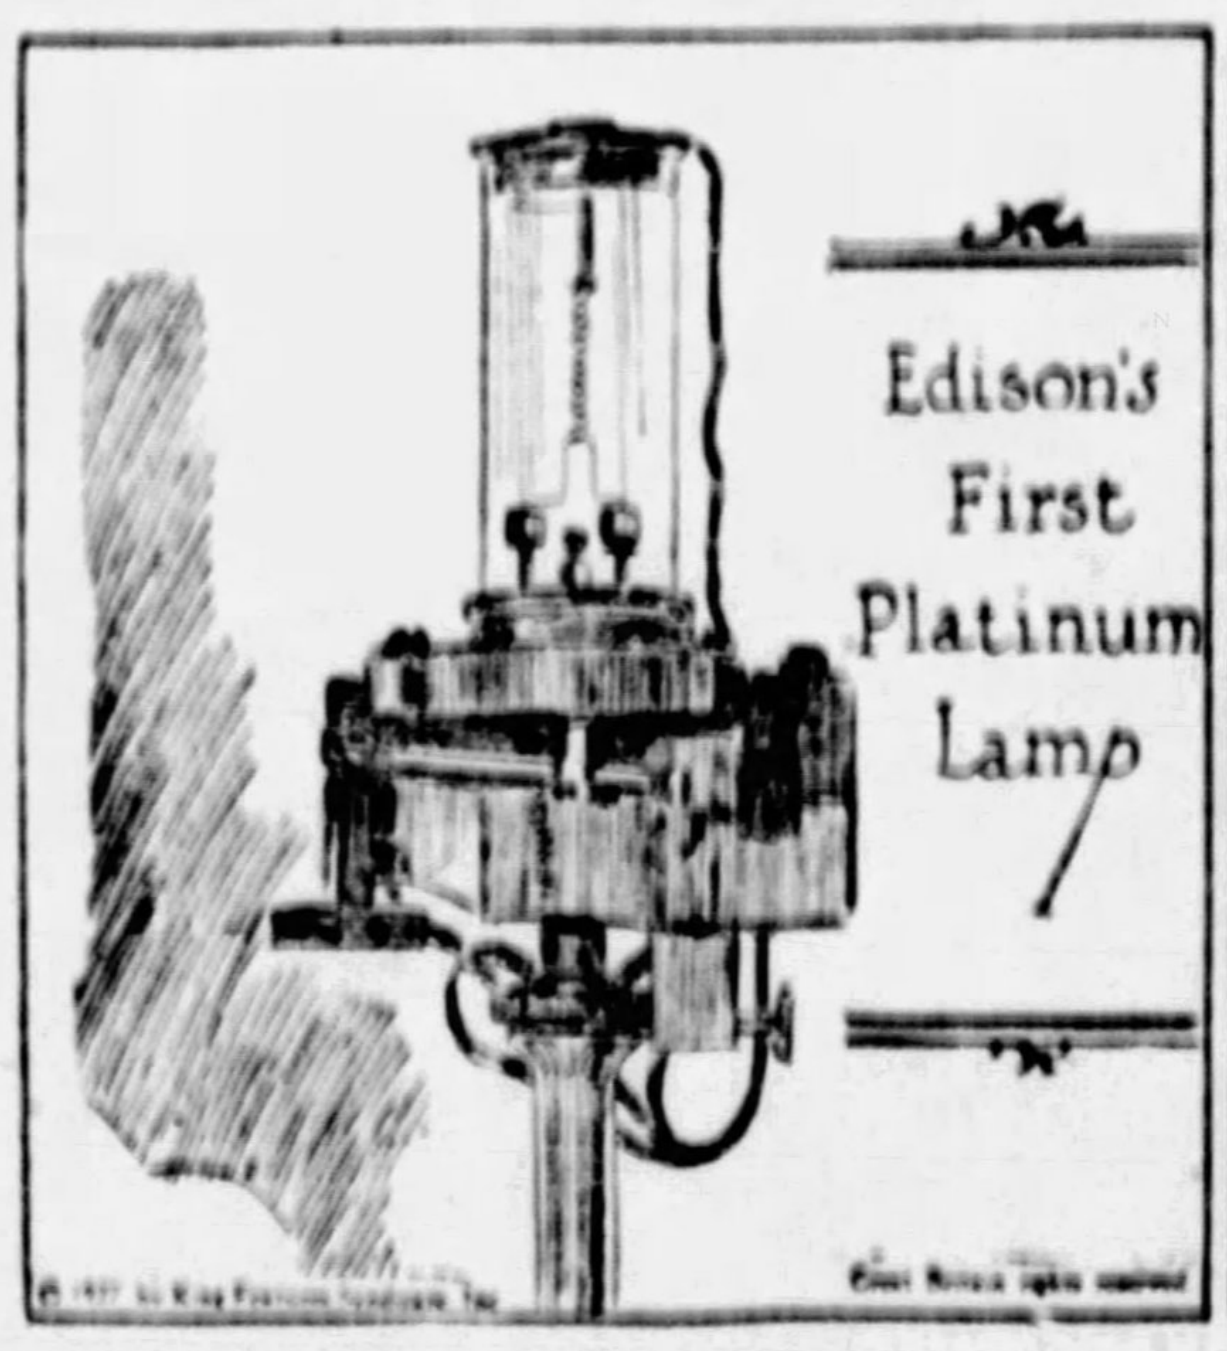
Bright Banners

BRIGHT banners stir upon the breeze today down all the windings of the narrow street, to every eye they flaunt their message gay and with good cheer each passer's glance they greet. Below the shadows lie as somber still within the confines of that ancient way, the walls of stone rise up, as grim and chill, as were those shades, those walls on yesterday. Yet all is changed; the banners here have wrought rare magic with their flying folds a-gleam, such magic as a brave and happy thought can fashion in a shadow spirit's dream. A brave and happy thought can lift its wings against dull life like banners here that spread their glow until the raptured being sings, forgetting every specter, every dread.

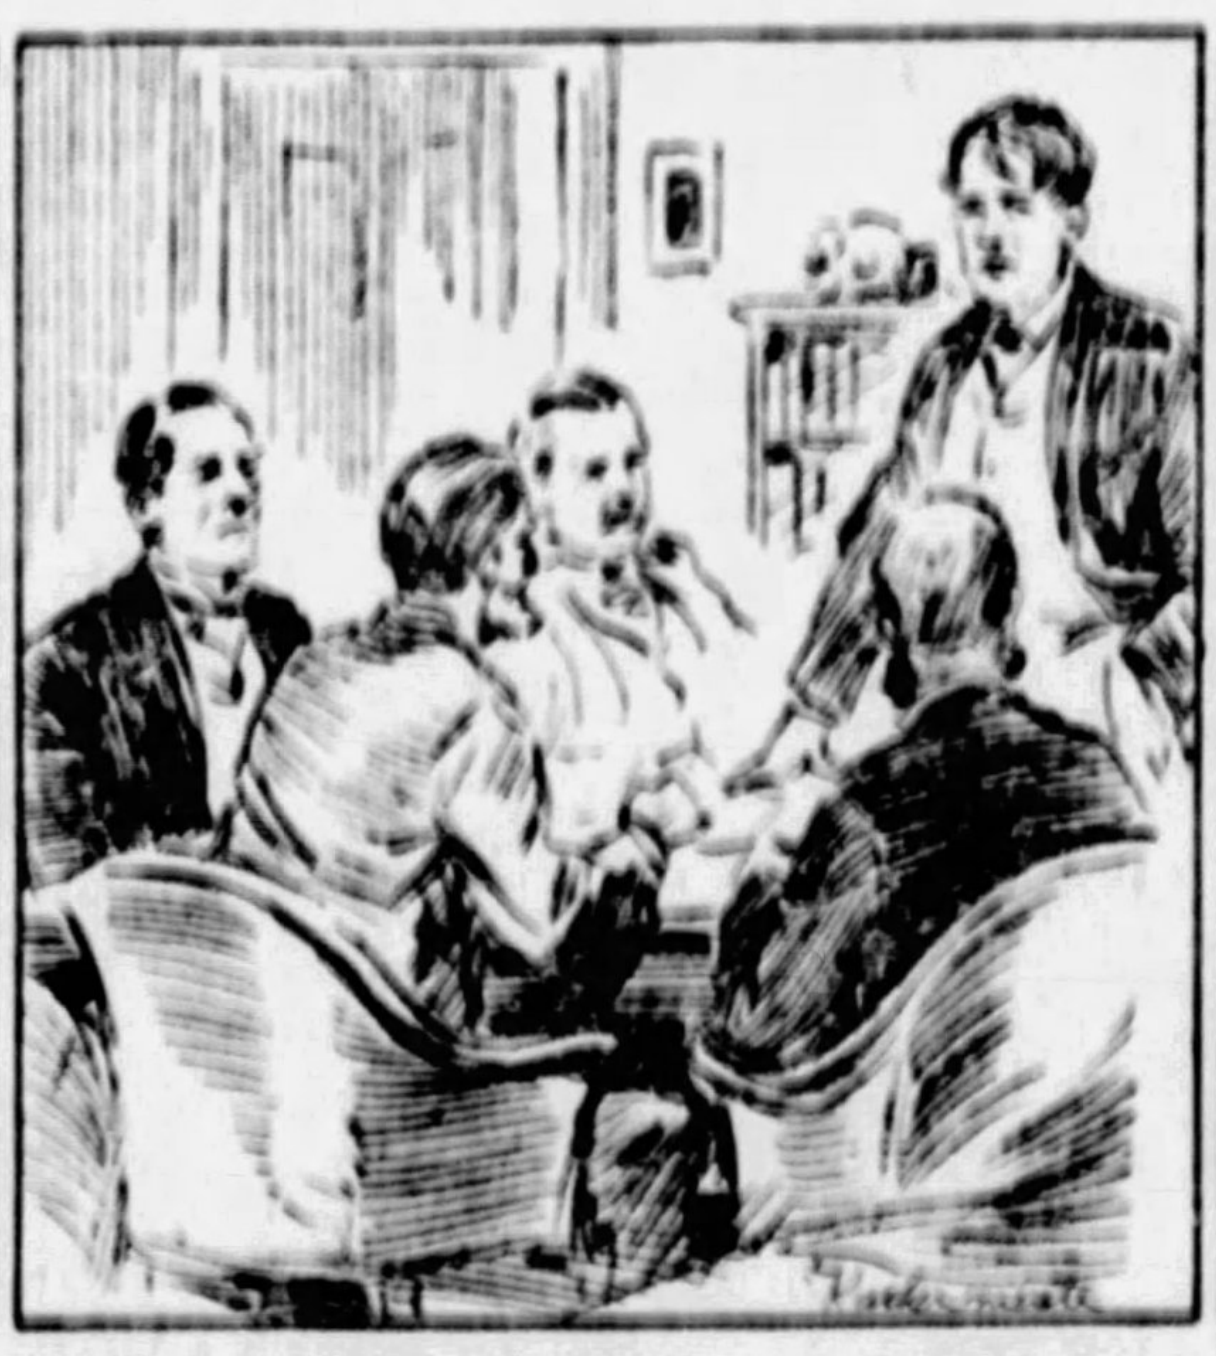
THE LIFE OF THOMAS A. EDISON

(Authorized and Endorsed by Mr. Edison)

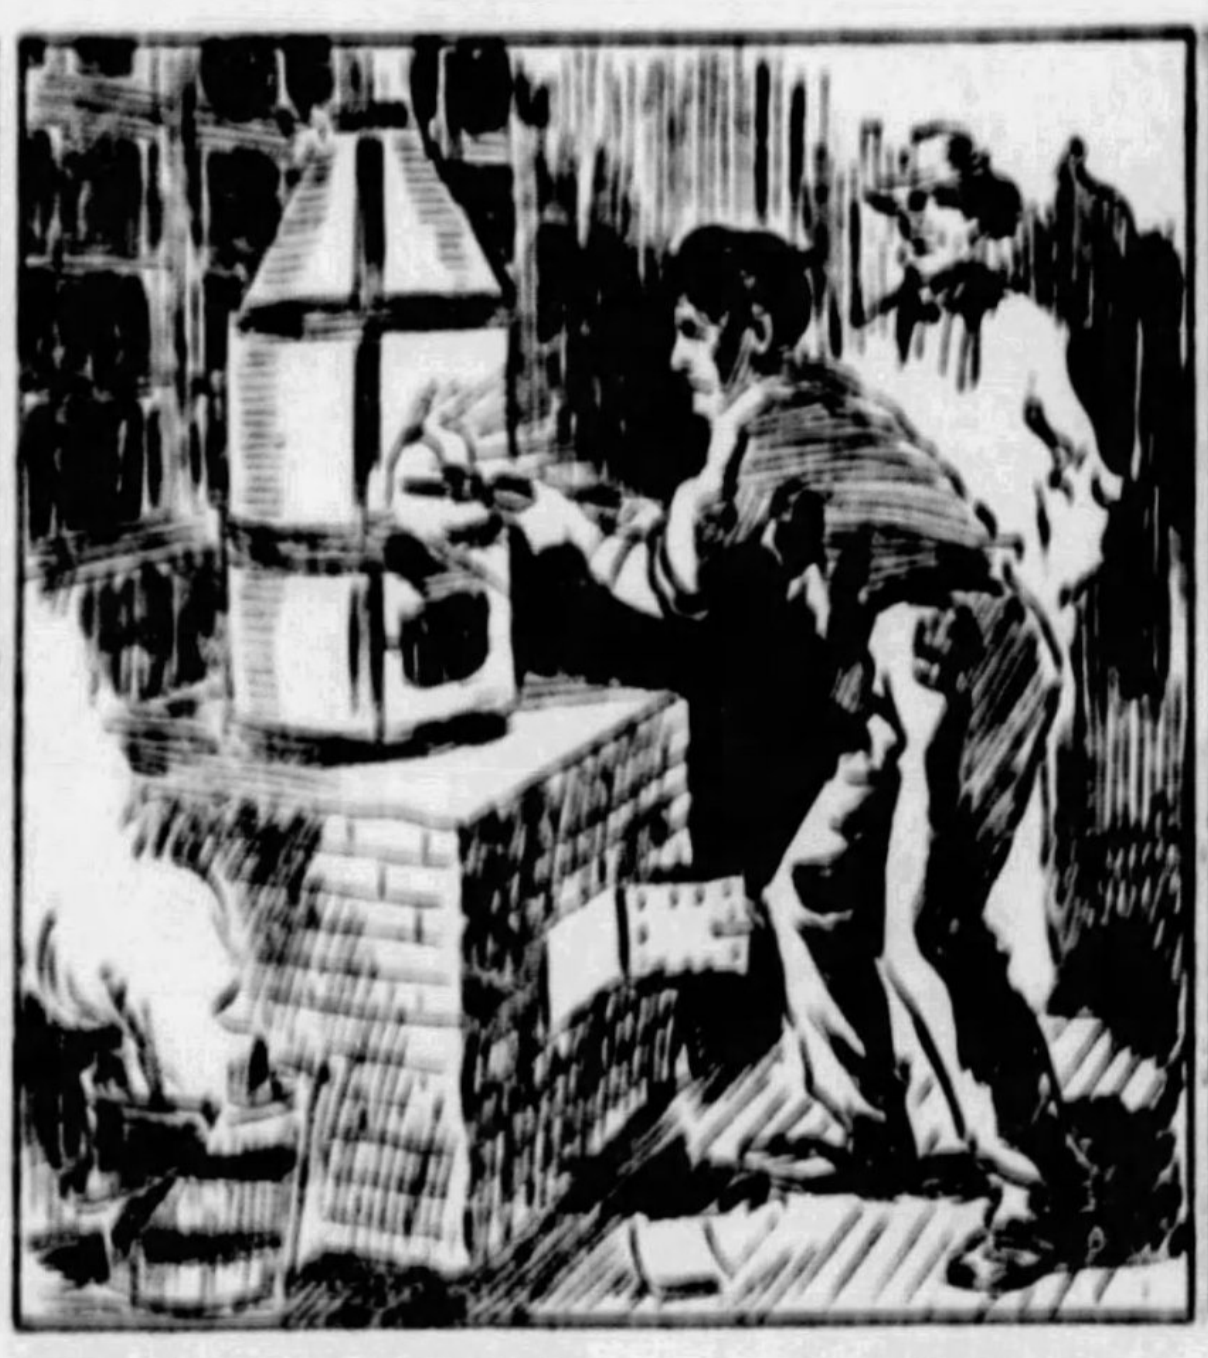
Text by Arthur J. Palmer
Drawings by Frank Kuchenmeister



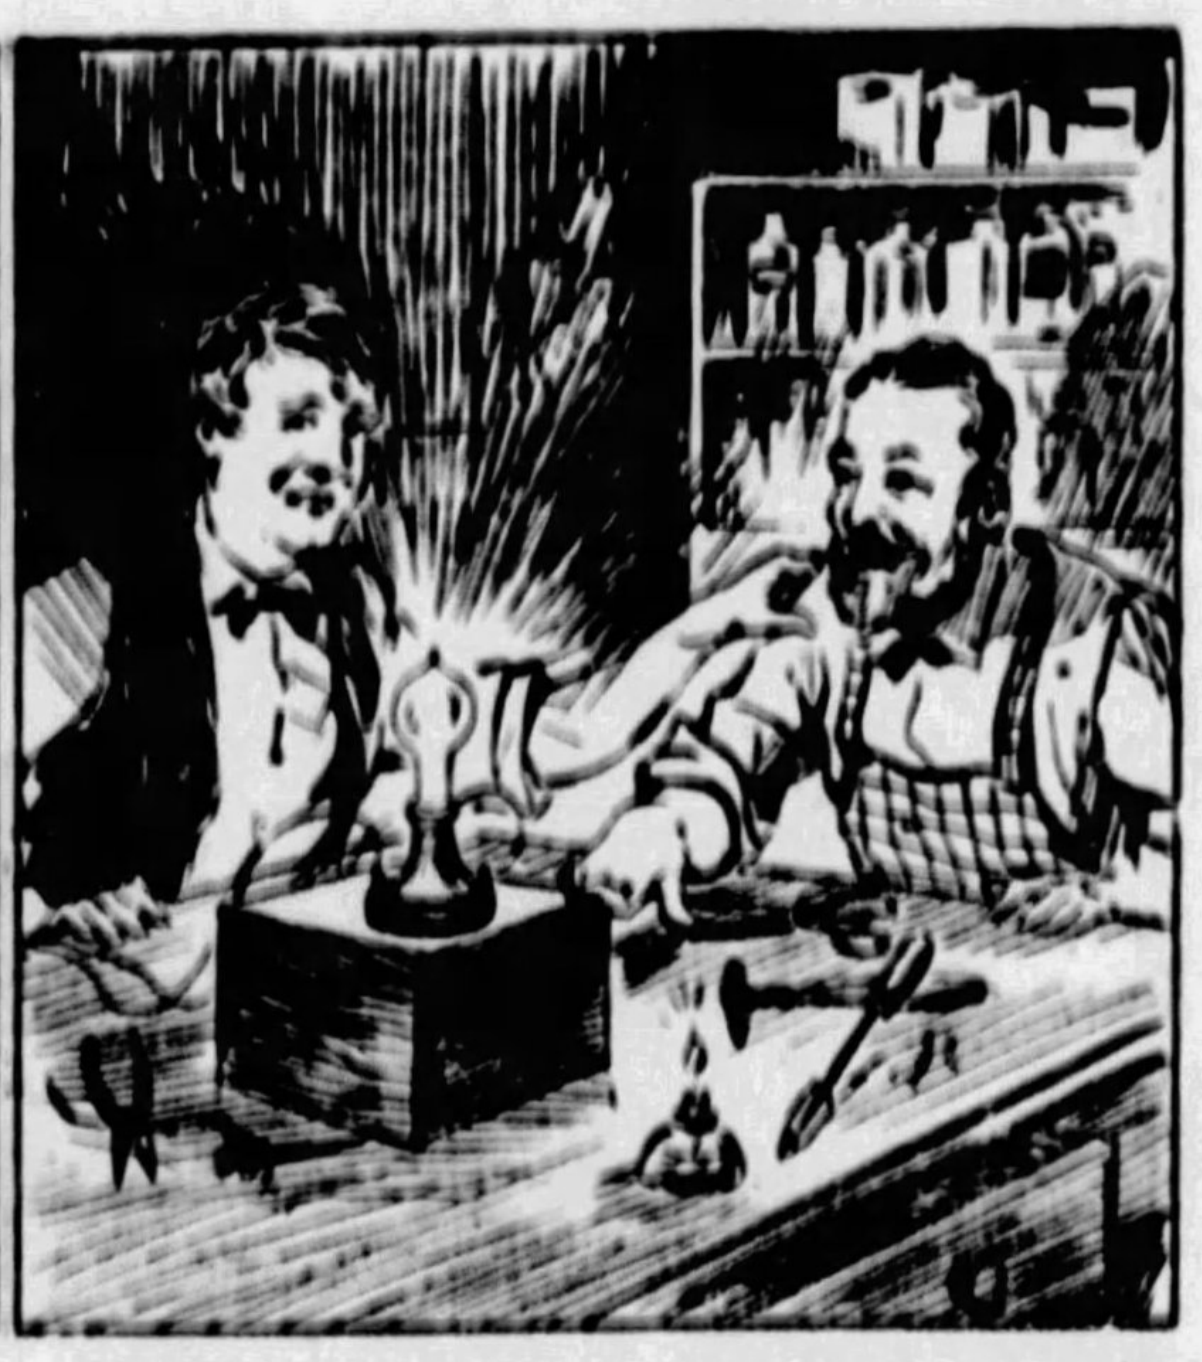
EDISON turned from his early experiments with carbon. It seemed an unsatisfactory substance, but he never lost faith in it. He tried platinum in the lamp shown here, which was made in 1878 and patented April, 1879. This was the first incandescent lamp patent obtained



DURING the month that Edison applied for his first lamp patent a group of capitalists met the inventor and planned an electric light company. These moneyed men had the vision to see that revolutionary changes were about to take place in the field of lighting.



REALIZING that Edison was one of the most interesting "subjects" of the day, the newspapers and magazines kept him almost constantly in the public eye. A copy of Leslie's Weekly of 1880 contained the above picture of Edison experimenting with carbonized paper filaments.



SWITCHING from platinum back to carbon, Edison hit on the idea of carbonizing cotton thread for a filament. After many exhausting hours with his co-worker, Charles Batchelor, he produced a practical incandescent electric lamp, October 21, 1879.
